CLERK'S BODY WHIRLS FROM A SKYSCRAPER

FIND REMAINS COLD.

A new loop death mystery, already clouded by conflicting evidence pointing to suicide and murder, literally dropped out of the sky last night.

At 8:10 o'clock H. H. McKinzie and Sam Johnson, negro waiters employed in the Tip Top Inn restaurant in the Pullman building, were walking south toward Jackson boulevard through the alley between Wabash and Michigan avenues. They were within fifty feet of the boulevard end of the alley and flanked by the Wellington hotel to the west and the Railway Exchange building to the east, when there was a banging overhead.

Drags Companion Away.

Johnson looked up and then jumped forward, dragging his companion. A few feet behind them, with a thump and a crackle of smashing bones, a man's body landed in the alley. The negroes stopped only long enough to make sure that what had dropped was human. A few seconds later they were breathlessly telling of the "accident" to Edward Redd, a south park policeman, at Michigan avenue and Jackson boulevard.

Redd went into the alley. He stooped over the body.

"Accident h——l!" he yelled. "It's a murder!"

Three things the policeman had noticed: First, the body was cold; second, there was a gag in the dead man's mouth, a handkerchief drawn taut and knotted at the back of his neck; third, every one of his pockets was turned inside out.

Redd did some quick telephoning and by the time a sizable crowd had collected at the mouth of the alley every available detective in the loop district was on the job. There was also a cordon of uniformed men drawn around the block.

The dead man, who appeared to have been about 35 years old, was lying with his feet toward the boulevard, rather nearer the wall of the Wellington than the Railway Exchange building. He was in his shirt sleeves and the cuffs of his clean but cheap shirt were protected by celluloid wristlets. There was not even a pencil in his pockets.

The first suspicion was that the man might have been playing poker in a room in the hotel. That theory was discarded when a detective picked up a notebook near the body.

Notebook Reveals Identity.

> I am F. C. White, 2501 North Kedzie avenue.
> E. E. White, 3337 Dickens avenue.
> (My brother.)

Other entries in the memorandum book disclosed the fact that White was employed as a clerk by the Quaker Oats company, the offices of which occupy the entire sixteenth floor of the Railway Exchange building.

By the time the identity of the victim had thus apparently been established most of the lower floor of the building, as well as every room in the hotel, had been searched.

Offices in Darkness.

Detectives hurried to the sixteenth floor of the Railway Exchange. They found the doors of the Quaker Oats quarters locked and the offices in darkness. A pass key gave them entrance.

Everything seemed in order. The alley windows, like those fronting Michigan avenue, were closed. The only sign of a struggle was an overturned telephone lying on a desk opposite the sixth window from the south end of the alley.

Window Found Open.

The Quaker Oats company also uses the so-called seventeenth floor of the Railway Exchange building, a sort of deckhouse on the roof of the building proper, to which the elevators do not run. On this floor a window leading to a fire escape was found open.

If White had been working overtime there was no indication of his activities. Nor did the police find his hat or coat until the detectives obtained another set of keys and searched the lockers of the Quaker Oats employés. In one of the

UNYOKED BRIDE ASKS BALM OF BUTLER STORKE

DIARY BREATHES LOVE.

Butler Storke, the one time boy wizard of La Salle street, has struck the rocks again.

Young Storke, who is a son of Dr. Albert French Storke of Oak Park, shaved off his mustache and discarded his tortoise shell glasses a while ago. He left the adventurous life of the financial section and took up tamer pursuits.

Last evening, as the county employés were closing up their desks for the day, a document was handed to a clerk in the Circuit court. It was the praecipe for a $50,000 suit for breach of promise. The defendant is Butler Storke, financially famed. The suit was filed in behalf of Miss Rose F. Holland of 1456 North Maplewood avenue. Her attorney is William A. Cunnea.

It appears Miss Holland played an important part in the career of Storke, which, if short, could hardly be called uneventful. She has kept a diary of the daily events in her life since she first saw him—the day after Christmas—standing over the switchboard at the telephone station in the Northwestern depot.

NEW DASH INTO LIMELIGHT.

Storke first acquired the limelight when he sought to rehabilitate the Wawasee inn with only the shadow of the required capital. His mad voyage through La Salle street left shrewd bank officials helpless in his wake. With the announcement of some of his wild financial movements came the breaking of his engagement by his fiancée, Miss Marian Gray, daughter of Vernon Gray of Oak Park.

Then came threats of Joliet from the money handlers of La Salle street, and Butler was able to get $30,000 from his grandmother in Milwaukee. The federal court gave her the money back, and Butler returned to La Salle street, where a warrant for his arrest on a charge of forgery was sworn out by one of his former employers.

DREAM, BUT NOT SWEET.

In her diary Miss Holland tells of the rapid progress of their love, of their engagement after two days' acquaintance, of a story in which he attempted to explain certain intricacies of the Wisconsin marriage laws, of a visit to the Lombard hotel, when she thought she was married, of her awakening to find the marriage license a dream.

Miss Holland says she is 28 years old. She has lived in Chicago about a year. Her mother died a few months after they reached Chicago and left her alone. She has worked with the Chicago Telephone company.

TO SAVE OTHER GIRLS.

"The way I feel about the suit is this," said Miss Holland. "It may not be the modest thing to do. But I'm the last girl he's going to treat this way. I have saved more than one from him since I learned my lesson."

Storke, ordinarily monosyllabic when speaking to newspapers, said, when asked about the suit:

"Bee-You-En-Kay. That's what it is. Bunk. I never knew her."

"Storke carried a poem in his pockets," said Miss Holland. "He used it as the first shot in the attack on my affections. The poem is entitled 'Just You.' It begins:

I only want one friend, just one,
Some understanding soul,
Who knows my moods and attitudes,
And loves me, part and whole.

The last stanza reads:

Like this will amply do.
A friend in need, in thought, in deed,
In other words, just you.

FROM HER DIARY.

"Dec. 26—He is so refined, I said to myself, and he says such nice things about girls. He had been in the hospital for thirty-three weeks, and was out about two months. I noticed that four fingers were missing from his left hand and felt very sorry. He is so young and handsome, I thought. Isn't it too bad? At first I listened with polite indifference to him. Then he showed me the verses.

"He came home with me—a privilege

Nearly 100 nerve shattered drug users in the bridewell hospital were given the scare of their lives last night when fire was discovered in an old two story brick building 200 feet away.

Simultaneously with the appearance of the flames every light in the institution went out. The combination of darkness and smoke was too much for the patients, and they pleaded frantically to be released from the hospital building.

Most of the guards were busy trying to check the flames before the arrival of firemen, but a few plunged into the darkened hospital corridors and did their best to quiet the shrieking inmates. Some were taken out into the yard, but quickly returned when firemen promised that the flames would soon be under control.

"Trusty" Discovers Blaze.

Charles Kray, a "trusty," was in the receiving room when the lights went out. He hurried to the basement to notify the engineer, and when he returned saw smoke pouring from a storeroom. Bernard Galligan, night turnkey, turned in an alarm, which was quickly followed by a second alarm and a "special."

Within a few feet of the storeroom is the "confinement cell." Kray plunged through the smoke, released three men who were locked in it, and guided them to the outer door.

The first property destroyed was a lot of "citizens' clothes" of the 2,800 prisoners, kept in individual tagged bags in the storeroom. The records showing the amount of clothing receipted for also burned. Then the flames spread to the receiving room and broke through the ceiling, partially destroying the shoe factory on the second floor.

Inmates Clamor for Release.

As the engine companies arrived most of them clustered about the west cellhouse. Seeing the smoke and hearing the shouts of the firemen, the prisoners set up a yell to be released. Galligan ran through the corridors between the cells and assured them there was no danger.

Firebrands were carried by the wind, and for a time it was feared that the flames might spread to other buildings. After a sharp fight, however, they were confined to the structure where they started.

Crossed electric wires are believed to have caused the fire. A month ago the bridewell bakery caught fire, causing some alarm among the prisoners, but the flames were controlled quickly.

MR. PECK, 71, GETS DAY OFF; ELOPES WITH "GIRL" OF 73.

George W. Peck asked for a day off yesterday. He is 71 years old and during the time that he has been a clerk in the department of public works at the city hall such requests—from him—have been rare. He said he had a rather important matter to attend to.

Early in the afternoon he ventured, somewhat breathlessly, into the office of the marriage license clerk at Crown Point, Ind. Clinging firmly to his coat sleeve, came a little gray haired woman, her cheeks flushed with excitement.

"Elopers?" gasped the astonished clerk.

"Why, yes," confessed the bride-to-be.

So the entry was made—George W. Peck, 71, city employé; Elizabeth Sweet, 73, dressmaker. Then the two were directed by the clerk to the nearest parsonage, where they were married.

WRITER AND ACTRESS WED.

Samuel Hopkins Adams Becomes the Fourth Husband of Miss Jane Peyton.

New York, March 11.—[Special.]—Samuel Hopkins Adams and Miss Jane Peyton were married this morning at the home of Miss Josephine Wright Chapman, a friend of the bride. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. W. McCurdy, pastor of the Morningside Presbyterian church, in the presence of a few relatives and friends.

Mr. Adams is the fourth husband of Miss Peyton. Her last preceding husband was Guy Bates Post. Her marriage to him was annulled.

Miss Peyton has been prominent in a number of stage productions during recent years. When David Belasco presented "The Woman," she appeared in the title rôle. She has not acted this season.

Mr. Adams is best known for his magazine and newspaper articles. He has written many short stories as well as several novels, including "The Clarion."

MOTHERS MAKE BEST TEACHERS

School Board Members to Give Them More Time to Bear Children.

One discriminative ruling against school teachers who become mothers will be abandoned by the board of education. The injustice of the measure was called to the attention of the school management committee yesterday by Supt. Mrs. Ella Flagg Young. Mrs. Young was instructed to recommend a new rule to extend the time when a teacher's certificate expires in cases where absence is due to bearing children.

Three Years Present Limit.

At present a certificate expires three years after the teacher leaves her room. The board has a ruling that no woman may teach in the schools who has a baby under 2 years old.

Mrs. Carolyn P. Monblatt, 4934 Prairie avenue, wrote to Mrs. Young that her certificate will expire June 25 and asserted that her baby is not yet 2 years old.

Keeps Married Women Out.

"The present rule," she said, "makes it almost impossible for a married woman to follow her profession."

Mrs. Young admitted that the rule tended to keep married women out of the school system. Jacob M. Loeb asserted that he believed that married women are better qualified to teach. Mrs. Young will bring in her recommendation at the next meeting.

SLEEP DISAPPOINTS CROWD.

John G. Woolley Fails to Wake Up in Time to Lecture in Springfield, Ill.

Springfield, Ill., March 11.—While a crowd waited at the state arsenal last night, John G. Woolley of Madison, Wis., twice the Prohibition party candidate for president, and due to lecture under the auspices of a lyceum bureau, was sleeping in a hotel. Mr. Woolley in a letter postmarked Springfield and mailed early this morning says he laid down after dinner to take a nap and did not awaken until midnight.

Sklodowska Curie, the scientist, who with her husband, the late Prof. Curie of the University of Paris, discovered radium, is working in hospitals near the front with a complete radiographic equipment. She is described as intensely interested in her work and is being employed busily by the military surgeons.

IMPERIAL DECREE TO FREE POLES UNDER RUSSIAN RULE.

Predicted Czar Will Give Local Autonomy and Recognition of the Polish Language.

(By Cable to The Chicago Tribune.)

PETROGRAD, March 11.—It is believed that an important imperial decree is soon to be issued with reference to local autonomy for Poland and recognition of the Polish language.

Not long after the war began, Russia, Germany, and Austria told the Poles that they would be given their freedom. In some quarters it was believed that these would be empty promises and were made to gain support of the Poles in the present war.

Russia was first to show its hand, and the predicted imperial decree bears out the belief of John F. Smulski, one of Chicago's leading Poles, that Russia would be first to recognize officially the Poles now under its jurisdiction.

SPEED OF BRITISH LINER FOILS SUBMARINE ATTACK.

LONDON, March 11.—The Red Star line steamship Lapland, which sailed today for New York carrying 106 passengers, encountered a German submarine just after it had cleared the Mersey bar at the mouth of the Mersey, some twenty miles from the landing stage.

The submarine, which evidently was lying in wait for the liner, gave chase, but the officers of the Lapland sighted the enemy in time and distanced the undersea boat.

ALLIES DEMAND SMYRNA GIVE UP

Fleet Commander Wants Surrender in 24 Hours or Will Bombard Turkish City.

Washington, D. C., March 11.—A cablegram from Ambassador Morgenthau at Constantinople, dated yesterday and received at the state department late today, stated that the British vice admiral commanding the allied fleet in front of Smyrna gave the Turkish garrison twenty-four hours to surrender under threat of bombardment.

Dardanelles Attack Fails?

A wireless dispatch to the German embassy here today from Berlin says:

"Constantinople reports yesterday's bombardment of the Dardanelles was again unsuccessful, and the disposition at Constantinople is still hopeful.

APPEASE TURKS IN SYRIA.

(By Cable to The Chicago Tribune.)

"Passengers who arrived here yesterday from Syria say that the Turkish authorities have posted notices announcing that the allies are attacking the Dardanelles, which, the notices add, the Turks may have to evacuate. This move should not cause any alarm, the Turks declare, as it would be merely for strategic reasons and they would return to the Dardanelles victorious.

"Djemal Pasha has been decorated with a gold medal for his expedition against Europe. It is believed that this was done for the purpose of hiding the failure of the attempt.

Bedouins Desert Turk Army.

"More than 20,000 Bedouins and other tribesmen whom the Turks armed to join the Egyptian expedition have deserted with most of their arms. German officers who joined the army are returning to Germany via Constantinople."

The Daily Mail correspondent at Sofia telegraphs that the panic in Constantinople is indescribable. He says that the families of the German and Austrian ambassadors and of other officials have arrived at Philippopolis.

Keep Up Dardanelles Fire.

PARIS, March 11.—A vigorous bombardment of the fortifications in the Dardanelles, principally by French warships, was continued yesterday, according to a Tenedos dispatch to the Matin.

A heavy fog prevented aviators from learning the results of the fire, but the replies from some of the Turkish batteries slackened perceptibly.

U. S. TO PERMIT EITEL REPAIRS; FRYE QUIZ ON

BULLETIN.

LONDON, March 12, 3:35 a. m.—A dispatch to the Daily Express from The Hague says:

"A secret report has been sent from Cuxhaven to the admiralty at Berlin that twelve submarines have failed to report at their base, eight of them being among Germany's newest boats.

"The naval council will meet today or tomorrow under the presidency of Emperor William to discuss whether or not it would be better to abandon the submarine war."

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., March 11.—[Special.]—A policy designed to avert any serious clash with Germany over the exploits of the German cruiser Prinz Eitel Frederick, now at Norfolk, was decided upon by the administration today.

The cruiser will be allowed reasonable time to make repairs and to replenish stores and then will be required to leave American waters or to intern until the end of the war.

The commander of the cruiser has stated that six weeks will be required to make his vessel seaworthy. Whether this is a reasonable period will be determined by the navy department.

WILL START FRYE QUIZ.

While the Prinz Eitel Frederick is at Norfolk the state department will conduct a careful investigation of the action of the German commander in destroying the American sailing vessel William P. Frye and its cargo of wheat consigned from Seattle to Queenstown.

Whether the Frye was destroyed legitimately involves many fine points of international law. If the administration decides that the wheat should not have been classed as contraband of war the United States will call upon Germany for reparation. The Frye was valued at $282,000 and the cargo at $150,000.

CRUISER NOT TO BE HELD.

In no event will the cruiser be held by the United States as security for possible damages or in connection with piracy proceedings, as has been hinted in some sensational reports. The disposition of the cruiser and the case of the Frye are regarded by the state department as two entirely separate matters.

President Wilson is directing all steps taken in connection with the affair. Although it is unusual for the White House officials to allow the president to be quoted, the following statement was made public this afternoon at the executive office:

"The president, when asked regarding the sinking of the American sailing ship William P. Frye by the German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Frederick, said: 'A most searching inquiry will be made, and whatever action is taken will be based upon the result of that inquiry.'"

WILSON TO TAKE REST.

In some quarters there was a disposition to draw sensational conclusions from another White House announcement that the president has canceled all engagements and will receive no callers for the next three weeks.

The rumor was soon current that the president had taken this step because of the extremely delicate nature of the pending problems of foreign relations to which he must give his entire attention.

The fact is that the president is worn out with the burden of work of the last session of congress, as a result of which condition he has suffered several attacks of indigestion. His physicians have ordered him to reduce his load of work to the minimum, play more golf, and keep in the open air as much as possible.

BERLIN TO PAY IF WRONG.

The German embassy entertains no fear of complications between the United States and Germany because of the destruction of the Frye. Embassy officials say that if it be proved that the grain was not contraband, Germany cheerfully will pay the value of the vessel and cargo. They believe, however, that the grain will be shown to have

Great confidence is felt in official quarters that the United States government will be able to establish so firmly the justness of a demand for compensation that its presentation will be practically unanswerable.

U. S. CASE BELIEVED STRONG.

This view of the strength of the American case rests, of course, upon the facts as disclosed thus far, and evidence of a new and unsuspected character will have to be produced to shake the faith of officials regarding the ultimate outcome of the issue.

At present the state department is relying upon the officials of the treasury at Newport News for the facts in regard to the sinking of the Frye. It is expected, however, that the captain of the Frye and possibly others associated with the vessel will be brought to Washington for conference with officials.

Within a few days, it is believed, all the evidence obtainable will be in the hands of the treasury and state departments, and soon thereafter a note embodying the views of the United States will be dispatched to the German government.

HOLD CARGO NOT CONTRABAND.

The case of the United States is regarded as resting entirely upon the fact that the cargo of the Frye was not properly subject to treatment as contraband of war. No evidence has yet come to the attention of officials here bearing out the claim of the Germans that the wheat was destined for the use of the British government or armed forces.

The United States will not accept the German contention that consignment "to order" at Queenstown is presumptive evidence of consignment to the British forces.

It has already taken issue with the British government on this question, having refused to acquiesce in seizures of American cargoes by the British because of their being consigned "to order."

Until the Germans produce acceptable evidence in support of the claim that the wheat on the Frye was contraband of war the United States will stand on the ground assumed in controversy with the British government, and it is believed here that the case will be decided on this point.

Eitel Not a Pirate Ship.

It was learned here today that the suggestion of treating the Prinz Eitel Friedrich as a pirate ship was considered by officials here, but the suggestion was discarded.

This government is satisfied that the Prince Eitel may properly be regarded as a regularly commissioned government ship and entitled to treatment as a belligerent vessel of war. There is no disposition on the part of this government to attempt to strain its case or raise with Germany unnecessarily irritating questions.

The British ambassador manifested an interest in the case of the Prinz Eitel Friedrich today calling at the state and navy departments to discuss the case informally.

The chief point in the ambassador's mind seemed to be the desire that all neutrals on board the German cruiser should be taken off before it was permitted to leave port.

British Warship to Meet Eitel.

The ambassador pointed out in his talks with officials that the German cruiser was likely "to meet" a British warship if it resumed the high seas and the British government did not wish to be responsible for the death of any neutrals which probably would result if they were on board when the destruction of the cruiser was attempted.

GERMAN PRESENTS CASE.

Newport News, Va., March 11.—Commander Thierichens of the German converted cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich, which late today went into dry dock here for repairs sadly needed after six months of roving the sea, submitted two statements tonight to Collector of Customs Hamilton of this port.

One stated his reasons for sinking in south Atlantic waters Jan. 28 the American sailing ship William P. Frye with its cargo of 5,200 tons of wheat consigned to Queenstown.

The other related to the length of time that will be required to repair his ship.

Collector Hamilton announced that he regarded the answers of the German commander as state papers and that he would forward them to Washington. It was learned, however, that the commander frankly stated to American government officials that he sank the ship Frye because he regarded the cargo as contraband of war.

Need Week for Repairs.

In the communication relating to the repairs necessary on the Eitel it was understood he said the vessel could be made seaworthy within a few days or a week at most.

Whether he announced a wish to depart as soon as the American naval authorities could pass on repairs to be made was not disclosed. Previously, however, the officer had made it clear that it was not his intention to intern his ship.

Regarding the condition of the cruiser's engines and boilers it was reported that whereas it had been steaming eighteen knots an hour at the beginning of its commerce raiding career, it dared make scarcely twelve when it reached American waters early Wednesday morning.

Discharges Captured Crews.

After the ship went into dry dock tonight it discharged the crews of British, French, and Russian ships it had sunk, having released the American crew in the afternoon. The French crews left late tonight by the Old Dominion line for New York. A few Russians went with them. The British crews plan to return to England on British ships laden with horses from this port.

Controversy arose today over the papers of the destroyed American ship Frye. Collector Hamilton, in the name of the government, asked that they be surrendered by Commander Thierichens of the Eitel Friedrich.

The German commander said he wished to retain the originals and would give Collector Hamilton copies. Late tonight the German commander had not decided what he would do. He still had possession of the Frye's papers.

After his interview with Commander Thierichens and submission of the American requests, Collector Hamilton said:

"The German commander told me that he had the Eitel examined by experts of the Newport News shipyard and after dockage and examination would submit to me an estimate of the time that would be required to repair her.

"He said it was his intention to repair and proceed; that it was not his intention to intern. He said further that he would submit reasons and circumstances for sinking the Frye. I shall wait here until I get his reply."

Cruiser's Crew Jubilant.

When Collector Hamilton boarded the Eitel Friedrich the cruiser's rust streaked hull held a company whose gay spirits even the stiff régime of war time discipline could not repress.

Officers came on deck flushed from the banquet table of the captain, who was celebrating his birthday. Behind the dirty black shields that protect the cruiser's auxiliary guns the crew was at work polishing shining breeches. The deck officer in his worn but neat uniform swung back and forth methodically, and everything bore out the captain's curt reminder to certain strangers who wished to board, "This is a warship. We cannot permit visitors."

"For my part," said one of the ship's doctors, "I wish we were out again. We could send a few more of them to the bottom at least."

At Sea Nearly Eight Months.

Then the harshness suddenly went out of his voice and his eyes, that had been angrily staring at a Union Jack farther up the river, filled with tears.

"Seven and a half months at sea," said the big Bavarian, "and I don't even know whether my wife and little girl in Munich are alive; and my two brothers, officers."

Then he added: "War time is not schoen."

The silent path of the Eitel, which one officer today declared to be longer than any ever traced by a ship of war, was crossed by a web of varying wireless messages that had to be received but which had to go unanswered, according to the description of one of the men.

"The one message that made us laugh was to hear we were sunk again," the officer said. "When we were in the Pacific we heard we were sunk off Patagonia. When we rounded the Horn we heard that we had been lost in the South China sea."

Other periods of "listening in" gave life saving tips to the fugitive ship, it was explained.

AMERICAN LEGION ORGANIZES TO FORM MILITARY RESERVE.

New York, March 11.—Officers were elected and provision was made for a council of nine advisory members at the first meeting today of the board of directors of the American Legion, Inc., which is organizing a first line reserve for immediate call in case this country is threatened with war.

The officers elected are: President, E. Ormonde Power; treasurer, Henry Rogers Winthrop; secretary, Dr. John E. Hausmann.

It was announced that the following have accepted invitations to become members of the advisory council: Theodore Roosevelt, Elihu Root, Jacob M. Dickinson, George von L. Meyer, Truman H. Newberry, Henry L. Stimson, and Luke E. Wright.

Garrison Bars Army Men.

Washington, D. C., March 11.—[Special.]—Secretary of War Garrison today in a letter to Gen. Wood, replying to the latter's report on his connection with the American Legion, declared it "undesirable for officers of the army to have any connection with organizations outside of the war department which are dealing or contemplate dealing with the same subject matter."

BORN AUSTRIAN ARCHDUKE, BUT DIES A SIMPLE CITIZEN.

Brother of Assassinated Francis Ferdinand Gave Up Title and Position to Wed Swiss Girl.

MUNICH, via Amsterdam to London, March 12, 2:32 a. m.—Ferdinand Burg, who was formerly Archduke Ferdinand Charles of Austria, is dead, aged 51.

He was a nephew of Emperor Francis Joseph and brother of Archduke Francis Ferdinand, the heir to the Austro-Hungarian throne, whose assassination in Bosnia had much to do with the outbreak of the present war.

The name of Burg was assumed by Archduke Ferdinand Charles in 1911, and all his privileges as a member of the imperial family were renounced when he married in Switzerland the daughter of Hofrat Czuber, a professor of engineering.

The emperor some years previously had declined to permit the archduke to renounce his title and marry. Finally, however, he gave his consent to the union and granted the archduke an annuity of about $8,000.

SERBIA SWEPT BY DISEASE, AMERICANS IN BERLIN SAY.

Spotted, Typhoid, and Recurrent Fevers Claim Many Victims—Red Cross Surgeons Succumb.

BERLIN, March 11.—Americans arriving here from Serbia report that the entire country is suffering gravely from an epidemic of diseases like typhus, typhoid, and recurrent fever.

Typhus, otherwise known in Serbia as spotted fever, is reported to be particularly dangerous because no remedy is known. The disease is spread by vermin and the percentage of deaths is said to be high.

An American physician named Cook, who was sent to Serbia from Paris, and an American Red Cross physician have succumbed to the disease. Nine of twelve American nurses have been stricken with typhus fever.

DRIVES BY ALLIES FORCE GERMANS FROM 2 POINTS

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, March 11.—The night statement issued by the war office deals lightly with the successes claimed by the allies at Neuve Chapelle, where, according to the afternoon statement, the Germans were pushed back nearly a mile and a half with heavy losses in killed, wounded, and prisoners.

This victory is considered of the greatest importance, and, if pressed further, may compel the Germans to evacuate La Bassee, and perhaps other points which make their line so strong at present.

Equally important was the success achieved by British airmen in destroying the railway junctions at Menin and Courtrai. These are on one of the German main lines of communication.

Early in the day an official communication, describing recent military activities in the Champagne district, says that this drive has been in progress since Feb. 16. Continuous hammering at the German front has forced the kaiser to withdraw troops from the Russian line to fill up gaps torn by French infantry charges and by heavy artillery fire.

Beausejour Battle Bitter.

The capture of the earthworks at Beausejour is described as one of the brilliant events of the war.

The first real infantry attack was begun by a detachment of colonials on Feb. 23. The advance trenches were taken and six German counter attacks were repulsed, but only after the colonials had been annihilated.

The attack was resumed on Feb. 27 by two battalions of colonial infantry, which succeeded in capturing the trenches after a brilliant bayonet charge, which left the ditches filled with German dead.

The trenches immediately were fortified and all German assaults were beaten off. Under cover of darkness the position was secured by French infantry, which relieved the colonials.

An official statement says the Germans had in Champagne Feb. 16, 119 battalions of infantry, 31 squadrons of cavalry, 64 field batteries, and 20 heavy batteries. From Feb. 16 to March 10 they had brought there twenty more battalions of infantry, one regiment of field artillery, and two heavy batteries, being equal to one army corps.

French War Statement.

The night official statement issued by the war office says:

"In the region of Neuve Chapelle the British army has repulsed two counter attacks. The enemy's losses were considerable.

"In Champagne we made appreciable progress last evening in the wood west of Perthes, where we had gained a footing five days ago. The enemy defended himself stubbornly. In spite of a violent bombardment and several counter attacks we maintained our gains.

German War Statement.

BERLIN, March 11.—The German war office statement today said:

"An English aviator's bombs at Menin, in West Flanders, killed seven and wounded ten Belgians.

"The British yesterday near Neuve Chapelle entered at some points. The fighting continues.

"In the Champagne district the French have delivered two attacks against positions east of Souain, which were repulsed."

WILL RETALIATE IF CREWS OF SUBMARINES ARE HARMED

Germany Threatens Reprisals if Britain Denies Honors of War to Such Prisoners.

BERLIN, March 11.—In naval circles it is declared that an investigation will be instituted into the report that the British admiralty intends to withhold the customary honorable imprisonment conditions from German submarine crews made captive and that if Great Britain places such Germans under special restrictions retaliatory measures may be adopted. Naval officials claim that should Great Britain take the action she contemplates this will not affect the submarine war plans in the slightest particular nor have any influence on the spirit of the crews.

Three German Generals Retire.

British Reply to Wilson Note to Cite More German Faults

LONDON, March 11.—The British reply to the American note suggesting that Great Britain allow all foodstuffs to enter Germany in return for Germany's abandonment of its submarine warfare on merchant vessels and its policy of mining the high seas is expected to be forthcoming at an early date.

While the contents of the reply are not known, it is possible as the result of inquiries in authoritative quarters to indicate some points likely to carry weight with the British government and to emphasize Sir Edward Grey's answer.

There is a strong feeling in Downing street that the "quid pro quo" put forward in the American note does not go far enough.

Officials of the foreign office point out that since the beginning of the war Great Britain only once has interfered with the supply of food destined for Germany, and then only after the German government, by assuming control of all foodstuffs, had abolished the old distinction between the civil and the military population.

High German authorities have repeatedly denied the British claim to cut off supplies of food from civilians is a legitimate act of war.

Great Britain, it is insisted, never adopted this view until the Germans by their own act made it impossible any longer to draw the line between noncombatants and armed forces. Furthermore, it is added, Great Britain is now invited by the United States to forego a clear belligerent right on the understanding that Germany will abstain from committing two—but only two—of many crimes against both law and humanity.

Authoritative spokesmen of the British view lay stress on the "inadequacy" of this proposal from two standpoints. They ask, first, what guarantee is forthcoming that Germany will keep to its agreement.

Secondly, they urge that the two offenses specified in the American note—submarine warfare on merchant vessels and the mining of the high seas—are far from being the only, or even the worst, offenses of which Germany has been guilty.

The claim is set up that it has bombarded unfortified towns, dropped bombs on places inhabited solely by civilians, and sunk both British and neutral ships, as if that were the ordinary legal way of disposing of them.

Great Britain, it is pointed out, has indulged in none of these practices, and such mines as it has been compelled in self-defense to lay have been laid in strict accordance with The Hague conventions.

The policy of the Germans, which arouses the most indignation among the directors of the British government is its continued alleged persecution of the Belgians, millions of whom, it is declared, "would be at this moment in a state of semi-starvation but for American generosity and assistance."

The view, therefore, held in the most authoritative quarter of Great Britain is that if there is to be any question of Germany's conforming to the rules of civilized warfare with respect to all points, and not merely with respect to two of them which it has been accused of departing from, it must come up for discussion, and that Great Britain could enter into no agreement a subject which did not include a radical change in Germany's present proceedings in Belgium.

TURKISH PRINCE KILLED IN BED

Burhan-Eddin, Favorite Son of Abdul Hamid, Reported Strangled.

PARIS, March 11.—The Balkan agency has received the following dispatch from Sofia, Bulgaria:

"Advices received here from Constantinople say that Mehemed Burhan-Eddin Effendi, favorite son of the former sultan, Abdul Hamid, has been found strangled in his bedroom.

"Despite the reserve of the Turkish police, it has been confirmed that the prince was killed by political enemies."

Fourth Son of Abdul Hamid.

Prince Burhan-Eddin was 29 years old and the fourth son of Abdul Hamid. He held the rank of lieutenant in the Turkish navy.

During his father's reign he was twelfth in line for succession to the throne, according to the shereefian system, but it was said that Abdul Hamid designed to elevate him over his eleven seniors and make him the next sultan.

Kept Under Surveillance.

In 1909, when Abdul Hamid was dethroned, Prince Burhan-Eddin was kept under surveillance in the palace for a time, charged with being concerned in a conspiracy for the restoration of absolutism.

With the abdication of Prince William of Wied as mpret of Albania last year, it was reported that Turkey would urge Burhan-Eddin's appointment to the throne.

JAPAN PREPARES TO CRUSH CHINA?

Tokio Press Says Dallying with Demands Will Not Be Tolerated.

TOKIO, March 12, 10:55 a. m.—The public interprets the naval and military activities of Japan as evidence of the government's impatience at the procrastination of China on the Japanese demands.

The semi-official press characterizes as dangerous delusions "the idea of the Chinese that Japan is not determined to insist on its demands and that they lack the support of the people."

Japan Makes Concessions.

PEKING, March 11.—At the conference in Peking today between representatives of Japan and China concerning the demands made on China by Japan and presented at Peking shortly after the Japanese occupation of Kiau-Chau, the Japanese delegates showed a conciliatory attitude.

They made slight concessions from the letter of their demands as previously presented.

Yield on Concessions.

A compromise was reached in the matter of the railroad and mining concessions in South Manchuria, but it was agreed that Japan should have the preference in future railroad loans and the right to prospect for mines for a fixed period and operate a large proportion of the mining properties so discovered.

ITALY OFFERED AUSTRIAN LAND TO KEEP PEACE

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ROME, March 11.—A conference today between Prince von Buelow, the German ambassador, and Premier Salandra has given rise to reports that events of the most momentous nature for Italy are impending. The meeting of the two diplomats was held after the premier had consulted for some hours with Gen. Zupelli, the minister of war, and Gen. Cadorna, the chief of staff of the army.

It is credibly reported that Germany, realizing that Italian intervention is inevitable, has persuaded Austria to make territorial concessions conditional on a maintenance of Italian neutrality; that negotiations are now under way, but that they are unlikely to succeed since the compensation offered is not in proportion to Italy's aspirations.

Italy Fears Long Neutrality.

Italy's stand is that a prolonged neutrality would expose her to the danger of exclusion from the partition of Turkish territory and an inevitable loss to her interests in the near east and the Mediterranean. The negotiations, however, are apt to afford a pretext for intervention, which is expected soon.

The foreign office, taking cognizance of such reports, authorizes the statement that no agreement has been reached between Italy and Germany based on Austrian concessions, but admits that proposals for such an agreement have been made and that negotiations are pending. Naturally the result of such negotiations is withheld, although it is not at all likely that Italy will consent to limit her freedom, which will continue to be complete.

Italy Guarding Own Interests.

The time unquestionably is near when Italy's attitude will be altered. Diplomatic preparation for such a step was inevitable before any decision would be rendered on the proposed agreement. The offers of compensation will not influence Italy's action, which is based exclusively on the safeguarding of her own interests, not those of any belligerents.

The anti-contraband and anti-espionage law possibly will be approved by the chamber this week and immediately will be sanctioned by the senate. Therefore parliament probably will be adjourned on March 20 if events justify.

Priests to Aid the Military.

It is announced from the vatican that the pope has directed that all parish priests in Italy be instructed to aid and coöperate with the military and civil authorities in case of the mobilization of the Italian army.

The announcement is regarded as of great importance, coming as it does on the heels of the earlier action of the vatican in instructing all bishops and archbishops of the kingdom to warn all clergy that, while the church is profoundly working in the cause of peace, nothing should be said which would hint at an absence of patriotism in church members or in the clergy.

GERMANS REPEL RUSSIAN DRIVES

HARD FIGHT CONTINUES

"To the west of Serje and to the northeast of Augustowo we took 600 Russians prisoners and captured three guns and two machine guns. A fresh Russian attempt to break through the German lines to the south of Augustowo resulted in the annihilation of the Russian forces used in this endeavor.

"In an engagement to the northwest of Ostrolenka the Germans were victorious. Six Russian officers and 900 soldiers were taken prisoners, and eight machine guns were captured.

"The German attacks to the north and to the northwest of Prasnysz have made further progress. In the fighting to the northwest of Novomiasto 1,660 more Russians have been made prisoners by us."

Russian Official Statement.

PETROGRAD, March 11.—The following official communication was issued today:

"Between the Nieman and Vistula rivers battles of extreme obstinacy were fought yesterday in the region of Simno, in the valleys of the Omulew and Orzyc rivers, and in the direction of Prasnysz.

"In the Carpathians all of the enemy's attacks have been repulsed, and near Gorlice our counter attack annihilated the Austrian units which had attempted, after the failure of an Austrian night attack, to intrench themselves on our front.

"In eastern Galicia, to the south of Niejniew, we succeeded in driving back the Germans."

U. S. NOTES FAIL TO HELP ALIENS IN MEXICO CITY

New Warning Sent to Carranza to Protect Americans; Four Spaniards Are Slain.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., March 11.—[Special.]—Both President Wilson and Secretary of State Bryan today pronounced the Mexican situation encouraging, although every report which reached them during the day was more disconcerting than the one immediately preceding it.

The most serious news was contained in an official dispatch relating the killing of four Spaniards in Mexico City. Señor Riano, the Spanish ambassador, called on Secretary Bryan to discuss this. At the time he called the administration had not received official information about the killing. No details have yet been received.

Other reports received during the day indicate that looting has been going on for ten days in Mexico City.

Another note was sent by the United States government today to Gen. Carranza in reply to his response last night to the notice that he, Carranza, and Obregon would be held personally responsible for the safety of Americans and other foreigners in Mexico City. It is understood to have emphasized the importance of keeping railway communication between the capital and Vera Cruz open.

Carranza's reply to the American note was generally admitted today to be wholly unsatisfactory. His action in addressing it to the president, instead of to Mr. Silliman or to the secretary of state was regarded as peculiar, to say the least.

Carranza Reply Almost Insult.

Carranza's statement that the language of the American note was such as to justify him in not deigning to reply to it was viewed as little short of being positively offensive.

The American note asserted that conditions in Mexico City have become "intolerable and cannot longer be endured." Carranza replied by denying all the specifications in the American charges asserting that all he has done hitherto is proper, and finally that he proposes to continue as heretofore.

In other words, the United States told Carranza what he had done was intolerable and he replied by saying he proposed to give foreigners more of the same.

That Secretary Bryan erred in repeating his warning to Americans to get out of Mexico City was the opinion expressed here today when it was noted how Carranza seized on this warning as affording an answer to the contentions of the United States. He says, in effect, to this country that its suggestion that Americans leave Mexico is the best solution of the problem and thereupon invites not only Americans to get out but all foreigners as well.

Other Nations Less Complacent.

Although the Washington administration may accept complacently Carranza's suggestion of a general exodus as a solution of the problem, it is definitely known that the European governments interested in Mexico will entertain no such view. Their position is and has been that they will not invite their nationals to get out of Mexico; that they are in Mexico in the exercise of legitimate rights, and they demand for them, therefore, protection in those rights.

Secretary Bryan said today that the efforts of this government are now centered upon the task of relieving the food situation and obtaining transportation out of Mexico City. Steps are being taken by representatives of the state department at both Mexico City and Vera Cruz to this end.

No Reports on Relief.

In spite of American representations to Carranza and Obregon and of the assertions and promises by Carranza no information has been received here of their having done anything in response to appeals for action to relieve the situation.

Progress was made today in the negotiations with Carranza to obtain a means of getting sisal from the state of Yucatan. Consul Silliman cabled from Vera Cruz that Carranza has agreed to lift the embargo on sisal on these conditions:

First—That the ships coming from American ports for sisal not carry any imports for Yucatan.

Second—That the export duty on sisal be paid to the Carranza government.

Third—That the money paid for the sisal be placed in trust pending settlement of the difficulties between Carranza and the Yucatan people.

Villa Troops Occupy Town.

Eagle Pass, Tex., March 11.—Approximately 1,000 Villa troops under Gen. Rosalio Hernandez tonight entered Piedras Negras, the Mexican town opposite here. There was no disorder or attempt to repel them, the Carranza troops having left three days ago. The women and children of the town came to Eagle Pass today. Only a small force had been left in the town to guard property.

U. S. Note Called on Carranza to Protect Aliens.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 11.—Following is the text of the American note which Consul Silliman delivered to Carranza and which the latter quoted in his reply made public today:

"We have been anxious and perplexed over the statements in dispatches from Mexico City regarding the situation there, and have concluded that the best course at present is for you immediately to see Gen. Carranza and present him to a most earnest and emphatic note in the following sense:

"The government of the United States has noted with increasing concern the reports of Gen. Obregon's utterances to the residents of Mexico City.

"This government believes they tend to incite the populace to commit outrages in which innocent foreigners within Mexican territory, particularly the City of Mexico, may be involved.

"This government is particularly impressed with Gen. Obregon's suggestions that he would refuse to protect not only Mexicans but foreigners in case of violence, and that his present manifesto is a forerunner of others more disastrous in effect.

"In this condition of affairs the government of the United States is informed that the City of Mexico may soon be evacuated by the Constitutionalist forces, leaving the population without protection against whatever faction may choose to occupy it, thus shirking the responsibility which may happen as a result of the instigation to lawlessness before and after the evacuation of the city.

"The government of the United States is led to believe that a deplorable situation has been willfully brought about by Constitutionalist leaders and forces by their incredible demands, and their plan to punish the city on account of refusal to comply with them.

"When a factional leader preys upon a starving city to compel obedience to his decrees by inciting outlawry, and at the same time uses means to prevent the city from being supplied with food, a situation is created which it is impossible for the United States to contemplate longer with patience.

"Conditions have become intolerable and can no longer be endured. The government of the United States therefore desires Gen. Obregon and Gen. Carranza to know that it has, after mature consideration, determined that if, as a result of the situation for which they are responsible, Americans shall suffer by reason of the conduct of the Constitutionalist forces in the City of Mexico, or because they fail to provide means of protection to life and property, it will hold Gen. Obregon and Gen. Carranza personally responsible.

"Therefore, having reached this determination with the greatest consideration, the government of the United States will take such measures as are expedient to bring to account those who are personally responsible for what may occur."

AIRSHIP FIRES ON STEAMER.

LONDON, March 11.—The steamship Linhope reported today upon arrival at Shields that an invisible air craft tried to destroy it by a bomb off Sprunhead at midnight last night, but that the bomb missed by fifty yards.

GAGGED CLERK'S PLUNGE TO DEATH IS LOOP MYSTERY

lockers were an extra hat and coat, matching the trousers and vest worn by the alley victim.

The body of the victim was taken to the Ball undertaking shop at 500 South Dearborn street. There closer examination revealed a gold seal ring with the initials, "F. C. W.," on one of the fingers of the left hand, clinching the identification of the body as that of White.

White's skull had been fractured and practically every other bone in his body had been broken in the fall. It was the skull fracture, however, which had caused death.

That injury, physicians were led to believe after a hasty examination and after hearing Policeman Redd's assertion that the body was cold, had probably been inflicted before White fell into the alley.

Fifteen feet from where the body had fallen the police found a dollar watch. The broken watch had stopped at 8:10. An hour later W. S. Houser and David Lindstrom, police photographers, found a part of a shoe heel. This had been one of the shoes worn by the victim.

Police Support Suicide.

As has been their custom in dealing with loop mysteries, the police favored a suicide theory. They put forward as a possible motive the fact that White, who was employed in the carpet department of the Marshall Field & Co. store until four years ago, was obliged by ill health to relinquish that position and go to California.

Another unsupported theory put forward as a suicide motive was that White had quarreled with his fiancée, Miss Jennie Johnson of 2946 Wisner avenue.

The fact that White's pockets were turned inside out was pointed to by Ernest White of 3730 Dickens avenue, his brother, and Conrad J. Wolf of 3728 Dickens avenue, his brother-in-law, as evidence that he had been robbed and thrown from the window.

"Robbers, as is well known, do not turn their victims' pockets inside out," was the police comment. "The average man, wishing to make it appear he had been robbed, would do just that thing, though."

Saw White at Work.

Daniel Babba of 712 North State street, a janitor who was working in the offices on the seventeenth floor at 8 o'clock, said he saw White working over his books at that time as he passed along the corridor. He said White was sitting on the opposite side of the room from the windows. Babba said he saw no others in the office and was sure White was alone.

Miss Johnson's name was first brought into the case by Harry E. Mendenhall, one of White's fellow boarders in the flat of Mrs. George Lund at 2501 North Kedzie avenue.

"I know that White used to meet Miss Johnson every morning and ride downtown with her on the elevated. Often he would have luncheon with her. It was his habit to accompany her on the trip home, too, and he spent several evenings every week at her home.

Mrs. Lund said she had thought it peculiar that White had not called her on the telephone to tell her he would not be home to dinner.

Girl Friend Not Home.

"Jennie isn't home. She's with a sick girl friend on the south side, and I don't want her to learn what has happened until I break the news myself.

Here is the police summing up:

White's hat and coat were found near the open window leading to the fire escape on the seventeenth floor. Why should he have carried his coat and hat to the seventeenth floor instead of leaving them in the cloakroom on the sixteenth if he was working while attacked?

Employés of the building declare they saw no strangers in the offices which they were cleaning. They heard no sounds of a struggle.

A janitor said he saw White working over his books at approximately 8 o'clock. The body reached the undertaking rooms half an hour after it came hurtling down into the alley.

A handkerchief gag, which White's brother says did not belong to the victim, was stuffed so tightly in his mouth it could not be extricated.

His pockets were turned inside out.

Both park policemen, who were first to reach the body, said it was cold. An employé of Ball's undertaking rooms, where it was taken, said the body gave every evidence of life having been extinct about two hours.

The cuff bands of the victim's shirt were torn back as if he had been struggling with an adversary.

Telephone box overturned and window ventilator broken.

H. E. Ronalds of Mattoon Indicted and Another Man Prominent Is Involved.

Mattoon, Ill., March 11.—[Special.]—Dr. Harold E. Ronalds was arrested late this afternoon on a warrant charging him with the murder of his wife, Mrs. Alice Ronalds, whose death occurred during a debauch at the Ronalds home on New Year's night. The indictment against Dr. Ronalds was returned by the Mattoon city court grand jury, which made its final report this afternoon.

Dr. Ronalds and Mrs. Ronalds were addicted to the morphine habit.

There are five counts to the indictment. In three of the counts the death of Mrs. Ronalds is claimed to have been caused by poison consisting of creosote and oil of wintergreen, these counts being formed on the report of Dr. William D. McNally, a Chicago chemist, who made a chemical analysis of the stomach and other vital organs of Mrs. Ronalds.

Criminal Operation Alleged.

Dr. McNally reported he found 1.2144 grams of creosote and 7.9753 grams of oil of wintergreen, the two having been intermingled before being swallowed.

In one count of the indictment, Dr. Ronalds is charged with committing upon the person of Mrs. Ronalds a criminal operation. In another count he is charged with assaulting her with his fists or with a weapon of some kind, the assault resulting in her death.

Another Under Suspicion.

One of the counts charges Dr. Ronalds with forcing Mrs. Ronalds to drink the poison discovered by Dr. McNally. In another count he is charged with pouring the poison in a bottle of beer that Mrs. Ronalds drank.

While the nature of the testimony at the secret session was not made public officially, the name of a prominent business man is said to have been involved.

Chicago Authorities Cause Arrest of Chemist on Charge of Shipping Guncotton Dry.

Dr. Herman Bodenheim, a manufacturing chemist of New York, was arrested in St. Louis yesterday for the local bureau of justice on a charge of violating the federal law prohibiting shipment of guncotton except in a wet solvent. By shipping the guncotton dry—thereby endangering the lives of many passengers on railroad trains and coast and lake steamers—Bodenheim was able to undersell competitors, it is charged.

Moonshine Product Found Concealed Among Clothes in a Laundry Basket.

Sixty pounds of illicit oleomargarine, packed in five pound cases, concealed among newly washed clothes in a laundry basket, were confiscated by government officials last night in a raid on the grocery of Miss Jennie H. Drought, at 3601 Ogden avenue. A pint can of coloring fluid was discovered behind a mirror in Miss Drought's living room.

MARCH 21 MADE PEACE SUNDAY

Archbishop Quigley Calls on Catholics of Chicago to Observe the Day.

TO SAY PAPAL PRAYER.

Archbishop Quigley of the Catholic archdiocese of Chicago announced yesterday that March 21 would be the Catholic peace Sunday. The day will be observed as such throughout the Catholic churches of America.

"I am sending you a decree issued by authority of our most holy father, the pope, ordering special prayers and devotions for the return of peace to the nations now at war in Europe and in other parts of the world," the archbishop says in a letter to the priests of the archdiocese.

"The special prayers and devotions in the form prescribed by our holy father himself are to be solemnly held in all parish churches and public chapels throughout this country on Passion Sunday.

"Exhort your people to join you in praying Almighty God in his great mercy to restore the blessing of an early and lasting peace."

Included in the special services will be the recitation of the peace prayer composed by Pope Benedict for the day. Similar ceremonies were observed in all European Catholic churches on Feb. 7.

BRITAIN RELEASES STEAMER CARRYING PACKING PRODUCT

American Vessel Which Was Taken Into English Port Permitted to Proceed to Rotterdam.

LONDON, March 11.—The Norwegian steamer Vitalia, which sailed from New York on Feb. 3 for Rotterdam with a cargo of packing products shipped from Chicago, has been released by the British authorities at Falmouth and today left that port for Rotterdam.

This action was taken after the cargo of the Vitalia had been consigned to the Netherlands Overseas trust.

The Vitalia was picked up at sea and taken into Falmouth by British authorities, who explained that the government wanted to determine to whom in Rotterdam the cargo was consigned.

The American steamer A. A. Raven, another vessel bearing products of American packers, has been detained in The Downs.

The cargo is consigned to dealers at Rotterdam and the British government insists it must be consigned to the Netherlands Overseas trust before it is allowed to proceed. The steamer sailed from New York Feb. 13.

DOUGHERTY AGAIN IN JAIL; STATUS OF PARDON UNKNOWN

Former Peoria, Ill., School Head, Sentenced to Second Prison Term, Awaits Action of Gov. Dunne.

Peoria, Ill., March 11.—Newton C. Dougherty, former superintendent of Peoria schools, who was resentenced to Joliet penitentiary by Judge Green in the principal court here today, is now behind the bars in the Peoria county jail.

Dougherty stated tonight that he didn't know how long he would be there. Joseph Weil, a Peoria attorney, and Attorney Clarence Darrow of Chicago, both representing Dougherty; Sheriff Butts, and State's Attorney McNeamer all said that they, too, are in the dark on the subject.

"I'm dreadfully sorry about it," said Sheriff Butts tonight, "but I can't spare a man to accompany Dougherty to Joliet."

Dougherty showed his displeasure at the delay in his reaching Joliet.

LIFE'S REAL WORK DONE BY WOMEN; SUPERIOR TO MAN

Woman is man's superior in education, ideals, and intelligence.

Her mind is incomparably broader than man's.

These were some of the new era sentiments expressed by Dr. Herbert L. Willett of the University of Chicago yesterday and received with acclamation by representatives of the Sixth District of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, assembled at a spring luncheon in the Hotel La Salle.

Belongs First to Home.

Regardless of her superiority, however, Dr. Willett contended that woman belongs first to her home.

"Her place is the home," he said, "and that is why I favor her political rights and responsibilities. The home is no longer the isolated unit of humanity, but its most responsible unit, for the world's real work begins at the home.

"Does the average man know the condition of the garbage can at his back door? Does he know the policeman on his block—or if there really is such a person? Does he know if there are any saloons in his neighborhood, and is he aware of their condition?

Man Ignores Details.

"No; he does not question such things. He reads a bit of current events, snatches a bit of this and of that, and is absolutely indifferent to details or general conditions.

"Of women we have two kinds—the one whose steps go down to death without results and the one who builds up her home and the community, the ideal woman of maternal spirit."

NO 'MURDER' VICTIM FOUND.

Big Hole in Yard of Late John Woods Fails to Disclose Remains of Man Killed.

No eager detectives appeared at the residence of the late John Woods yesterday to dig for the remains of the man he was supposed to have killed and buried in his back yard seven years ago, but a conscientious reporter did what he could to unearth the mystery. A hole large enough for a six room house was dug at the spot where Mrs. Woods said her husband buried his victim. The only bone the reporter found was one that belonged to a cow originally and later descended to a dog. Police have their doubts about the story Mrs. Woods tells and are inclined to believe she dreamed the "murder."

UNYOKED BRIDE ASKS BALM OF BUTLER STORKE

Phone Girl in $50,000 Suit Says 'Boy Wizard' Lured Her Into Illicit Honeymoon.

BUTLER R. STORKE

I never allowed before to any man whom I met under similar circumstances. He made violent love to me all the way, in the cars and in the restaurant. I thought he must be crazy, but did not get angry. Then I decided I must be crazy . . . And I let this boy kiss me good-night, knowing him about six hours."

The following day, Sunday, he came to the house, according to the diary. Miss Holland showed him some manuscripts and asked him to criticize them. He told her they were clever and said he would love to help her develop them. The diary reads:

"Dec. 27—'Little girl,' he said, 'let us write together in the future. Be my inspiration. You are the one girl in all the world for me.' . . .

"That evening I made many errors on the board, but every one was nice to me. I guess there was something in my manner that made them all indulgent. At 10 we were sitting in a nice little Chinese café on the way home.

A Lover's Pitiful Plea.

"He handed me these verses in his own handwriting: 'A Lover's Plea,' dedicated to its inspiration, Rose F. Holland, by its author, Butler R. Storke:

"Perhaps as you've sailed life's sea, my dear,
A storm or two you're found;
For the truly hours to sound.

The ship is you, you sweet jewel,
The hours you sail so pure;
And with your help, I feel concerned,
That land I'll reach most sure."

"'Butler, they are wonderful,' I said. But I can't see why you chose me of all the women you know. I am just an ordinary working girl. I can only boast of a violent temper and an inclination to do what is right.'"

She quoted Storke as protesting against such a feeling.

Are We Engaged?

"His voice sounded passionately sincere," continues the diary. "I know I am mad, but, O, I wanted to believe it! I make no excuses for myself.

"Later I said: 'Are we engaged?' I could feel his fresh, boyish smile in the dark. 'You little innocent,' he said. 'What would you call it? You are my wife. I will marry no other girl.'

"Dec. 28—I couldn't sleep all night. Is that the real symptom? I'm trying to find every excuse for myself, but it won't work. I know him only two days. I looked in the mirror a long while, criticizing myself. I am not very pretty early in the morning, and to add to this I was awake all night. I looked at the pale girl in the mirror and said: 'You're a fool. He is amusing himself. No, he isn't. Yes, he is.'

"Dec. 29—I'm so happy. Butler told me not to tell a soul, because if it ever got into the papers his family would raise a rumpus and send him out of the country.'

"Dec. 30—I know now that I love him. Butler is going to apply for a license in Waukesha tomorrow. We were standing again downstairs. 'You don't love me, Dody,' he said. 'I do,' I said. 'I would marry you tomorrow. Isn't that proof enough?'

S-sh! Don't Breathe!

"'Will you marry me tomorrow?' he said. 'I'll go up to Waukesha and get the license. But don't breathe a word to any one. If it ever gets out the reporters will have a beautiful time and my family will disinherit me. That's why I don't want to apply in Chicago. I'm too well known.

"'It will take from ten days to two weeks before the license will be issued. Of course, when the application is registered in court that is the real marriage. We will have the ceremony quietly as soon as we get the license.

"'I will transfer a house in your name this very Saturday, where you can go in a week or two. Then in May we'll go on our honeymoon for six months. I don't care who finds it out by that time as long as we won't be here to be interviewed.'"

The Tragedy of a Laugh.

New Year's eve they went to a theater, taking Cathleen, a friend of Miss Holland. Storke appeared to be nettled. At one point in the performance the girl laughed aloud, and he whispered to her to shut up.

"All the joy went out of me," reads the diary. "I kept very still for a long time. Then he said: 'Do you love me?' and I relented a little and put my hand back near his sleeve.

"There was a mad crowd on State street. Butler's pocket was picked. When at last we were alone for a few minutes I said: 'Did you get the license?' 'You bet, sweetie,' he said. 'Are you sure you will never be sorry?' I said. 'Men change so easily.' He said: 'Do you think I will? I will do my level best to make you happy.'

"Jan. 3, Sunday—I'm happy and frightened. Yesterday was my real wedding day. Can you understand, diary? In the morning I met B. I first drew $75 out of the bank. I didn't want to appear a pauper, so at his suggestion I gave him a small sum as a matter of form for the house. I gave him $50. After I signed the deed for the house he put it in his coat pocket. After I left him I spent about $25 more. It was my wedding day and I had a right to be a little extravagant.

"In the evening I could hardly work, I was so excited. Butler came a little before closing time, and brought me a bunch of roses. In the hotel lobby I was so scared I could hardly walk the short distance to the elevator. It seemed a year before the bellboy finally left us, and we were alone.

"I walked across the room to the table and took my beautiful white bridal roses in my arms. I turned to face Butler. I wanted him to see me this way. I knew I looked very pretty. He looked up and let his magazine drop to the floor. The next minute I was in his arms with the roses and all. He said: 'My wife, my little girl-bride, do you love me?' 'Butler, my husband,' I replied, 'I worship you.'

The Mother and the Bride.

"This morning we had a breakfast at Henrici's. Butler found fault with the grape fruit and told me not to eat it. He ordered buckwheat cakes for me. It's so nice to be taken care of. Later he told me I had to hurry because he must be home for lunch. I was so disappointed, I couldn't finish my breakfast.

"When I came home the landlady and the kiddies were glad to see me. You see it was the first time I ever stayed away over night. She knew. I told her on operator to give me long distance. 'Give me Waukesha, Wis., the marriage license clerk. O, operator, please, please hurry!'

"The bell rang. 'Ready with Waukesha.' I heard a woman's voice. 'Madam,' I said, as calmly as I could 'will you please see if a marriage license was applied for Dec. 31. The names are B. F. Storke and R. F. Holland.'

"No"—That Fatal Word.

"I waited until I could endure it no longer, and asked the operator to ring them again. 'Please, please, did you find it' I asked. 'Wait a minute,' said the lady's voice. 'You haven't given me time to look it up.' I waited and waited until I thought I was going crazy in the telephone booth. Then, after what seemed about an hour and really was two minutes, the voice said:

"'No application was made on Dec. 31, 30, or 29, or any time afterwards by that name.'

"'O, madam,' I was crying, 'are you sure?' I screamed: 'I must know. I can't wait.'

"'No application has been made,' she said, 'and there is no reason why the license couldn't have been issued at once as it was out of the state.'

"Her voice was kind. I thanked her and still held the receiver."

"Then, for the first time, the truth of what I had done came over me.

"I dressed and went downtown to the Orpheum. I had to do something. All I can remember is that I kept looking at the clock. I went to a restaurant and forced myself to eat some dinner. At 5 I took the board and he was standing there. I said: 'Butler, you must meet me tonight at 10. Something has happened.'

"'What happened? Have the reporters been bothering you? Don't keep me in suspense. You know I am under a nervous strain, trying to keep the folks from finding out. You must tell me now.'

"'All right. A woman told me there is no reason why our license could not have been issued at once in the state of Wisconsin.' 'Who has authority to make such a statement?' he cried angrily. 'Do you mean to tell me I am a liar?' 'I didn't say you are a liar,' I said. 'Meet me at 10.'

The Flight of Happiness.

"I will never be happy again. I don't care whether I live or die. Butler said that I did this just to get him; that if I didn't trust him now it was the best time to break off. When I told him I called Waukesha he was furious. I did not eat my supper. He commanded me to eat. I tried, but couldn't. To add to this, he had a cinder in his eye.

"By the time he was leaving me I was apologizing and begging his forgiveness for doubting him. I don't know how to explain this. I am crazy!"

"I may give 'The Tribune' some more days out of my diary tomorrow," Miss Holland said last night.

KRUTTSCHNITT DESCRIBES U. S. AS A BIG BULLY

Rail Chief Also Claims Government Management of Enterprises Is a Failure.

San Francisco, Cal., March 11.—In terse epigram, Julius Kruttschnitt, chief executive of the Southern Pacific, testifying again today in the Central Pacific-Southern Pacific dissolution suit, voiced his opinion of the government's attitude towards railroads. He said:

"The government is a great big man wielding a great big stick, and the stick is growing bigger and being used oftener.

Cites Ideal Condition.

The ideal condition for the railroads, he asserted, would be "a single private control of all railroads in the United States not exposed to governmental regulation."

These were answers given by Mr. Kruttschnitt to questions put by Edward F. McClennan, counsel for the government, in the course of six hours of rapid fire cross examination.

Mr. Kruttschnitt refused to retract the charge he made yesterday that former Attorney General Wickersham had forced the Southern Pacific company into a tentative sale of the Central Pacific to the Union Pacific.

Takes Back Word "Robbed."

"I will admit, however," the witness said, "that in my heat and exasperation I overstepped the mark when I said we were being robbed of the Central Pacific. This present suit and all of the unmerger litigation is unnecessary, and the separation of the two roads is monstrous.

WIDOW OF EMIL EMSHEIMER SUES FOR $7,500 INSURANCE.

Mrs. Mathilda Emsheimer, widow of Emil Emsheimer, the cause of whose death proved a mystery to the police after his body was found in his hat shop at 21 East Lake street on Nov. 28 last, yesterday started suit against the Fidelity and Casualty company of New York for $7,500. Henry C. Levinson, attorney for Mrs. Emsheimer, said action was taken because the company had refused to pay insurance on policies Emsheimer carried. He asserted the company demanded "affirmative proof of the cause of death."

City Wins Car Ventilation Suit.

The Appellate court yesterday reversed a Municipal court finding of not guilty in favor of the Chicago Railways company, charged with operating cars not properly ventilated. The court said no reason appeared why the company did not have a ventilating system in accordance with the ordinance.

Artillery Demonstrates Military Efficiency of German Army.

GERMAN HOWITZER BATTERY ON THE MARCH—The disposition of the men on these guns is clearly shown. This howitzer is a compromise between the Ehrhardt and Krupp patterns and has proved a very effective weapon.

GERMANS AMAZE WORLD WITH BIG GUNS' MOBILITY.

GERMAN military efficiency has reached its highest development in its artillery. From its 3.03 inch field guns to its great mysterious 42 centimeter (16.5 inch) siege mortars, the one end aimed at, aside from their destructive power, has been mobility.

The tactics employed by the Germans in smothering a position with shell fire is based on the ability to concentrate a large force of artillery in the shortest time and getting it back into its general position along the battle front before the enemy has time to discover the unguarded ground.

The enormous size and power of the mobile artillery of the contending armies, especially those of Germany, has been one of the great surprises of the war. The railroads and the heavy motor trucks have made this movement of big ordnance possible. Specially built railroad carriages have been utilized for the largest of these guns to get them to the front, and they have been dragged into position by great traction engines, the most efficient being of the caterpillar type, the product of an Illinois factory.

The secret of the 42 centimeter guns has been carefully guarded, and, though there have been drawings of this piece published, the Germans have been able to keep the camera men safely at a distance. Even when the necessary appropriations were being passed in the reichstag for these batteries, the subject was not debated, and few if any of the members were intrusted with the secret.

Rapid traction for field guns has been provided by the Germans by a specially built motor truck. This is so rigged that the gun is firmly clamped to the truck by braces coming around and over the wheels of the piece. These braces or clamps are so arranged that, when they are unfastened, they form a track or skid on which the piece can be easily rolled to the ground.

As with the other contending armies, the Germans are relying mainly on the field guns and howitzers. The kaiser's entire army was rearmed in this branch of the service a few years ago by an especially designed field gun in which the best features of the Krupp and Ehrhardt patterns were combined.

Here again mobility was one of the main considerations and the result was a gun 5,500 pounds in weight that could be hauled by six horses and easily handled by the gunners, when a quick shift of position was necessary.

This gun has a caliber of 3.03 inches, with an effective range of 5,500 yards and muzzle velocity of 1,500 feet per second. The English 13, 15, and 18 pounders are in the same class, though they are 500 pounds heavier in dead weight, but have a slightly more powerful muzzle velocity. The British gun can be served at the rate of twenty-five shots per minute, while the German and French guns of the same class average twenty rounds.

The usual distances for the opening of an artillery attack are from 3,000 to 4,000 yards, but the Germans do not hesitate to push forward their field guns with great boldness to closer ranges. Their theory is that hostile artillery and infantry will be so taken up with the attacking infantry at close ranges that very little attention will be actually paid to the guns supporting the infantry attack.

The Germans take great precaution in handling their ammunition. For the field pieces this is carried in wicker baskets, each of which contains six rounds and which fit compactly into the limbers. In this way the limbers can be kept well in the rear and under cover and the shells carried up in sixes from time to time to the guns after they have been man-handled into their firing positions. Thirty-six rounds of shrapnel are carried by each gun carriage and limber.

The German field battery consists of six guns, divided into three sections of two guns each. A battery commander's staff in the field consists of seven mounted men. They are one target indicator, one sergeant major, two telephone orderlies, one telescope carrier, and two horse holders.

The guns are provided with goniometric sights and shields about two inches thick. These steel shields are 4 feet 6 inches high and hinged horizontally above the gun, and a sighting hole is located directly over the barrel. The trail is of steel with shallow side brackets and is provided with a spade about 2 feet 3 inches wide and nine inches deep. The spade is imbedded in the ground and keeps the gun firmly in place, the recoil chamber taking up the recoil of the charge in the barrel.

As in the case of the field gun the German quick-firing howitzer is also a new pattern gun, being a combination of the Krupp and Ehrhardt models. They are pivoted on Krupp rear trunnions, but have the Ehrhardt system of recoil. The guns are mounted on recoil carriages of the new German field artillery pattern and are provided with spring spade brakes.

Owing to the character of the fighting along the western battle front, which has developed into practical siege operations, these howitzers are being used by the Germans in preference to the regular field artillery. While they do not carry as effectively for repelling direct attacks owing to their high angle fire, for the reduction of trenches they have been found more effective. They are able to drop a shell from above into the protecting trench directly among the enemy, which is not possible with the harder shooting field gun with its lower trajectory curve.

Another type of gun the Germans have employed with deadly effect in the trench fighting in Flanders and France is the trench mortar. It carries an immense shell for so small a gun and can be run about on its low wheels by two men. The barrel with its recoil cylinder weighs 128 pounds. The bed or mortar carriage weighs 928 pounds, making the complete piece weigh 1,160 pounds. The spherical shell weighs 187 pounds, ranging 350 yards, with an elevation of 43 degrees.

GERMAN FIELD ARTILLERY IN ACTION—This quick firer has a calibe of 3.03 inches and corresponds to the French "75." The kaiser's field and horse artillery were rearmed a few years ago with these long-recoil, quick-firing guns.

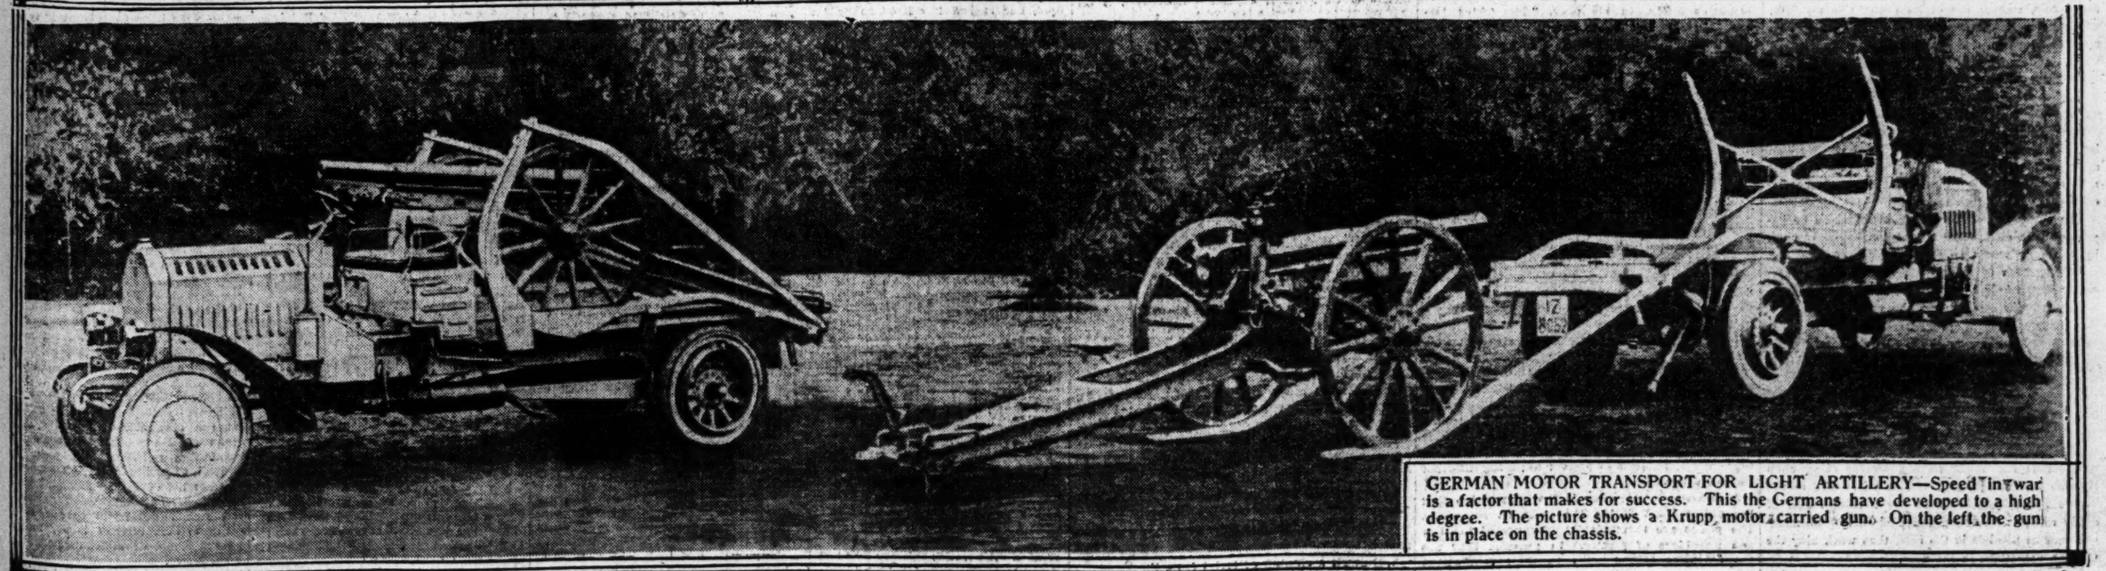

GERMAN TRENCH MORTAR—This piece shown in the picture was captured by the allies near Nieuport.

HEAVY FIELD GUN OF THE GERMAN IMPERIAL GUARD—This is one of the larger field pieces used by the kaiser's forces and corresponds to the 120 mm. (4.728 inches) gun of the French. Its caliber is 11 centimeters (4.43 inches).

READY FOR WORK.

Speaker Shanahan's committee lists indicate a desire on the part of the speaker to make the best use of the material available in the house of representatives. It was not as easy to do as it might have been if there had been a party election or even if the Republicans had given a stronger indorsement to the choice of the house; but Mr. Shanahan avoided the chief embarrassments of the situation.

By injudicious committee appointments a speaker may head his program directly for the rocks. Mr. Shanahan has consulted desirability as well as expediency and the house seems to be about as well organized as its membership would permit it to be.

PASSED BY THE SENATE.

The constitutional convention resolution, introduced by Senator Curtis, has gone the easy stage of its journey. The senate has passed it. That was expected. The senators must feel assured not only of the wisdom of submitting this question to the people but also of the wish of the people in their districts to have it submitted. The sentiment which has guided the senators from forty-two of the fifty-one senatorial districts of the state ought to prevail with the members of the house of representatives from those districts.

If it does the question will be submitted and the people can determine whether they want a new constitution. That is all that is asked of the legislature—to submit the question.

COUNTY INHUMANITY TO BOYS.

We have had something to say about the neglect of boys who are criminals in the making. It is appalling to reflect, after reading Mr. Hyde's article in THE TRIBUNE of yesterday, what the county itself contributes, wittingly and unwittingly, to the making of youthful criminals. It overcrowds the jail, putting four boys into one cell—and a dark one to boot—and condemning them to idleness, filth, foul air, and bitterness of spirit. Many of the boys are thus punished for weeks, only to be released as "innocent"! Yet we talk about the cruelties of war and the rebarbarization of society by the horrors of camp, trench, and sea fight!

The object of this comment, however, is not to indict the peace, order, and civilization of Cook county. It is to reinforce the plea of Mr. Hyde's article, and of the jailer, Mr. Davis, for a small appropriation enabling the latter to mitigate the horrors and cruelties of the prison. The project Mr. Davis has at heart is simple; he would build two additional stories and thus provide more and fitter cells as well as a gymnasium for boys awaiting trial or discharge.

Let the county commissioners ask themselves whether they would expose any boy in whom they have a friendly interest to the treatment now meted out to those in the county jail. Let them inspect the cells and watch the inmates for an hour or so. Let them then sit down and do a little quiet, prayerful heart searching. Can they afford to assume the responsibility for the conditions that actually exist? Can the county afford to treat boys worse than prisoners of war are treated in the belligerent countries across the water? Mr. Davis' request should be granted without a dissenting vote and without a day's unnecessary delay.

THE NEW GERMAN DRIVE.

The report from Petrograd of a new advance of augmented German forces on Przasnysz is intimation of another critical struggle at that point and, not improbably, of a Russian reverse there. Przasnysz is a stronghold which the Germans must take before they can press forward very far in the northeast, where they are now bombarding the stronghold of Ossowetz, one of the fortresses guarding the Narew river and the line of railroad communication between Petrograd and Warsaw.

With the latter city as the prize in view the German army, making use of its remarkable mobility, will concentrate and strike at different points along the defensive line of the Narew, which flows northward from the vicinity of Warsaw, until, if Russian resistance is not great enough, a breach is hammered through and the communications of Warsaw are cut off and the Russian line is broken.

Such a success, if properly sustained, would isolate the capital of Poland and compel the Russian army to re-form on a line to the east. The best railway in Russia would then be lost and the fall of Warsaw probably assured.

The consequences of such an event would be important politically, since the occupation of Warsaw by Germany would be followed, it is believed, by the declaration of a Polish state under the suzerainty of the kaiser.

The military results would be even more serious. The German army would establish a very strong natural defensive line along the Vistula, the Narew, and the Nieman, dominating the main railroad system serving this region from Warsaw. Thenceforward the Germans, well established on enemy territory, could protect Cracow and Silesia and would be called upon to draw fewer men from the western front. The loss to Russia, on the other hand, would be palpable and might have a serious effect upon Russian internal politics. At best it would reduce Russia almost hopelessly to the thankless rôle of costly assaults for the purpose of holding as many Germans as possible in the east, thus weakening the German operations in the west.

These German operations are therefore to be followed with exceptional interest. Thus far Von Hindenburg has not been able to follow his successes up to a vital point on the Russian defenses. Whether he succeeds this time must depend upon whether the fierce hammering he has given the Russian army has seriously weakened its morale or its organization. It also depends upon the ability of the Anglo-French armies to compel an important diversion of troops from the eastern army by a serious threat in Flanders or France.

THE WAY TO PEACE.

Here in the United States we reveal a disposition to tell Europe that war is hell. We reason that if this statement be reiterated it will gain life and meaning and force its way into the consciousness of people now unobservant, insentient, and unreasoning. When it has gained control in European thought it will be an easy matter to overcome the madness and the people will abate their fury and return to peaceful pursuits, grateful, probably, to have had their attention called to the catastrophic aspects of their conduct.

Roland G. Usher in his article in the New Republic on the American peace movement is moderate and careful to avoid injuring the sensibilities of persons engaged in it, but he is successful in presenting the ingenuous character of our endeavors.

A United States senator introduced a resolution to inform the world that the war is a "world-wide catastrophe" and "involves the disabling or death of the fit, the strong, and the courageous." These truths suddenly have revealed themselves in a land comfortably excluded from the consequences of the war, but have not entered the homes which have given up men. The senator's phrase that Europe has accomplished a "substitution of the law of the jungle for that of Christian civilization" is an ingratiating statement to throw at people who are sacrificing themselves in what they regard as their highest duty.

We call Europe mad and call upon it to collect and compose itself, and if we find that we have become insufferable in the opinion of the people who are suffering the agony we shall not understand it. We compliment them by denying the worth of their sufferings and, betraying the fact that we have no data for an understanding of their catastrophe, no sympathy for their struggles, and no comprehension of the problems with which they have been living for generations, we offer ourselves as psychopathic experts to cure their insanity.

Our assumption that the war had no cause is an open door to the conclusion that it need have no result. Our assumption that the belligerents do not know what terrible things they are doing warrants us in being expository and in hoping that when we have made it plain a shock of understanding will halt the armies and men will return to the occupations in which they were found last July.

There is nothing clearer to us than that a return to normal can be brought about by the pleadings of neutral but agonized nations. We do not regard this as a distortion of everything rational, but an occasional impatient word from Europe bidding us hold our own peace indicates that the people who are fighting the war do so regard it.

Our revulsions may seem offensive to them, insulting their intelligence and agony. They may perceive their calamities quite as clearly as we do. They may be quite as interested in finding a way out of them quickly. Our method may be a dubious one of preparing for any real service which at the proper time and in rational manner we may offer.

BIG, FAST SHIPS.

The battle cruiser represents the naval means of "getting there fustest with the mostest men." It has won the sea fights which have been fought in this war. It is light and quick. Armor is sacrificed, in part, to speed. Speed and range are sought with the most powerful engines and the most powerful guns. The battle cruiser is expected to outsteam and outhit its enemy. It may accept or refuse battle. With a slower, heavier opponent it chooses its own conditions. It makes the fight the way it wants to make it. The United States navy has none of these ships.

Expert opinion in our construction department for a time did not favor this type. Lord Fisher had difficulty in forcing his plans for them through the British admiralty. Opinion, or prejudice, was in favor of the heavier, slower dreadnaught type.

In our case even if expert opinion had favored the building of ships of this type it might have been ineffective with congress, which frequently must be moved by journalistic treatment. Expert opinion may only recommend. Even at the point of insistence it lacks pressure. The naval history of this war may help to correct our deficiency by revealing it. The American navy needs a homogeneous squadron of fast, powerful ships.

Editorial of the Day.

THE THIRD DEGREE.

[From the Memphis Commercial-Appeal.]

In England the constitution requires a suspect, placed under arrest, to make no admission that may be subsequently used against him in the event of a criminal trial. In other words, a person placed under arrest is not urged to confess or to make any incriminating admissions. If he desires to confess or to enter a plea of guilty this is his privilege, but the police powers cannot compel him to do so.

In this country it is just the reverse. The minute the arresting officer lays hands on a person suspected of crime pressure is brought into play to force an admission of guilt.

Charles Klein, in his play, "The Third Degree," exposed the iniquitous system as it is applied in the United States. Congress has frowned against it, but the system continues just the same. The secrets of the police are usually the ones forced from its victims.

A Syrian woman, charged with murdering her husband by administering arsenic, was found not guilty last week by a jury at May's Landing, N. J. The verdict, while it may have been somewhat influenced by the defendant's sex, is directly attributable to disapproval of the methods of the police.

On the night of her arrest the woman was disturbed at half hour intervals by a detective who demanded a confession. This was continued until at last, in desperation for the want of sleep, she did confess in order to secure necessary rest. This confession constituted the chief evidence of the state. The judge instructed the jury that a confession obtained by force should be ignored, and as there was no other convicting evidence the jury brought in a not guilty verdict.

The third degree system is brutal. More than this, it should not be relied upon, because there is no proof that a confession thus obtained is sincere. The mere fact that a woman locked in a dark cell with a rat through fear confesses is not substantial proof. Under such conditions a woman will confess to almost anything whether she is guilty or not.

A common police error is the supposition that the police must fasten the guilt on some one. The police are theoretically servants of the law and upholders of justice. In practice they are too often concerned more in their reputations than for the abstractions of justice.

A FINE FEELING.

"I made my living so long in foreign countries that I think ill of no other nation." This one sentence from a letter received in Chicago from a former lady's maid who had gone back to Germany, is a text for a sermon for all the world today. . . Our hat is off to the German woman who in the midst of passionate hatreds could yet see the bigger thing that lay behind them all.—The Valued Post.

O BELGES et Français! vieillards, femmes, enfants,
Foulés sous le talon des Germains triomphants,
Louez la campagne flamande!
Souffrez la faim, le froid, l'outrage et la prison;
Vos maux vous ont valu le gracieux pardon
D'une camériste allemande.

O soldat, et ta fille a la honte en son sein;
Mais à la vertu qu'on se rende!
Refoule la vengeance en ton cœur étonné;
Tu n'as fait que souffrir, mais elle a pardonné,
Cette camériste allemande.

Ne touche-t-il ce cœur, ingrat? C'est le moment,
Grand Dieu, qu'il faut que l'on s'amende.
Auprès de ce "feeling kulturell" et chrétien

Et qu'importe la ruine et le manque de pain?
On rebâtira Reims, on refera Louvain.
Donc, tous, rendez-vous sur la lande,

UN LIEUR.

AFTER eight or nine reams of diplomatic correspondence between Mr. Bryan and various presidents of Mexico, one important point has been definitively established: It is unsafe for foreigners to remain in Mexico.

A THING we probably shall never know is, do our north side neighbors fall for the phony "extras" which we see their servants buying, or are the servants spending their own money?

FROM the fuss which the critics make over Kitty Gordon's back we assume that the elevation of the stage that at present interests them is a rear elevation.

Burble and Blurb.

Dear Line: As a result of studious concentration on the dictionary ads in the street cars I have learned when to say "whom," and I can avoid saying "He finally became ill and in the end he died" while keeping three oranges in the air and crossing and uncrossing my toes. Altogether I feel that I have been successful in solving most of the problems of niceties of speech conduct; but I do not know the difference between a "burble" and a "blurb." They are two such fascinating words I do not want to misuse them. I feel that to use them correctly is to number oneself among the cognoscenti. There, I got that out! Please help me. W. F. Y.

[We hesitate to draw a hard and fast distinction. A specific case should dictate the specific word. The description of a motor car by the enraptured agent would be perhaps a "burble," while the announcement by a magazine editor of the wonders of next month's number would classify as a "blurb."]

OBJECTION is filed by "Several Southern Readers" to our adumbration of "southern chivalry." We are desirous to be enlightened. What is southern chivalry?

HOW TO SHAKE HANDS.

[From the Merchants' Trade Review.]

We have found that when you approach the person to shake hands, if you will get the grip on their hand before they have time to grip yours, you have gained an advantage. The hand should be slipped well into, or over, the hand of the person you want to shake with—that is, push the thumb and forefinger of your hand well into the thumb and forefinger of the person with whom you are shaking. Do it rather quickly and the instant you feel that your hand is in place, bring the grip into play instantly. Don't grip the hand hard enough to cause pain to the person with whom you are shaking, but yet give him a good, firm grip. After you have practiced a little, you can tell just about how hard you can squeeze without hurting the other party.

Before your hands touch, be sure that you are looking the other party square in the eye. Don't wait until you have hold of his hand, but watch his eye instantly, and if you will watch the eye of the other party very closely, you will notice that, when you bring the grip into play, you can see a response in the features of the other party.

Then it is a good idea, immediately, when you feel your hand touch the other party, to place your left hand on their elbow, not below the elbow, but back of it so as to be able to pull their arm, as it were, towards yours. Don't pull very hard, but just be firm about it. Take hold of the elbow joint with just a little firmness. Of course, these things are all done practically at the same time and it will take a little practice for you to be able to do this and get the best results.

NOTHING is said in the foregoing about stance, but we should think that an open stance would assist the follow-through.

The Pinnacle of Futility.

Sir: While others may deplore the utter futility with which the Germans advance on Paris, the French on Berlin, the Russians on Berlin, and the Germans on Petrograd, my heart goes out to the gentleman who labors against the pinnacle of futility—I refer to the artist employed by the ——— ——— Company, complexion clarifiers, who is trying to make a dot in a zinc etching look like a pimple. POETRY FROM THE TRENCHES.

[Review of the letters of a Canadian soldier-bard, in the Regina Standard.]

One poem in particular, "Mud," has feeling and fervor in every line. The writer evidently knew whereof he spoke from real and bitter experience, and concludes with the following plaintive lines:

"The ditty I have written
In the mud,
For wherever I've been sittin'
There is mud;
It has covered every spot,
On my hands there's quite a lot:
When I'm dead, Oh, plant me not—
In the mud!"

IT always pains us to see the Cannery referred to with a lower case "c." You might as well write "louvre," or "british museum," or "art institute."

CLOSED WINDOWS.

IN the Johnstown, Pa., investigation it was found that practically all of the homes visited had windows enough to furnish ventilation. The poorer people of Johnstown live in cottages. Land values have not been pushed up to the point where the people must live in great, tall tenements occupying all of the ground space.

The investigators found windows enough in Johnstown. The sickness was because they were closed windows. Only 604 of the 1,389 babies slept in rooms the windows of which were opened at night. Some of the mothers said they opened the windows when the weather was good; that they did not open them if the weather was cold or damp. Others said that they were afraid to let outside air into baby's room, so they opened the door into a hall or into another room. Others said they did not believe in cold air for a baby, and that they always kept the windows closely shut. Others did not think about it one way or the other. They simply left the windows down.

Many had trouble keeping warm as it was. They could scarcely afford fuel enough when the windows were down. To heat up a room when the windows were open was out of the question.

Hundreds of times I have been in poor homes where about the following conditions prevail: A sick baby is in a small bedroom opening off the kitchen. The one window is down, and the cracks are chinked. In the kitchen stove a fire is going; a number of children are playing about the room. The kitchen windows are closed; the dinner is cooking; the mother is washing, and the clothes that have been washed are hung around the room.

Any one with experience will tell you that the above is a common sight. Under the circumstances, can we wonder that the baby death rate from colds is almost as high as that from summer complaint?

Babies stand cold very well. They are good heat makers. Increasing their weight 100 per cent within a few months means that for their weight they must eat an enormous amount of food. When food is turned to flesh, heat is a byproduct.

They cannot, though, stand dirty air. Their lungs have never been trained to fight the germs of colds.

One reason why the windows are closed and chinked in baby's room is because this fact is not known.

Another reason given by the Johnstown report was that "the houses were drafty and flimsy and that they were not livable when windows were open."

Another reason was that "the outside air was so laden with soot, ashes, and smoke that every effort was made to keep it out of the houses."

DEEP BREATHING.

E. C. L. writes: "I find marked differences between various physical culture teachers and doctors as to deep breathing. With the inhalation do you first throw out the abdomen and use that as a bellows to inflate the upper portions of the lungs? What are the beneficial effects of deep breathing? Does it massage the bowels and solar plexus?"

REPLY.

1. It makes no difference which you try to do first. To breathe deeply you must both draw down your diaphragm and lift your ribs, and, regardless of who teaches you, you will do them practically simultaneously.

2. There is a great deal of bunk about deep breathing. It is good exercise for the chest muscles and moderately good exercise for the abdominal muscles. It stirs up the circulation. It fills the blood vessels of the skin and in this way warms up cold feet. It may stimulate the liver and bowels to a fair degree. It does not increase the amount of ozone or even oxygen in the tissues.

CAUSES OF SWAYBACK.

P. C. B. writes: "Can you tell me what causes a person to become swayback, and how that condition may be overcome?"

REPLY.

There are several causes. When one gets pot-bellied, the back sways, and the shoulders are thrown back. Therefore obesity is a cause. Great weakness of the muscles of the back is another. There is a disease which occasionally occurs in children that produces swayback in this way.

Children are sometimes taught to throw their shoulders back and their chest out. When the shoulders go back the abdomen goes forward. Therefore, habit is a cause.

Work, exercise, and particularly gymnasium work constitute one method of overcoming it. Read Bancroft on the "Posture of School Children."

ENLARGED SPLEEN.

A. B. H. writes: "What is the cause and effect of a swollen or enlarged spleen? Is it dangerous? Would you suggest a diet?"

REPLY.

The spleen may enlarge as the result of any one of several diseases. The ague cake of malaria is an enlarged spleen. The enlargement of the spleen in leukemia is very great. A very loose floating spleen frequently enlarges. In addition to these causes of chronic enlargement certain acute diseases, such as pneumonia and typhoid fever, cause acute enlargement of the spleen.

Chronic enlargement of the spleen is always a serious matter, calling for careful investigation and proper teratment. Diet will be of no service.

GREASE GLANDS.

J. O. T. writes: "The pores of my nose continually emit a greasy sweat which increases with the heat. Is this due to any internal disorder or is it merely a disease of the skin? What will stop it?"

REPLY.

The skin contains grease as well as sweat glands. Secretion by the grease glands should be promoted, not hindered.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

[Copyright: 1915: By the Brentwood Co.]

SIR HEDWORTH MEUX, now in chief command at Portsmouth, and who has just been promoted to the rank of admiral of the fleet, which is the naval equivalent to that of field marshal in the army, is perhaps better known on this side of the Atlantic by his former name of Sir Hedworth Lambton, under which he so greatly distinguished himself in the defense of Ladysmith during the war in South Africa.

A brother of the Earl of Durham, he owes his change of name to the fact that he was made heir to all the large fortune and valuable estates of Lady Meux, a one time variety actress and widow of the multimillionaire brewer, Sir Henry Meux.

She was in no wise related to Sir Hedworth and only knew him through his having shown her one or two slight courtesies at race meetings.

She declared her bequest to be a tribute to her admiration of his services in the Boer war, but stipulated that on inheriting her property he should assume the name and the arms of Meux, in lieu of those of the Lambtons, of whom Lord Durham is the chief.

The rank of admiral of the fleet not only carried with it considerably increased pay, but has the additional advantage of enabling its holder to remain on the active list until 70, instead of being retired on the score of age at 65.

Sir Hedworth, who does not share the quarrelsome disposition for which his father and grandfather, his elder brother, and so many other members of his family have been famous, is persona gratissima with the reigning family and has been connected ever since the reign of Queen Victoria either in active or in an honorary capacity with the sovereign's household.

The present Lady Meux is a charming woman, the widow of Lord Cadogan's eldest son, the late Viscount Chelsea, and is a sister of Lord Allington.

She is as dainty, as refined, as high bred, and supremely elegant as the late Lady Meux, whose name she now bears, was the reverse.

The late Lady Meux was renowned for her appalling vulgarity, for her murder of the king's English, and for her accentricity of raiment, manners, and speech. These were redeemed in a great measure by her real kindness of heart, her generosity, and her patriotism.

Moreover, she saved from destruction old Temple Bar, for centuries the Fleet street gateway of the city of London, on the top of which the heads of traitors were kept spiked in olden times.

Purchasing it when the metropolitan improvements rendered its removal necessary, she had it carefully transferred, stone by stone, and reërected at the entrance of her country seat, Theobald's park, near Waltham Cross, where it now stands, most picturesquely framed by grand old trees.

Theobald's park, where James I. once held court, now belongs to Admiral of the Fleet Sir Hedworth Meux.

Comte Charles de Noailles, who has just given his life for his country in battle in France as an officer of French cavalry, was next heir to a French dukedom, and, with a strain of American blood in his veins through one of his two grandmothers, included among his ancestors great French nobles, who had taken part in the first and second crusades, and also that Joachim Murat who rose from a village inn ostler in France to be Grand Duke of Berg and King of Naples.

The late Comte Charles was the only brother and next heir of Henri de Noailles, seventh Duke of Mouchy, Prince and Duke of Poix, and grandee of the first class of the kingdom of Spain, who is still unmarried.

His mother is that widowed Princess et Duchesse de Poix, née Madeleine de Courval, whose name so frequently appears in American newspapers as the signer of letters of thanks for the supplies which they have collected and forwarded to the committee, of which she is the president in Paris, for the relief of the suffering in the French provinces occupied by the German armies.

The young count's grandmother is the widowed Duchesse de Mouchy, who was born at Bordentown, N. J., in 1841, as Princesse Anna Murat of an American mother, Miss Caroline Fraser of Philadelphia, and who married in Paris in 1865 at the palace of the Tuileries, Antoine de Noailles, sixth Duc de Mouchy, being given away at the altar by her cousin, Emperor Napoleon III.

The De Noailles have other associations with the United States. The late Duc de Noailles, the head of the entire house, who was a member of the Academy of France, devoted much attention to America and was the author of a monumental work entitled: "A Hundred Years of Democracy in the United States."

The present Duc de Noailles may be said to have inherited his father's American leanings, and for several years was president of the association formed by Baron Pierre de Coubertin "for the purpose of promoting French influence in the universities and educational centers of the United States."

The society has an annual dinner in Paris on Washington's birthday.

His uncle, the late Marquis de Noailles, represented France for some years at Washington as minister plenipotentiary.

Two of the De Noailles, Comte Louis of that ilk and the Duc d'Ayen, it may be remembered, accompanied General the Marquis de Lafayette to America and fought with him for the independence of the United States.

The De Noailles trace their ancestry back by means of official records in an unbroken line to Pierre de Noailles, the crusader, who flourished in the beginning of the twelfth century.

Hugues de Noailles, on sailing for the Holy Land, in the crusade of St. Louis in 1248, signed a deed bearing that date, and still in existence, according to which his lands and name were always to descend exclusively in the male line.

The dukedom of Noailles was created in 1663 and the title of Duke d'Ayen was also bestowed upon the head of the family and is now always borne by the eldest son and heir.

The head of the younger branch of the De Noailles has the dukedom of Mouchy and of Poix, and his eldest son, when he has one, is usually known as the Prince et Duc de Poix.

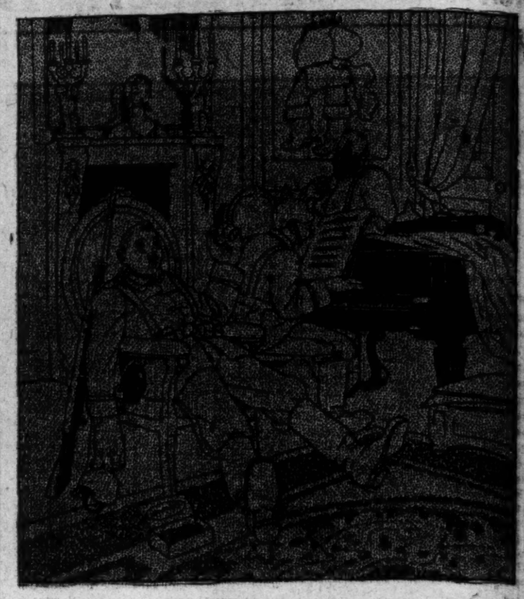

It is a line that branched off from the main stem 200 years ago, and has its seat at the château of Mouchy in the department of the Oise.

The principal seat of the Duc de Noailles is the château of Maintenon, in the department of the Eure-et-Loire. It was a present from Louis XIV. to his morganatic wife, Françoise de Maintenon, who in turn gave it to her niece, wife of a member of the De Noailles family.

The castle was built in the reign of Louis XII., and the towers and chapel of that epoch are standing to this day.

PAVE SPAULDING AVENUE THIS YEAR.

Chicago, March 8.—[To the Friend of the People.]—What is the situation with respect to paving Spaulding avenue south of Twelfth street? S. REICHMAN.

We will soon advertise for bids on the paving with asphalt of Spaulding avenue from Twelfth street to Ogden avenue, and the street will be paved this year.
EDWARD J. GLACKIN, Secretary.

CONDITIONS APPARENTLY GOOD

Chicago, March 8.—[To the Friend of the People.]—The owner of the building at 3000 South Laflin street is renting the basement, which appears to be constructed in violation of the building laws. Kindly see what can be done to remedy the condition and oblige. A READER.

I find that this cellar is occupied by a single man tenant, and although the rooms apparently were constructed in violation of law some years since, the present conditions will not justify the intervention of the department at the present time. G. B. YOUNG,
Commissioner of Health.

KEYSTONE AVENUE PAVING.

Chicago, March 9.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Kindly inform me if Keystone avenue, between Chicago avenue and Division street, will be paved this year, and if assessment is due this fall.
CHAS. MERRITT,
1137 North Keystone avenue.

We expect to have the assessment confirmed during the spring for paving Keystone avenue, between Chicago avenue and Division street, the case being now on a calendar, and we will advertise for bids on the work as soon as the assessment is confirmed. If the street is paved this year the assessment will be in collection next year, not any earlier.
EDWARD J. GLACKIN, Secretary.

MUST SECURE BUILDING PERMIT.

Chicago, March 8.—[To the Friend of the People.]—I bought a house recently and the plumbing in the second flat was not completed. Kindly inform me if it will be necessary for me to have a plumber finish the work or if I can be permitted to do the work myself.

F. J. PURTZ, 0611 South Lincoln street.

Our records show that a building permit was issued on Aug. 21, 1913, for a five room residence at this location. Inspection made on Feb. 16 shows that partitions have been erected on the second floor for a four room flat and bathroom. It will be necessary for the owner to submit plans for approval and procure a building permit before the apartment can be finished and before any plumbing can be installed. Under the state law it will be necessary for the owner to employ a certified plumber to do this work and it must be inspected and approved by this department.

HAMLIN AVENUE TO BE PAVED.

Chicago, March 8.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Kindly let me know when Sunnyside avenue, from North Hamlin to North Crawford avenues, is going to be made wider and please let me know if North Hamlin avenue, from Montrose to Wilson avenues, will be paved this spring.
EMMA W. KELLAR,
4456 North Hamlin avenue.

An estimate has been ordered for paving with asphalt a system of streets, including Sunnyside avenue, between Crawford and Hamlin avenues, but it is not likely that the improvement will be made this year. The details as to width of roadway, etc., will be passed upon at the public hearing, which will be held as soon as the engineer prepares the estimate of cost. There is no condemnation proceeding started for widening the street. Bids were opened last week for paving with asphalt Hamlin avenue, between Montrose and Wilson avenues, and the street will be paved this year. EDWARD J. GLACKIN, Secretary.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

A DOCTOR ON PROHIBITION.

Wellsburg, Ia., March 10.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I have found in Iowa in the last thirty years that there is as much beer and more whisky consumed than ever. Witness the piles of "empties" on the freight platforms all over the state. Formerly we had our beer drinkers, now we have the vicious whisky drinkers with us. Formerly we had a high class of conscientious and intelligent druggists among us, now we have them degenerated into criminals, because the whisky traffic has been foisted upon them by a set of politicians to save the controlling party. If you wish to see America first, in Iowa per auto, you must take your refreshments with you or drink typhoid contaminated soft drinks as you go along.

The rich go to California to have a good time, or to Europe for the same, while the poor are condemned to the mercies of the bootlegger or the accommodating druggist. Where the laws are enforced there is an enormous increase of sales of Peruna, Hostetter's, Wine of Cardui, and headache remedies.

I have a perfectly safe suggestion to make as to the betterment of these conditions. I would let beer be sold only at places where food is sold to the public and do away with the swill trough bars. Whisky should be verboten, as it is in Russia and Germany at present. And in conclusion I would quote Dr. Mercier, that it is not the use of alcohol which drives men mad, but the insane man who makes insane use of it.

DISRESPECT TO THE FLAG.

Chicago, March 11.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—There was a party of us at the Auditorium Monday afternoon to see "Uncle Sam at Work," and when our beautiful flag was thrown on the canvas, as it was two or three times while the orchestra played "The Star Spangled Banner," there were only a very few people who could be induced to stand.

In every other country in the world when the national air is played, every one rises, or, if outside, the men remove their hats. Why not a good time now when other countries are so disturbed to teach patriotism in our own country."

SUSIE B. ORDWAY.

THREE CAUSES FOR PRIDE.

Chicago, March 8.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—While at Henry, Ill., the other day at the department store of Hutchins & Downey, I was told that Mr. Hutchins had recently celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his marriage. When I congratulated him Mr. Hutchins said: "There are three things of which I have reason to be proud. I have been in business here for more than fifty years; I have been married over fifty years, and, above all, I have been a constant reader of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for more than fifty years." C. J. ROSENBERG.

DOLLAR CHASING AND DOLLAR GETTING.

Chicago, March 10.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I have never read an editorial with more sadness than the one of yesterday headed "Dollar Chasers." Whether there are more "dollar chasers" in America than in Europe is a question I will not attempt to answer, but the pity and sadness of it is that a paper of your repute does not seem able to discern between a "dollar chaser" and a "dollar getter"—they all look alike to you, it seems.

With me and most fairminded people he who makes his life work (be it as a bell hop or a professor) his main object and sells his wares, service, or knowledge for what it is worth is a money getter. He who first, last, and all the time thinks of amassing the dollars by foul or fair means, like a Rockefeller or like the boy of 14 who plays hooky and neglects willfully his school work to sell newspapers, he who puts all considerations aside behind the one object, the dollar, is a "dollar chaser."

The man who "sells his art treasures" because he is poor is no more a "dollar chaser" than you if you were to take your editorials to a better market; but he who would sell his grandmother a "gold brick," he who neglects the advancement of his spiritual nature over the advancement of his bank account, is a "dollar chaser"—and this latter type of man is to the view of Europeans in a big majority in this great country of ours.

It is a great country, but it will take a long while to make America a "great nation." CHARLES A. STRUVE.

LOCATION FOR BUM FACTORY.

Chicago, March 10.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Mr. J. R. Promen of Galena wishes to locate a factory, which I consider unique, claiming that "his factory will turn out bums, deadbeats, drunkards, paupers, jailbirds, etc., and solicits a place to locate his factory." He also claims that "the institution which he wishes to manage will fill our jails, penitentiaries, and almshouses," showing his good fellowship.

He wishes to pay for this privilege "$1,000 to $1,500 per annum"—it is surprising that the Anti-Saloon league's votary should be so careless about throwing away $1,000 to $1,500 a year, for he needs no Chamber of Commerce to bid for the institution, which he hopes to bring into being.

If he will write to Kansas he will find that the particular business which he speaks of is already overdone, and in Kansas they call them "blind pigs." He might also write to Maine, Alabama, and a further list of states which his friends the Anti-Saloon league will furnish him, for the chief industry in these dry states is the manufacture of bums, thieves, hypocrites, and all the beautiful ilk which he speaks of.

THOMPSON LETS G.O.P. COMMITTEE MANAGE HIS RACE

Republican Candidate Seals Harmony Pact by Recognizing Regulars.

William Hale Thompson, Republican nominee for mayor, will recognize the authority of the regularly elected ward committeeman in the management of his campaign. Each committeeman is to be supreme in his ward and the mixed committee of eight, which Mr. Thompson proposed for each ward, will serve in an advisory capacity.

For memberships on the managing committee Mr. Thompson gave the names of Charles S. Deneen, former governor; E. J. Brundage, Charles V. Barrett, David F. Matchett, M. J. Dempsey, Eugene R. Pike, chairman; and Charles A. McCullough, vice chairman. One other Progressive is to be selected. Both factions of Republicans and Progressives are represented on the committee.

These to Head Committees.

For chairmanships of subsidiary committees the nominee made these selections:

Advisory, Joseph E. Haas; speakers, E. J. Brundage; fraud, Charles A. Williams; organization, Charles A. McCullough; registration, Walter E. Schmidt; finance, James A. Pugh; halls, A. W. Miller; publicity, Roy O. West; printing, John C. Cannon; and clubs, Oscar Hebel.

Sweitzer Praises Women.

Robert M. Sweitzer, Democratic nominee for mayor, jumped into the final mayoralty fray in earnest last night and from now until election day will make nightly addresses on campaign issues. It was to the women voters he paid the honor of making his first address. He spoke before the Illinois Women's Democratic league at its reception in the Auditorium hotel.

All factions in the Democracy of Chicago attended the reception and cheered the candidate. Women who took leading places in the Harrison fight during the primary were just as enthusiastic in their work under the Sweitzer colors.

Mr. Sweitzer told the women he expects them to be the largest single factor in his success, which he declared is certain. He expressed the belief that no candidate can win who has not the backing of the women and urged all to work to get every feminine voter on the polling lists next Tuesday.

ELECTION BOARD NAMES LAWYER TO TAKE UP FRAUD.

Serious Irregularities Found in the Count of Vote in 30th Ward—More Ballots Counted than Cast.

Vigorous prosecution of election frauds will be undertaken by the board of election commissioners. Colin C. Fyffe yesterday was appointed attorney to take up frauds for the board. Hotel and lodging house keepers especially are to be investigated. Commissioner Kellerman feared naming Mr. Fyffe would be construed as reflecting on Charles H Mitchell, attorney for the board. Commissioner Czarnecki replied that Mr. Mitchell never had shown any interest in prosecuting election frauds.

Commissioner Czarnecki announced that serious frauds are shown in the Thirtieth precinct of the Thirtieth ward. Gorman, Democratic candidate for city treasurer, received ninety-four more votes there than there were Democratic votes cast, according to Mr. Czarnecki.

The war between State's Attorney Hoyne and Judge Scully kept up during the day. Mr. Hoyne issued a statement that he has information that a "congress of dope fiends and disreputables" is to be called against his aids, accused by Judge Scully. He also threatened to arrest Judge Scully in chambers if he "violates the law."

M. V. L. WARNING CITES PERILS OF VOTERS' DEFAULT

Urges Registration, Especially Tuesday, to Guard the City Council.

"For the sake of the council all voters, and especially those of independent views, are earnestly urged to register on Tuesday, March 16, unless they registered in October, 1914, or February, 1915. New names cannot be added to the registers after March 16, and unregistered voters cannot take part in the April election.

"This year it is especially important from the standpoint of the council that independent voters, men and women, bestir themselves. With the mayoralty fight in the limelight, there is danger that the council will be deprived of the services of good and tried men and that undesirables and incompetents will slip in.

Still Chance to "Knife."

"At this time it may appear to the voters in certain wards that their good aldermanic candidates are in no danger. But in the period of more than three weeks before election the situation may be completely changed. False issues will be raised, and underhanded political deals, double crossing, and knifing have yet their part to play.

"Indifference and overconfidence on the part of the independent voter are the mainstay of those who are in politics for profit.

"Without belittling the importance of registering generally throughout the city, a few situations may now be mentioned as indicating the character of the contests to be decided at the election in April. In the Eighteenth ward Carl Murray, who retired from the council two years ago with a creditable record, has the notorious Barney Grogan running against him.

"Of Garbage Fame."

"In the Fifth ward Kramp, known as 'the little dynamo,' is opposed by Charley Martin of garbage fame. Both Murray and Kramp will win if independent men and women in their wards register and vote.

"Ald. Lawley in the Fourteenth ward, Sitts in the Seventeenth, and Kearns in the Thirty-first, men who have rendered years of faithful service to the people, deserve the indorsement of a heavy registration of intelligent voters. Buck in the Thirty-third ward is a new man of special promise, whose election will be insured by getting out a heavy vote.

"Unless your name is already on the books, go to the regular polling place in your precinct on Tuesday, March 16, between 8 a. m. and 9 p. m. and register."

Single Tax Club Wants to Know Standing of Aspirants on Subway Payment.

Candidates for mayor and aldermen today will receive a letter from the Chicago Single Tax clubs. The object is to put candidates on record on methods of financing the proposed subway. These two ways are mentioned:

1. By means of the traction fund with such additional bond issues as may be necessary.

2. By means of special assessments levied upon the property benefited.

LAY VOTE FRAUDS TO THEIR MAYOR

Terre Haute Witnesses Describe How "Repeaters" Were Used.

DANVILLE AID SOUGHT.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 11.—Chauffeurs and men who said they were foremen of "repeating crews," detailed at the trial in the federal court of Mayor Roberts of Terre Haute and twenty-seven other alleged election fraud conspirators today the manner in which fraudulent registrations were made and how Roberts flew into a passion when an automobile loaded with repeaters stopped in front of Democratic headquarters, which was a registration place also.

"Get away from here," shouted Roberts, calling the men a vile name, testified Otto Trappler, who said he was foreman of the automobile with its load of repeaters. The incident also was described by Jess Klippert, driver of the car. He said Roberts called him a vile name and struck at him.

Says Roberts Gave Orders.

Klippert said Judge Ell H. Redman, one of the defendants, went with him to Joseph Strauss, another defendant, to get his money. Klippert said he had been asked to do the work by Roberts.

Trappler, who has pleaded guilty, in addition to making out false registration applications and assisting in registering them said that he supplied 210 names for three houses in which there were only twelve legal voters.

A number of witnesses, including Trappler, John Bruns, a defendant, and his son, Bert, said they did not touch the keys of the voting machine when they went to vote. The three said the inspector did the voting for them. The two Brunses said they received a brass check each from the inspector and cashed them for a dollar apiece at the saloon of Frank Clark, who has pleaded guilty.

Accuse City Controller.

Dow Finleyson, Harley Frazee, and Oskar Surratt, all of whom have pleaded guilty and who were foremen, as was Trappler, testified they had received their registration applications from Elmer E. Talbott, city controller and a defendant, and that they passed them out to the men under them, who tried to register them at the various precincts.

Bert Jerome, another chauffeur employed on registration day, said he received part of his orders from John M. Masselink, city sealer and a defendant. He also had orders from Roberts and Richard Knuckey, another defendant, on election day, he testified.

Another Accuses Mayor.

"Mayor Roberts told me to make out about 2,500 registration applications for the last election," testified Edward Holler, former chief of police of Terre Haute. Holler, who has pleaded guilty, has been named by a number of witnesses as the leader in the city hall registration scheme.

Holler said Jack Hines, another who has pleaded guilty, told him of a plan to take a number of men from Danville, Ill., to Terre Haute for registration purposes, and Holler told him to go ahead.

SEEK $600,000 FROM NATION FOR CHICAGO HARBOR

Delegation to Call on Garrison Today, Asking for Allotment at Once.

Washington, D. C., March 11.—[Special.]—A delegation of Chicago municipal officials, headed by Assistant Corporation Counsel Skinner and Commissioner of Public Works McGann, will call on Secretary of War Garrison tomorrow to urge him to allot $600,000 for improvements in the Chicago harbor immediately.

Under the river and harbor act which passed the closing hours of the recent session of congress the secretary of war is given authority to allot $25,000,000 among such projects as he deems worthy of consideration.

In the bill as it passed the house and as it went to the senate there was an item of $574,000 for the construction of a breakwater south of the Chicago river in the Chicago harbor.

The delegation which will call on the secretary tomorrow will urge him to allot this amount or more for the work.

In discussing the visit tonight, Commissioner McGann said:

"I do not believe the people of Chicago or the secretary appreciate exactly the conditions at Chicago. If we are not able to get this money now, that breakwater cannot possibly be constructed before 1917 or 1918, and during all that time there will be nearly 4,000 feet of dock space which cannot be used.

Section to Be Finished in August.

"Even if we get the money immediately we cannot hope to get the breakwater completed before next year. But we sincerely want it completed by then.

"The contractors who are working on the northern section of the project expect to complete it some time in August. Unless they can get to work on the southern section immediately, I do not think it is possible for them to complete it within three years."

EDISON COMPANY DENIES "L" STOCK SPECULATION.

Answer Filed to Hogarth's Suit Involving Purchase of $20,000,000 Railway Shares.

A copy of the Commonwealth Edison company's answer to J. B. Hogarth's complaint alleging violation of the public utilities act in the purchase of elevated railways stock last July was received from the public utilities commission yesterday by Seymour Stedman, Mr. Hogarth's attorney.

The Hogarth complaint charged that the Edison company bought $20,000,000 of common stock and that the issuing of notes for the purchase of the stock interfered with rates for electrical energy. A fine of from $500 to $20,000 and imprisonment for the interested officials were demanded.

In its answer, filed by the law firm of Isham, Lincoln & Beale, the company admits the jurisdiction of the commission in general, denies that it is engaged in "speculative enterprises," and declares that the commission has no power to impose penalties for the offenses alleged.

ATTACK ON NEWSPAPER MAN.

Lee O'Neil Browne Speaks in the House in Reply to James Keeley.

Springfield, Ill., March 11.—[Special.]—Representative Lee O'Neil Browne, rising to a question of personal privilege in the house this morning, delivered a speech that had indirect reference to the failure of Speaker Shanahan to name him as chairman of any committee. The speech included a personal attack on James Keeley, editor of the Chicago Herald, because of comments made in that paper on the speaker's failure to name Browne to a chairmanship.

REALTY MEN DINE IN 'CIRCUS'

Tent, Barker, Hurdy Gurdy, and Talk by Cy De Vry Mark Luncheon.

FILMS SHOW ANIMALS.

A circus tent occupying the entire assembly room of the Chicago real estate board, with suspended lanterns and candles on the tables, voluble barkers, together with a hand organ and monkey near the entrance way, yesterday marked the most unique luncheon in the history of that organization.

Talk by Cy De Vry.

It was devised by Executive Secretary Herbert A. Cole and the luncheon committee of the board as a fitting background for the talk of Cy De Vry, director of the zoological department at Lincoln park, on "Wild Animals in Captivity." The talk was illustrated by stereopticon views and moving pictures of the animals in the zoo. It attracted a crowd which taxed the capacity of the large room.

The moving pictures aroused much interest, particularly those showing the feeding of the animals, the big elephant Duchess taking a bath, pulling a python's fang, and cutting the lions' toenails.

Better Care than Humans.

De Vry prefaced his remarks with the statement that the animals in the "zoo" have better care in their diet than one-half the people of Chicago, and that no hotel in the city provided such a complete and healthful menu as that served these animals during six days of the week.

DE YOUNG OFFERS COOK COUNTY BILL ON CIVIL SERVICE

Scanlan Introduces Measure Which Would Repeal Direct Primary Law.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., March 11.—[Special.]—Perhaps the most important bill introduced in the house today from Chicago's standpoint was offered by Representative De Young of Cook. It was the county civil service bill, which has been approved by unanimous vote of the Cook county board of commissioners.

It provides that there shall be three civil service commissioners; that there shall be no blanket clause for present county employés; it places 3,000 employés under its provisions, with the provision that present merit law appointees shall be retained, pending examination. The bill may pass.

The "residence option" bill, which promises to be the big measure of the drys, was introduced today.

Representative Scanlan introduced a bill which in effect repeals the present direct primary law and substitutes the old delegate convention system as it prevailed just before the direct primary law was enacted.

House Bills.

Among the bills introduced in the house were:

By Burns—Fixes fees and compensation of chief clerk and assistant chief clerk of board of elections commissioners as follows: First class: Election commissioner's salary, $700 per annum; chief clerk, $600. Second class: Election commissioner's salary, not less than $1,800 nor more than $2,500; chief clerk, $1,000 to $1,500. Third class: Commissioner's salary, $5,000; chief clerk, $5,000 to $6,000; assistant chief clerk, $3,500.

By De Young [by request]—Provides for creation in counties of 150,000 or more of county civil service commission of three to be named by county board. Puts county employes under civil service.

By Ellis—Defining "prohibition territory." Makes any and all territory in state in which sale of liquor or licensing is prohibited "prohibition territory." Does not include territory within which a municipal ordinance is in force for granting licenses.

By Madsen—Prohibits employment of armed strike breakers or guards, $1,000 fine and imprisonment not to exceed three years.

By Pierson—Juries to decided through County courts for releases of patients from insane asylums. (Bill prepared by Coroner Hoffman of Cook county.)

House Resolutions.

The following joint resolutions were introduced in the house:

By Rinehart—To amend constitution to remove the limit on number of amendments to be voted on. Any legislature may propose as many amendments as it likes and as many times as it likes.

By W. M. Brown—To amend the constitution to give full suffrage to women.

FEARED HE WOULD GO MAD; THAW'S STORY OF ESCAPE

Horrors of Matteawan and Knowing No Legal Way Out, He Fled, He Tells Jury.

New York, March 11.—[Special.]—Harry K. Thaw today told the story of his escape—departure, his counsel calls it—from Matteawan on Aug. 17, 1913.

The account disclosed a payment of $2,000 to the leader of the men who helped him get away on that day and implicated another man to such an extent that Deputy Attorney General Frankin Kennedy announced in the evening that an indictment will be brought against him shortly for complicity.

Thaw Takes the Stand.

"Harry K. Thaw will please take the stand!"

At these words today Thaw got to his feet, his face somewhat pale,—a heavy sweater making his coat bulge here and there, and picked his way toward the witness chair from the counsel's table at which he had been sitting.

"I see," said John B. Stanchfield of Thaw's counsel, and he spoke very slowly, as if giving Thaw a chance to compose himself, "that you are suffering from a very bad cold, so I shall ask you, please, to speak as loudly as possible that all of the jurors may hear."

Despite this request Thaw's voice soon dropped to such a low pitch that some of the jurors had to lean forward and shield their ears with their hands in order to catch his words. At the rear of the courtroom it was impossible to hear what he said.

Feared He Would Go "Insane."

Mr. Stanchfield had him relate the main facts of his trials up to his incarceration in Matteawan and some of his duties at that place. Then he asked:

"As a result of your experience in Matteawan, what do you think would have happened to you had you not obtained your liberty?"

"Why, I thought—I thought that I might later justify the charge of insanity against me because of the horrors of the place."

"From the experience you had with habeas corpus proceedings did you believe there was any possibility of your gaining liberty through those channels?"

"No, sir; I felt that it was impossible. Of course, though, one always has some hope. Besides, I was informed by counsel that the superintendent couldn't release me."

"Was there any treatment given you?"

"Very little."

Asked About Padded Cells.

"Did you ever hear of persons being put in padded cells?"

This question was objected to by Frank K. Cook, for the state, and the objection was sustained.

"Well, Mr. Thaw, did you ever talk to any one about your right to leave Matteawan?"

"Did you talk to any lawyers of your right to leave if you had regained your sanity?"

"Yes."

"No Legal Way Out."

"You were given to understand," continued Mr. Stanchfield, "that there was no legal way out?"

"Yes, sir."

"And after you had arrived at this understanding did you ask for two automobiles to take you away?"

"Yes, I asked one of my agents, H. A. Hoffman. I asked him to find two automobiles and men, and I specified the date and time of day when they were to be in readiness."

"Why," asked Mr. Stanchfield, "did you ask for two automobiles?"

"Why, for fear one might break down."

"No, sir."

"What date did you fix for the automobiles to come?"

"If I remember rightly I at first mentioned the second Sunday in August, but I later stipulated Aug. 17 at 7 o'clock in the morning. For fear there might be some doubt about the time, I arranged to have the automobiles come at the same time with the milk wagon."

"And you were familiar with the fact that the milk wagon usually arrived at that hour?"

"Yes."

"Now, on Aug. 17 did you think you were sane?"

"Yes, sir."

"And when you walked through the gates that morning did you have any idea you were committing a crime?"

"I was exceedingly particular," answered Thaw with decided emphasis, "not to commit any crime or act of violence in any way."

"Did you know the codefendants or had you ever seen them before?"

"No, sir."

Planned to Go Home.

"Where did you intend to go?"

"I intended to go to my home in Pittsburgh. I wanted to avoid crossing New York state, so I directed the men to take me into Connecticut and then to New Hampshire, where I knew I could get a train through Canada to Detroit."

"Did a Pittsburgh bank send a physician to you, Mr. Thaw, a physician of its own choice, to determine if it would be safe to cash checks which you had signed?"

There was an objection to this question from the state, and it was sustained, as was practically every other objection intending to prevent the introduction of any testimony calculated to prove Thaw sane.

Grilled by Prosecution.

Thaw's assurance did not hold out as well under the rather more trying questions put to him by Deputy Attorney General Cook, who kept him on the stand for an hour, making an hour and forty minutes in all that Thaw testified.

"Do you remember that you once pleaded insanity to the charge of murder?"

"I never pleaded insanity," Thaw burst out, "but my counsel did so of his own volition."

"Do you mean to say you knew nothing about it?"

"Yes, but it was not done with my authority."

"Weren't you acquitted on the ground of insanity?"

"No, sir, I was not. I don't want to prove disagreeable, but——"

"Well, let me ask you, then if the jury didn't bring in a verdict of 'not guilty because insane?'"

"Yes, but they meant I was insane at the time."

"Did you ask Alfred Henry Lewis how you were to get the men to help you away from Matteawan?"

Asks Cost of Escape.

"How much did you pay for the job?" asked Mr. Cook.

Thaw showed a decided disinclination to answer this question. Finally he said:

"I gave Butler about $6,000."

"Yes."

"How much did you pay Thompson?"

"Well, I don't know for sure. Probably $5 or $10 a day."

"And was there a present for him later?"

"I gave him $1,000 in Canada and paid his counsel fees."

Thaw then said that he had not given money to the other men named in the indictment.

One Defendant Cleared.

At the end of the morning session the state closed its case and Abraham Levy moved that the indictment against Michael O'Keefe, one of the defendants, be dismissed on the grounds that there was no evidence to support it. It was dismissed.

Thaw's case fell to pieces almost before it got started. All of the witnesses had been called to testify regarding his sanity, but Justice Page would admit no testimony on this subject except that tending to show that Thaw was sane enough to discriminate between right and wrong when he escaped from Matteawan.

Thaw will take the stand again tomorrow morning for further cross examination, and the trial will then be closed with the summing up of both sides.

Put Wheat Stocks at 239,000,000 Bushels.

Washington, D. C., March 11.—Wheat held in country mills and elevators on March 1 amounted to 80,000,000 bushels, the department of agriculture estimated tonight, compared with 94,000,000 bushels one year ago and 118,000,000 in 1913.

The estimate was supplemental to the recent department report showing 152,903,000 bushels of wheat remained on farms March 1. It was interpreted by department officials as indicating that farmers have not been holding their grain. The number of bushels estimated for the important producing states are as follows:

Pennsylvania	3,800,000	North Dakota	6,527,000
Ohio	4,010,000	South Dakota	4,104,000
Indiana	3,188,000	Nebraska	4,087,000
Illinois	3,700,000	Kansas	8,860,000
Michigan	2,978,000	Oklahoma	4,756,000
Minnesota	4,298,000	Washington	6,694,000

Lathers, sheet metal workers, machinists, and painters employed at the Lumberman's Exchange, Madison and La Salle streets, went on strike at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The walkout primarily was caused by the woodfinishers' local of the Painters' District council because, according to Secretary R. C. Stewart, the interior finishing at the building was done by the Brunswick-Balke-Collender company at its Dubuque, Ia., plant. The wages there are lower than in Chicago.

Back of the walkout and the charges of the finishers, however, is the uniform agreement fight between some unions on one side and the Building Trades council and the Building Construction Employers' association on the other.

The uniform agreement designed to prevent strikes, has been ratified by the Building Trades council. The lathers, however, refused to sign and were locked out on all jobs by the contractors on Monday.

MILKMEN REJECT DEMAND.

Drivers' Union Refuses to Sign Agreement Which Does Not Give Them a Day Off Weekly.

The Milk Drivers' union last night voted unanimously to reject demands of the Illinois Milk Dealers' association to renew their working agreement without a day off a week. The employers were given another opportunity to comply with the workers' demands before the present contract expires April 1. Then the question of a strike may be considered.

GIRL'S BROTHER MUST PAY.

Dr. Rose Aron Borrowed $419 from Dr. Noah Z. Feldner and Then Jilted Him.

Dr. Noah Z. Feldner, a dentist, loaned Dr. Rose Aron $419.15 five years ago to complete her education while both were students at a dental school. He testified yesterday in Judge Uhlir's court that he was engaged to marry the young woman at the time, but they quarreled. Dr. M. J. Aron, a dentist, a brother of the young woman, promised in writing to make good his sister's debt, he said, but refused to do so. Judge Uhlir awarded a judgment against Dr. Aron, the brother, for $419.

TIRES OF KEEPING "SPOT IN HEART" FOR ABSENT MATE

Mrs. Rose Stafford Gets Divorce When She Produces Husband's Good-by Note.

Two years ago Llewellyn C. Stafford deserted his wife, leaving behind a small amount of money and a letter explaining that "secret trouble" had been preying on his mind through his twelve years of married life.

"I love you better than I can tell and that only is the reason I am doing this," wrote Stafford. "I pray to God that I come out right and can show you that I am right. As it is now I seem sure to fail periodically. Try to keep a spot in your heart for me."

For many months Mrs. Rose K. Stafford, who has been living in La Grange, kept the requested heart spot vacant. Yesterday she read the letter to Judge Foell and got a divorce.

PARTNER NEVER 'MADE GOOD'

Michael McNamara Dies Ignorant of Fate of Dan Coughlin, Who Escaped Gallows.

Michael McNamara of 4200 Calumet avenue, who was buried on Wednesday, died in ignorance of the whereabouts of his former partner, Dan Coughlin, twice a defendant in the famous Cronin murder case and now a fugitive from justice.

Coughlin, who was saved from the gallows for the Cronin murder by the vote of one juror, was arrested in 1898 on a charge of attempted jury bribery and jumped a $10,000 bond which his partner, McNamara, furnished. Coughlin has been reported dead and living in various parts of the world, but none of these rumors has been verified.

He never returned the $10,000 to McNamara, who was compelled to sell his business and mortgage his property to pay the forfeited bond.

Cleared of Robbery Charge.

Patrick Barrell, a business agent for the truck drivers and chauffeurs' union, was discharged on a charge of robbery before Judge Dolan in the Boys' court yesterday.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Tampa, Fla., March 11.—[Special.]—With decimated ranks the Cubs continued their triumphant march today, winning their fourth straight exhibition game and their third from the remnants of the former world's champion Athletics. The score was 5 to 4.

Bresnahan's corps was minus the services of Vic Saier, who is laid up with a leg that refuses to do its duty on account of a wrenched muscle. He managed to limp out to the game, but will not perform for several days.

Fisher Quits; Arm Sore.

Before the scrap was over Bob Fisher's arm gave out and he had to quit. Bob has been bluffing along with a wing, so sore he could hardly beat Grandpa Lajoie to first base on a fast grounder. He started the game today, but after two or three Athletics had beaten out grounders to short field Manager Bresnahan relieved the cripple and sent Boca Grande Corriden to cover short. Boca Grande is Castillian for Big Mouth, hence its appropriateness to Corriden.

The game was festured by the wild men on the slab for both teams. The Cubs used three hurlers and only Standridge was able to locate the pan with anything like consistency.

Adams Yields Three Runs.

Karl Adams had his troubles for three innings, during which the Mackmen scored three runs. He gave only one base on balls and made one wild pitch, but most of the five hits off him were made when he was deeply in the hole and had to groove the ball or walk.

Zabel, who reported late, worked the middle three innings and showed he has not been out of college long enough to recover from his examinations. In spite of his lack of control Zabel allowed only two hits and would not have been scored on but for a bobble by Corriden in the sixth. Standridge worked the last three innings and was airtight save for a clean hit by Thompson at the start of the ninth inning. This produced nothing.

Mack Hurlers Ineffective.

Capt. Harry Davis sent Harper and Bressler against the Cubs and they were about equally bad. Harper had no idea where the plate was in the four innings he pitched, but Umpire Wegmann helped him out by calling anything a strike that was near the plate. So the Cubs scored only four runson six swats, four passes and two batsmen punctured, helped out by three wild throws perpetrated by Harper and McInnis.

Bressler was pretty good on the slab for three innings, but in the eighth a single by Standridge, an awfully wild pitch, and a pass, followed by a double steal, scored the winning tally.

The game was brightened by the fielding of Thompson of the Mackmen, who robbed Zimmerman of two long hits and Archer of one. Schulte did the heavy stick work for the Cubs, slamming out three hits in succession.

Small Crowd at Game.

The crowds have been so small that the local committee which finances the Cubs' stay in Tampa is indigo blue. Every known scheme has been adopted to increase the crowds. The games, which originally were booked for 2 o'clock, have been set back to start later each day, and during the rest of the exhibition series they will not begin until 3:30 p. m., in the hope of attracting the "tired business man" and the Cuban cigarmaker.

We cannot really blame anybody for not wanting to sit through the exhibitions that have been staged here. Tomorrow the Cubs will play the Cuban Reds, champions of something or other.

YOUNG SOX BLANK OAKS, 1-0; SCROGGINS GOES THE ROUTE.

Oakland, Cal., March 11.—[Special.]—The White Sox Yannigans picked up a 1 to 0 victory over Oakland today. "Lefty" Scroggins went the route and showed himself a real pitcher. He didn't pass a batter, he fanned four Oaks, and they made only five hits off him.

Klawitter and Pruett, two of Oakland's best pitchers, worked against the Hose. The winning run came in the sixth, when Roth singled, stole second, and scored when Demmitt singled. Demmitt got three of the five Sox hits. The game was featured by Roth's throw from center field, which doubled up the Oaks' catcher at the plate and cut off the tying run. A fair crowd was out despite cold weather.

Tomorrow the Yannigans tackle San Francisco. Fournier may get back in the game. Boben will play short for the rest of the trip, replacing Blackburne, who left tonight to join the first team at Los Angeles. Wolfgang is in such bad shape he can't even practice.

LEAGUE PLANNED FOR BOYS.

A meeting of ball teams averaging between the ages of 12 and 16 years will be organized Tuesday night at the Windsor-Clifton hotel. Managers will kindly get into communication with J. J. Keown of A. G. Spalding & Bros. The Intercity Baseball association will hold its initial meeting Monday night at 234 North Clark street.

FEDERALS LEAVE TO SEE SINCLAIR

BY HANDY ANDY.

Acting on the suggestion of Judge Baldwin, who has been hearing the suit of the Kansas City club against the Federal league, the leaders in the league's defense left suddenly for New York yesterday to consult with Harry Sinclair regarding an amicable settlement of the dispute. Sinclair bought the Kansas City franchise from the league for $25,000, and it is thought the league magnates now will attempt to persuade him to operate his club in the Missouri city for at least one season.

League President Gilmore, President Weeghman of the Whales, and E. E. Gates, attorney for the independents, were in the party that hopped aboard the Twentieth Century yesterday afternoon.

Sinclair Willing to Shift.

Gilmore has declared the franchise given Sinclair must be used either in Newark or New York, but his sudden jump east is taken to indicate he may be willing to allow the club to play in Kansas City for another season. It has been reported that Sinclair, who has done much of his business in Kansas City, is perfectly willing to put his club there. If that is true the suit before Judge Baldwin may be settled before it is called for hearing again next Monday.

The other possible solution of the difficulty is the transfer of the Indianapolis champions to Newark. During the conferences it developed that the league has been seriously considering the evacuation of the Hoosier town. According to Gilmore, Sinclair has had a crew of men working on the grounds for a new park outside of Newark for nearly a month, and last Monday completed contracts for the erection of stands. Under the conditions it looks as if Newark will have a Federal club, regardless of the court's decision regarding the legality of the Kansas City transfer.

Johnson Back from Trip.

President Ban Johnson of the American league returned yesterday from a one day visit to Cleveland. He declared he merely went east to talk over the situation with Owner Charles Somers of the Indians. Ban said Somers is delighted with the reports he has received concerning the youngsters picked up by his club, and is predicting a pennant contender for Cleveland.

Comiskey to Keep Walsh and Benz.

FROM Los Angeles a news story was sent out last night in which Manager Rowland of the White Sox was quoted to the effect that Ed Walsh and Joe Benz would be left with Coast league teams unless they showed considerable improvement in their work before the Sox start east.

"Walsh is going poorly," is the remark credited to Rowland. "He may improve, but if he doesn't there is a strong chance that he may be left on the coast permanently. The same applies to Benz."

"That's all wrong," said President Comiskey, when told of the report. "Walsh and Benz will both be with us. There isn't a chance of them being shipped to the minors. I don't believe Rowland ever made any such statement."

PURPLE STAR BREAKS NOSE IN BASEBALL PRACTICE.

Wilbur Hightower, practicing at shortstop, suffered a broken nose in the Northwestern university camp yesterday, when a grounder bounded awkwardly and crashed against his nasal projection. Hightower was forced to quit while Trainer McGill gave first aid. Hightower, who was captain of the football team last fall and recognized as a member of the conference honor eleven, also was a victim of hard luck during the gridiron season, when he was forced to remain in a hospital for a week because of an injured knee.

McHale Must Sign or Quit.

Savannah, Ga., March 11.—Marty McHale, the only member of the Yankees whose name has not been put to a contract, probably will sign or leave the Yankees for good. After a long talk with McHale, Capt. Huston promised to put the matter up to Manager Donovan for final action.

CAN'T TRANSFER OLYMPIC GAMES

Governing Committee Has Not Authority to Make Change.

PARIS, March 11.—The international Olympic games committee has reached no decision regarding where the sixth Olympic meet shall be held for the reason that it has no authority to do so under the rules which govern its operations.

New York, March 11.—Frederick W. Rubien, secretary-treasurer of the Amateur Athletic union, said last night concerning a report that the official athletic bodies in the United States had been asked to arrange for the holding of the Olympic games in this country in 1916:

"If the Olympic games for 1916, originally planned for decision in Berlin, are to be held in the United States next year, we know nothing about the matter and do not want them."

A report from Stockholm quoted the president of the Olympic committee as authority for the statement that Germany is preparing to hold the games in Berlin in 1916 for representatives of her allies and of neutral countries.

Count Clary, president of the French committee, expressed the belief that no games would be held in Germany in 1916 and said he believed the next meet would be postponed until 1920.

ANOTHER BID FOR OLYMPICS.

Cleveland, O., March 11.—City officials and athletic club managers who conferred today hope to secure appropriations of $500,000 from congress and $50 000 from the legislature for the construction of a stadium in which to hold the 1916 Olympic games, if Cleveland succeeds in landing the event.

Phillies, 6; Cubans, 5.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 11.—The Philadelphia Nationals today won their third game from the Cuban Reds, 6 to 5. The Phillies will meet the Athletics tomorrow in the first of a three game series.

RALLY IN TENTH GIVES SOX GAME; E. COLLINS HERO

Former Mackman Leads 7-2 Victory Over Angels with Four Hits and Pass.

BY SAM WELLER.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 11.—[Special.]—For eight innings today the White Sox performed like the hitless wonders of other years, but in the ninth they came to life and scored a run which put them on even terms with the Angels, and in the tenth they let loose a terrific bombardment which produced five tallies and netted a 7 to 2 victory. No regular Sox fan would have recognized his favorites in that extra round. They looked more like Connie Mack's pitcher chasers than like a Comiskey club.

Eddie Collins was largely responsible for the defeat of Los Angeles. In five tries at the plate the former Mackman pasted a triple, a double, and two singles, besides waiting for one walk. Eddie inserted his triple in the ninth and counted a moment later when Shano of the same name lifted a long fly to the outfield.

Real Slugfest in Tenth.

Encouraged by the escape from defeat, the Sox went after Horstman hard in the tenth. Brief started with a single and an error gave Bromwich a life. Mayer and Scott delivered safeties, the first of which sent Brief home. Chappell pushed a hit into right and Bromwich and Mayor scored. Baker forced Scott, but Eddie Collins walked, and scored behind Chappell when John Collins tripled to left.

Scott traveled the overtime route with little trouble. Both runs scored by the coast teams were directly due to passes. The sturdy hunter seems ready for the championship campaign right now, for his long workout today followed a nine round engagement against Venice at San Diego last Monday. Scott let himself out only once, when Maggert poled a triple with one gone in the ninth. With Jim really trying the next two Angels were disposed of easily.

Angels First to Score.

McMullen gave the Angels their first run in the opening stanza. He worked a pass out of Scott, moved up on Metzger's double, and went in on an infield out. Off Perritt the Sox accumulated five hits in as many innings, but double plays kept them from scoring. Horstman went to the slab in the sixth and passed Mayer, and Walter counted when Eddie Collins blew a fly to Bassler. Safe swats by Ellis and Maggert produced a run in the Los Angeles half and the coast leaguers maintained the margin until the ninth.

Rowland has decided to make several changes in the personnel of his first team. Blackburne has been ordered to desert the Goofs, and he will take Baker's place at short tomorrow. Baker has looked bad beside Eddie Collins at the keystone sack, but Rowland will keep him in the game at third base, where he is accustomed to the scenery. Bromwich is to be relegated to the bench. He has been guilty of several plays of the ivory variety which have stirred the ire of the manager.

Jack Fournier will be picked up by the first team at Hanford on Monday. Rowland plans to use him in the outfield instead of Chappell, who will go to the Goofs. Bozzell will drop back with Chappell, and either Scroggins or Faber will join Rowland's hurling corps.

Buck Weaver Recovering.

Word came today from the hospital where Buck Weaver is quartered that the shortstop is doing nicely. Operations for adenoids and tonsilitis have left Buck ten pounds lighter than when he became ill, and he will take him some time to recover entirely. Score:

SHAVE OR LODGING?

IN the Niles papers, even the advertising is easy to read and worth reading:

I see you have some swell hair cut,
It's fashioned up to time.
O, yes; North Second street it's from,

At 306 North Second street
Some nice rooms we afford.
We'd like a couple more nice friends
For guests and them to board.

"The Sox," says the News, "need a good lead-off man like Morris Rath used to be. Jimmy Breton probably is the best player for the place."

And if he gets the place, the Sox probably won't need a good sacrifice hitter to bat second.

Larry Chappell, who has been relegated to the scrubs for excessive poundage, may be glad Kid Gleason is no longer on the job.

Mac of Western Springs put one over on us by getting De Wolf Hopper's opinion of Eddie Collins, but when we have time, we will interview Louis Mann on the flying tackle.

OTTO JOINS THE ALLIES.

Otto Schoenwerk, the well known sailor, has named his new boat Banshee. John Brady suggests that Otto might prefer to have his name written "Ott O'Schoenwerk."

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The sixth annual Eastern festival of the Conference Club of Chicago will be held at the La Salle on April 5. The Conference band of seventy pieces will give a concert the first part of the evening and during the intermissions, moving pictures of the Conference-Wisconsin and Conference-Chicago football games will be shown. After the concert, waltzes and two-steps will be danced in the Red ballroom and the Conference Canter and the Pogue Trot in the Grand ballroom.

A. P. M. paper scribe has picked the White Sox lineup for the opening day of the regular season, so there's one load off Rowland's mind.

Ed Walsh is proving a big success as manager of the second team, but unfortunately for Ed Walsh there won't be any second team after April 14.

Larry Chappell would be better off if Lent started in November.

"Farmer Burns," writes a Sox baseball scribe, "thought Baker was a good prospect, but the old fellow laughed when the rookie shortstop failed to get the throw from Eddie Collins in one of the innings. 'Baker couldn't get the forward pass that time. They didn't pass them so fast in his league,' said Farmer as he commented on the game."

TINKERS DEFEAT BROWNIE'S MEN; MANAGER AILING

Lange and Prendergast Allow Two Hits; Pitcher Brennan Reports.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

Shreveport, La., March 11.—[Special.]—With the sun pouring southern rays down on them from morning till night, the Chicago Whales put in a great day of training today, winding up the doings with a lively six inning game of ball, in which Tinker's Regulars whipped Brown's Brownies, 5 to 2.

Manager Tinker kept out of practice because of a pain in the lower part of his left side, and fearing there might be something seriously wrong, he was examined by a local physician tonight. The physician said there was nothing serious and told Joe to play ball tomorrow; but advised an X-ray examination if the pain continued.

The weather was not hot, but it was warm enough to cause one to perspire freely without extending himself to the limit. It also was so pleasant that about 100 of the townsmen trailed out to the fair grounds in the afternoon to see the Chicagoans in combat.

Two Hits for Brownies.

The pitching of Lange and Prendergast for the Tinkers was too fast for the Brownies, who made only a couple of safe blows in the six rounds. Young Dan Black hurled two rounds for the second team, shutting out the regulars with only one hit, a three base blow by Zwilling. Black's new delivery is almost perfected now, and when he gets it down pat he is likely to be dishing out southpaw curves in regular games.

Mordecai Brown himself hurled for his team from the second inning to the finish, but the veteran declined to attempt any hooks or any great amount of speed and the Tinkers clouted his "stuff" without mercy. In the fifth they drove in three runs by vicious hitting.

Brennan Arrives in Camp.

Ad Brennan joined the school of Whales in the field today for his first work of the year, and before the afternoon was over he declared that he has more "stuff" right now than he had at any time last season.

Ad got in last night with Mrs. Brennan, coming direct from Hot Springs, where they left Claude Hendrix still doing road work. Claude will be here the first of next week. Brennan is seventeen pounds heavier than he was last summer, and indications are that he will be back in his old time form, when he was known as the iron man of the Phillies.

Young Burt Baumgartner, an outfielder from the semi-pro field of Cincinnati, also began training today. He arrived late last night, having rambled around the town for several hours before learning where the Whales were stopping. He played right field in the practice contest, and got one of the two hits made by the Brownies.

Referee—Finn. Umpire—Andrus.

LAST BASKET GAME TONIGHT

The University of Chicago basketball team will meet the Wisconsin quintet in the closing game of the Big Nine schedule tonight on the floor in Bartlett gymnasium. The team will enter the game tied for second honors in the conference race.

WILLIE RITCHIE BEATS CHAMPION WELSH ON POINTS

EARNS SEVEN ROUNDS; OTHER THREE ARE EVEN

ACTION EVERY SECOND

Willie Ritchie lost the title of lightweight champion to Freddie Welsh in London last summer on points at the end of twenty rounds by the referee's decision. Ritchie last night clearly outpointed Welsh, but the latter still is champion because decisions are not allowed in New York. This will be only another argument against "no decision" contests.

New York, March 11.—[Special.]—To all intents and purposes Willie Ritchie of California is the champion lightweight boxer of the world. It was a fortunate thing for Freddie Welsh, the titleholder, that under the no decision clause of the Frawley boxing law a referee in this state cannot give a decision. If that had been possible the title which Ritchie lost to Welsh in London last year would have gone back to its first owner tonight.

Ritchie clearly outclassed Welsh and landed the greater number of clean blows in seven of the ten rounds the boys boxed in Madison Square garden. Welsh did not have a clear advantage in any round, but he managed to hold the Yankee even in three sessions.

Fastest Battle of Season.

It was a rapid fire battle, by long odds the fastest lightweight bout that has been fought in New York this winter. There was never a dull second except when they were locked in clinches. Blows fell thick and fast with the fury of a hail storm, but despite the shower of punches not a knock down was scored nor anything approaching one.

Neither man was cut up or bruised, which proved several things—that the defense of both was splendid, the blocking excellent, and the punches light and of the rapid fire order. Ritchie landed the hardest punches of the two. He staggered Welsh three times, but on each occasion Welsh was sidestepping to get out of danger.

Ritchie Forces Matters.

Ritchie was the aggressor throughout. He kept Welsh on his heels all of the time and forced him around the ring continuously. Willie showed more speed than in any of his previous battles. He kept after Welsh all of the time and would not permit the Briton to "set." Ritchie took a decided lead in the second and third sessions and maintained it to the end. In the closing rounds, particularly the seventh, eighth, and ninth, Welsh clinched so repeatedly and held on so desperately that some of the ringside boxholders yelled, "You're a fine champion, Welsh. Hold on for your life."

Both were guilty of hitting in the breakaway and refused to break clean. Welsh's best punch was a long left to the stomach which was rather low. He also connected with two good rights to the jaw. Welsh's punches were usually light left jabs. Ritchie's persistent attack and willingness to box from the first bell to the last gained him a clean advantage.

Briton 7 to 5 Favorite.

Welsh entered the ring a 7 to 5 favorite. His showing was a hard blow to the following he has gained in his New York bouts, for there was considerable betting on the outcome of the battle. But when the Britton kept dancing away from Ritchie as round followed round even his backers joined the Yankee's friends in shouting "Why don't you fight?"

It was close to a $20,000 house that saw the battle. The scale of prices ranged from $1 in the top gallery to $15 for a ringside seat. This is the highest rate of admission charged for any of the bouts this winter. At least thirty-five women were in the house. One proved to be a "good sport" by standing about an hour in the waiting line on the street to gain admission to the top gallery. The majority of them took off their hats so as not to obstruct the views of the men behind them.

Both Fighters Make Weight.

When Ritchie weighed at 3 p. m. he tipped the scales at 135 pounds, just inside the weight limit. Welsh weighed a half a pound less. At 9:45 o'clock, when they were again weighed, Ritchie weighed 139¾ and Welsh 135¾.

Ritchie was the first to appear with his seconds carrying a large American flag. He was greeted with a round of applause. His seconds were Bob McAllister, Dr. ...Idries, his personal physician, and Billy ...Gropp.

Welsh was not slow to make his appearance with one of his seconds carrying a large English flag. The crowd proved that it was impartial by giving him a hearty greeting. Welsh's seconds were Manager Harry Pollok, Griff Davis, and Jim Donovan. Billy Gibson acted in an advisory capacity to Ritchie.

Story of Fight by Rounds.

FIRST ROUND—Ritchie was the first to lead, but his punch slipped over Welsh's shoulder. Welsh came back with short blows to the face and mussed Ritchie's face up at infighting. They clinched repeatedly, Welsh proving more clever at close quarters. Ritchie fought himself away and poked two hard lefts to Welsh's face and came back with two lefts to the body. Welsh wrapped his arms around Ritchie's body, but Willie fought himself clear and with both hands free played for the stomach. Ritchie kept up his aggressive tactics and shot over a left to Freddie's face.

SECOND ROUND—Ritchie began well by poking Welsh's head back with two long lefts to the face. They fought hard at close quarters, shooting in short hooks to the face and body. Fred began a savage attack and crossed over a left and right to the face in quick succession. He jabbed Willie in the face with a long left. Ritchie hooked hard lefts and rights to the stomach and face. Ritchie met Welsh coming in with a stiff uppercut to the body and followed with a similar shot to the chin. Ritchie repeated this dose twice, and went to his corner with his American friends shouting wildly.

THIRD ROUND—Welsh fought in close as soon as the bell rang, but Ritchie met him with straight punches to the face and hooks to the body. Willie carried a brilliant attack to Welsh and scored heavily three times to the face and body. The men clinched, but Ritchie kept his arms working like piston rods into Welsh's body. After they broke Welsh crossed a stiff right to Willie's chin. Ritchie came back fast and rained punches to Welsh's midsection. Welsh began to hold on, but Ritchie pulled back and rocked him with a stiff right to the chin.

FOURTH ROUND—Ritchie kept up his fast clip. As soon as he came out of his corner he sent in two hard left hooks to Welsh's jaw. He quickly followed with a stiff right cross to the same spot. Welsh put over a stiff right cross, but ran into a hard right uppercut as he came in with his head down. Welsh missed a right swing, but recovered and crossed over a short right which landed on Willie's neck. Ritchie forced Welsh to the ropes, but Freddie slipped out of danger by fast footwork. Honors were about even in this session.

FIFTH ROUND—Ritchie tried for a "kayo" with a terrific straight right to the face, but the drive missed Welsh's chin by about an inch. Willie tried another hard right, but Welsh ducked and the blow glanced off his forehead. Ritchie jabbed Welsh in the face, but the English champion ducked under two rights. Welsh followed all his leads by clinching. Ritchie feinted Welsh repeatedly in order to draw down his guard, but failed to do so until near the bell, when he crossed over a left and right to the champion's face.

SIXTH ROUND—Welsh's judgment of distance improved in this session. He poked Ritchie three times to the face without a return as the round opened. Ritchie then began a fierce onslaught to Welsh's stomach and drove him back several feet with hard punches to the body. Ritchie stepped in close and drove a hard right to the heart. In a clinch that followed he sent in two more to the same spot. Ritchie kept his hands working as they clinched again and punched Welsh in the face, neck, and head as the bell rang.

SEVENTH ROUND—Ritchie rushed out of his corner and shot a left to Welsh's body, but missed a left to the face. Welsh jabbed him to the face with a left. Welsh clinched repeatedly, but Ritchie tore loose and landed uppercuts with his right frequently. Welsh continued to clinch despite the hooting of the crowd. With his right hand free while Welsh was holding on, Ritchie battered the English champion to the stomach and ribs. He made Welsh give way and run.

EIGHTH ROUND—Ritchie came out of his corner like a thunderbolt and crashed in a right with all of his strength. Willie then played for the stomach. While Welsh was sidestepping Ritchie crossed a right to the chin that staggered Welsh and drove him back. Welsh danced around trying to keep out of the danger zone, but Ritchie rushed in and landed on the face and body. Welsh threw Ritchie off and Willie nearly slipped. Welsh held on while Ritchie played a tattoo on his ribs.

NINTH ROUND—Ritchie kept forcing Welsh around the ring despite the attempts of the Englishman to wrap his arms around his neck. At the breakaway Welsh would jab. Ritchie made the chowd wild by sending Welsh half over with a right cross to the face. Welsh kept dancing backward and occasionally shot in close with a jab, only to fall into a clinch immediately. Ritchie stepped in repeatedly and uppercut Welsh to the chin three times.

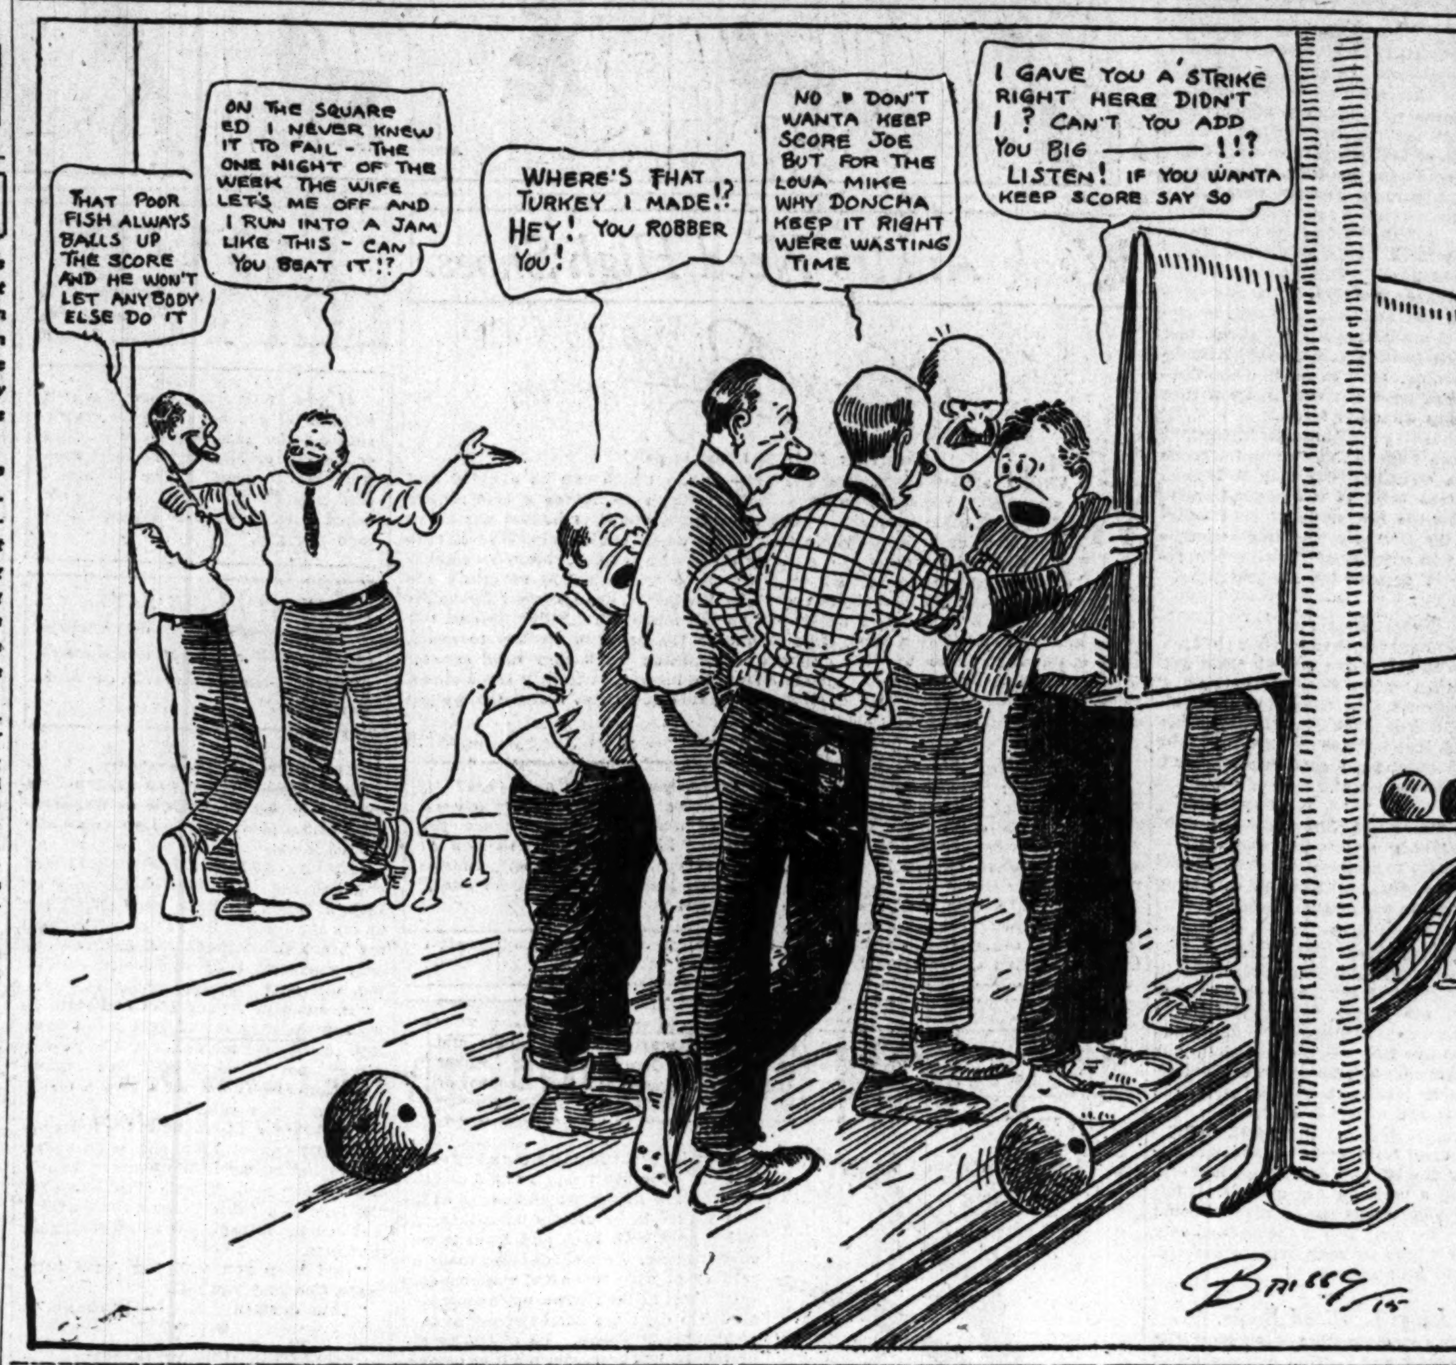

TENTH ROUND—Both were willing to mix, and fought fast and furiously for half a minute. Welsh then began to skip around again, turning his back, dodging, and clinching. While Welsh was holding on Ritchie was equally busy punching his rival in the midsection. When they broke Welsh jabbed once with a long, hard left. Ritchie kept up his aggressive tactics, and piled up points. Welsh swung a hard right that missed, Ritchie ducking cleverly. Then Freddie jabbed with a left, only to run into punches to the face. At the bell they were fighting hard at close quarters.

Statements by Fighters.

WILLIE RITCHIE—This fight proves my claim that I received the worst of it by the referee's decision in London. I feel confident I can beat Welsh any time we box. He ought to meet me now in a twenty round bout. If he does, the title will come back where it belongs.

FREDDIE WELSH—I think I was entitled to at least an even break. It seems to be a habit to give popular decisions against Welsh, but you notice who goes right along meeting all comers and fighting more than all the title claimants put together. I will meet Ritchie again over the twenty round route if a suitable purse is offered.

BOWLING—BALLING UP THE SCORE.

MANDOT TO FIGHT TOMMY MURPHY

Lightweights Will Meet Over Long Route in New Orleans on March 29.

BY WALTER H. ECKERSALL.

After a two hours' conference yesterday at the Grand hotel between Tommy Walsh, manager of Joe Mandot, and Jim Buckley, who looks after the affairs of "Harlem Tommy" Murphy, the lightweights were matched to box twenty rounds to a decision before D. J. Tortorich's New Orleans club March 29.

The Crescent City promoter tried to select an opponent from the central west for Mandot, but none of the lightweights was willing to make 133 pounds two hours before the contest. This is the poundage demanded by Mandot, and it was necessary to sign a fighter from the east. Manager Buckley said Murphy can make the weight easily.

McGoorty After Smith.

Eddie McGoorty, the Oshkosh middleweight, wants to meet "Gunboat" Smith in a ten round bout if the eastern heavyweight wins the popular verdict over Jack Dillon of Indianapolis at Milwaukee Tuesday night. Eddie believes his cleverness will more than offset the advantage in weight which will be in Smith's favor. If the match is made it will be held early next month.

McGoorty settled down to hard training at Forbes' in preparation for his six round bout with Buck Crouse in Pittsburgh on Tuesday and for his ten round encounter with "Young" Ahearn in New York on March 29. Eddie will train at the same place until Sunday night, when he will leave for the Smoky City.

White Boxes Four Rounds.

Charley White went through a strenuous workout at O'Connell's for his six round bout with Sammy Robideau in Philadelphia on Tuesday night. Charley boxed four rounds and went through the usual routine of gymnasium exercise. The fighter and Manager Nate Lewis will leave for the battleground on Monday morning. Manager Lewis received an offer from Cincinnati promoters for Charley to meet a good lightweight on April 29. Nate said he will close the match if White is given enough money.

Amateur boxing bouts will be held tomorrow at Forbes', Bernstein's, and Gilmore's gymnasiums.

THIRD TEAM FOR AUTO TOUR.

The joint committee which controls the motoring activities of the Chicago Athletic association and the Chicago Automobile club announced yesterday that the South Shore Country club would be the third contender for the touring trophy in the annual fall run. Henry Paulman, chairman of the motor committee of the South Shore club, will have charge of the organization of the third team.

FORD EMPLOYES AT DINNER.

The annual banquet of the Chicago branch of the Ford Motor company was held in the Lexington hotel last night, and was attended by 500 employés. Among those who spoke were F. J. White, general superintendent; Dayton Keith, manager of the Chicago branch; Attorney Marquis Eaton, Miss Josephine Sullivan, W. C. Johnson, and L. C. King.

FOUR GOLF TOURNEYS PLAN OF DISTRICT ASSOCIATION.

A. E. Cleaves, secretary of the Chicago District Golf association, yesterday announced that four championship tournaments will be held this year. The title events to be staged are an amateur seventy-two hole event, open tourney, junior amateur, and caddy championship.

Because of the enthusiasm shown last year by the boys who took part in the first tourney launched by President F. S. Peabody, the championship committee decided to add this event to the championship list.

Announcement of the four tourneys has been sent to all local clubs by Chairman Irving T. Hartz who requested that all bids be sent to Secretary Cleaves before April 20. The junior championships will be played in August, the amateur in June, the open in July, and caddy tourney the latter part of August.

CUTLER TO MEET YUSSIF HUSSANE

Rivals Agree to Wrestle Before Club Offering the Best Inducements.

BY HARVEY T. WOODRUFF.

Charley Cutler, claimant of the world's heavyweight wrestling championship, and Yussif Hussane, who disputes Cutler's pretensions, were matched yesterday to engage in a finish bout to take place before June 1. Preliminary articles were signed and the match was left open to the highest bidder until April 15. The winner will receive not less than 65 per cent of the purse.

Jack Herman, who was present when articles were signed, launched the bidding with an offer of $5,000 for the bout in behalf of the Selig company, with a supplementary offer of a purse of $10,000 for the winner to meet Gotch. This offer does not contemplate a public exhibition, as the bout would be held for the "movies."

Louisville Wants Bout.

In a telegram to the writer, George Buechel, the Louisville promoter, said: "Louisville can draw a $10,000 house with Cutler and Hussane as principals." It is understood Buechel wants the match for the night of May 7 to attract the crowd which will be in Louisville for the Derby on the following day.

The match was made in THE TRIBUNE office last night by appointment, following the covering by Hussane of Cutler's forfeit of $100, which had been posted for some time. Cutler was accompanied by William Rochells, his manager. Hussane said he did not need a manager. Ed W. Smith, probable referee, was present at the request of the principals, and Jack Herman was on hand because he had heard gossip around town that there would be "something doing."

Settle on 65-35 Split.

Little time was lost in agreeing on terms, although the Cutler party was inclined to ask for a 75 and 25 per cent purse division, or was even willing to meet "winner take all." Hussane asked 60 and 40 per cent, but compromised on 65 and 35, with the privilege of raising the winner's end when final articles are signed. The question of a side bet was waived until a later date.

The articles as drawn up and signed were as follows:

"ARTICLES OF AGREEMENT entered into this 11th day of March, 1915, by and between Charles Cutler and Yussif Hussane, who hereby agree to wrestle a finish match at catch-as-catch-can style, best two of three falls to decide the winner.

"It is agreed that the winner shall receive not less than 65 per cent of the purse offered for the match, the loser to receive the remainder.

No Action for Month.

"It is hereby agreed to throw this match open to bids which shall be closed April 15 with Harvey T. Woodruff, Sporting Editor of 'The Chicago Tribune.'

"It is further agreed that the match shall be wrestled on a date not later than June 1, 1915, the definite date to be determined at the time of signing final articles.

"In pursuance of this agreement the respective forfeits of $100 now in the hands of the Sporting Editor of 'The Chicago Tribune' shall be regarded as binding on both men.

"WILLIAM ROCHELLS [manager for Charles Cutler],
"YUSSIF HUSSANE.
"Witnesses:
"ED. W. SMITH,
"HARVEY T. WOODRUFF."

HUSSANE IN C.A.A. MAT SHOW

Yussif, the Turk, who has been matched to meet Charley Cutler for the heavyweight wrestling championship of the world, will be the star attraction in the mat show at the Chicago Athletic association tomorrow night. Hussane will tackle Jack Leon, the "Russian lion," in a finish match. Other mat bouts carded are: Ernest Kartje vs. "Mysterious Conductor," "Kid" Martin vs. "Young" Zbyszko, Joe Smith vs. Jack Glynn. Steve Ketchel will spar with Frankie Lynn and Frank Whitney will work out with Tommy White in the boxing features.

CAPRON DEFEATS "CHAMP" DE ORO; HUEY TAKES LEAD

Victory of Moore Over Daley Also Surprise of Three Cushion Meet.

Games Today.

1:45—Eames and Hahman.
3:30—Moore and Lean.
7:45—Huey and Morin.
9:30—Daly and Kieckhefer.

BY J. G. DAVIS.

Two of the clean score men in the world's three cushion championship had their records marred in two sessions bristling with excitement yesterday. Champion Alfredo De Oro fell before Joe Capron, the St. Paul veteran, in the most thrilling contest of the tournament, and that is saying a lot. Battling until after midnight, the veterans fought point by point, and the man from Minnesota nosed out a victory, 50 to 47, in sixty-four innings.

Earlier in the night two veteran campaigners, George Moore and John Daly, both of New York, fought an equally stubborn battle, victory resting with the former, 50 to 45, in eighty-two innings. Both night results were upsets for the talent, as the losers were favorites.

William Huey in Lead.

William Huey of Chicago, who was not in action, takes the lead, with Moore in second place with three victories and one defeat.

August Kieckhefer of Milwaukee and Charles Ellis of Cleveland were the winners in the afternoon session. The Cream city player defeated Jess Lean of Chicago, 50 to 48, in seventy-seven innings, and the Cleveland southpaw beat John Hahman of Minneapolis, 50 to 40, in a free scoring contest which went seventy innings.

Taken all in all it was the greatest day of the tournament and the night crowd was the biggest.

Kieckhefer had two close finishes. He was in Milwaukee and read in a paper he had to play in the afternoon. He had ten minutes to take a train, and by a great sprint caught it. Then in his match he had another sprint, getting seven points in his last three innings to reach the wire two points ahead of Lean.

Daly-Moore Match Battle.

It looked for a time as if Lean had shaken his jinx, as he played finely, only to be beaten by the strong finish of Kieckhefer. Ellis had a good lead over Hahman, but the Minneapolis player made one of his characteristic spurts and made the race interesting until nearing the finish.

The Daly-Moore match was one of the real professional variety, and the veterans had a battle of wits. Moore led at the start, but at the thirtieth inning the score was tied at 21, and from this point on there was never more than a few points difference. After Moore had made five in the forty-fifth inning he left Daly nothing to shoot at for several innings, but later he picked off some clever singles.

Joe Capron had the better of the luck against De Oro, getting three scratches in his first fourteen innings. In thirty-two innings he scored 33 points, but De Oro tied him in the thirty-seventh inning. In the fifty-seventh and fifty-eighth innings Capron also counted on scratches. With De Oro leading him three points Capron played finely at the end, scoring ten points in his last ten innings.

FLICKERINGS from FILM LAND

by KITTY KELLY

How E. A. Salisbury Hunts with a Camera.

"I HUNT with the camera," explained Edward A. Salisbury, nodding toward the Studebaker screen, where some of his trophies were waving their plumy tails and snarling almost audible unkind things with their efficiently dentated mouths. And then he went on to tell an infinite number of interesting things developing out of that manner of hunting as practiced by himself and a company of assistants for about three years out on our west coast region in the wide stretches of the government wild life preserves.

Other men have hunted with the camera for spectacular results for exhibition purposes in the wilds of Africa and the chills of the far north and around about in spots strange and unknown. But none has hunted in our own country in quite the manner of Mr. Salisbury and his expedition.

"My purpose is to secure material for scientific study, to supply schools and colleges with libraries of films to be used as regularly in the conduct of the courses in science as text books and laboratories. I am initiating the pictorial text book, which I aim to make as much a standard for reference as any written treatise—and more effective, because more vivid."

"Do you see that ring?" asked Mr. Salisbury. "That's my seal, or trade-mark, like the Pathe rooster and the Essanay Indian head, and so on. That appears off and on all through the pictures as a safeguard against faking or stealing.

"I never expected to show these pictures for public exhibition. They were made entirely for scientific study, but the public seems to be liking them. And there are quantities more. We took 250,000 feet, and here is less than 7,000. When they tire of these I can get out another set, and then some more.

"And I've learned something from watching people. What they like are the young things, the little birds and little animals. I'll put a lot of them in my next series.

"I've got everything, of all kinds. These pictures just barely touch on the subject. Here, for instance, you see a bird's nest with some eggs hatching. About sixty feet are shown, while I really took, maybe, 1,200. The whole hatching process is recorded and the day by day growth, obtained by days of painful, weary, mosquito beset, water soaked waiting in the rush blinds to get the birds just as they are.

"There is not a bit of staging in all of these pictures of actual living conditions. They show real life as the birds and animals live it, unconscious of any camera, let alone of any human eye being around."

Mr. Salisbury is a vigorous, amiable person, with a sense of humor and so brimful of interesting comments that it is hard not to make a newspaper out of him. He is a University of California man, who has always specialized in the zoological end of knowledge. For some twenty years, he told me, he had done research work, and has traveled the world over in its pursuit.

When the motion picture idea occurred to him he went off to the biograph studios in New York and there learned the technique of motion pictures from the first crank to the finished product. And then he set about developing his great natural history library of the North American continent, of which the displayal at the Studebaker is a sample.

"And just as soon as the weather gets a little warm I'll not be staying around the city long. I'll be off to the open," explained this interesting individual, who typifies the open as it is given to few men to do.

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND

by Marion Harland

Wants Semi-Classical Songs.

"I SHOULD be glad at any time for semi-classical songs, should such be offered. I know there are students who, as they advance, do not use the easier music. Such would be of real pleasure to me. I was a vocal student at one time. My mother then kept roomers, who also were studying, and carried away what music I owned. All that I have to give are a few baby shoes, woolen shirts, and stockings, which my baby has outgrown; some summer clothing for a boy of 4 years, a hat and cap, and maybe leggings. I am asking a great favor, and have little to offer, and little opportunity for anything, but I'm sending the Corner lots of good will and assure it that I will help whenever I can.

"MRS. R. R. McC."

We cannot ask in this column for books that are on sale. You may be able to borrow the book at the public library. Don't belittle the value of your offering to the Corner! Children's clothes are ever in request, and are joyfully received. I register the list gratefully.

Saves Shoe Leather.

"If mothers would teach their children to tear up soft paper and fill their wet shoes, then, when they are dry, get a little mutton tallow from their butcher and add a little black from the side of the stove lid, they will find the shoes will hold their shape and dry safe. Tallow won't let wet snow or water melt on shoes.

"FANNIE M."

For a month and more to come we may expect muddy streets and roads. The homely hint to mothers is well timed and should be obeyed. Nothing rots shoe leather more surely than water.

Making Her Own Clothes.

"Mrs. A. M. J. offered a dress form in your Corner. I am trying to make my clothes, but cannot fit myself well. I should appreciate the form because I can do no more than meet expenses on our present income of $20 per month. My husband is an invalid about three months in the year and money is scarce.

"MRS. K. E. H."

That dress form would have been in tatters by now if every application had represented a veritable tug upon it. It left our keeping weeks ago. I wish we could get one for you. This is the one and only way by which we may hope to succeed. We hold your address.

Longs for Good Books.

"I am a young mother of two dear little girls, ages 3 and 5. They can sing six of the latest songs. People think it is grand. They sing so beautifully and are so young. The oldest one wants to learn to recite, and if I had a recitation book it would help me to teach her. I dearly love poetry or good books to read, but I'm not able to buy any. I do all I can to make ends meets, and now I am almost a nervous wreck. The doctor advises me to rest more, and, O, how I long for a book or something to read! Maybe some of the good people who read this in the blessed Corner may have a book to pass along. I should value it so much! If they desire, I will send in return full directions for making bonbons and chocolates like those you buy in boxes at a high price. It is so simple any one can make it at home for about 20 cents a pound.

"MRS. J. D. H."

I am much mistaken in my judgment of the "blessed Corner" if you do not receive some such reply to your modest appeal as that which responded to the blind boy's wish for a mandolin a month or so ago. We had dozens of offers of the coveted instrument. You must have your books, and I am counting upon what I know of my well beloved Cornerites in guaranteeing that you will get them. Let me know when your shelves are overstocked. Don't talk of making returns for love gifts. But we shall be delighted to get the recipes. They are just what we want.

Copy of a Poem.

"I am one of your constant readers and I hope you will help me, as you have others. Kindly give me the poem entitled 'I Am My Best Friend.' J. R. T."

As I have no knowledge of the verses, I am constrained to pass the request down the line, but (the same old "but!") when we get them, to whom shall they be sent? You do not favor us with your name and address, and we have no room in the corner for the publication of poems in full.

WHY SOME MEN PREFER TO SIT ON THE BACK PORCH.

Weak Ankles Need High Shoes.

Lillian Russell

[Copyright: 1915: By Lillian Russell.]

WABBLY ankles are among the ugly things which can be avoided and remedied. Women who have wabbly ankles do not as a rule realize how noticeable they are. They see others, but it is human nature to minimize one's own deficiencies. If women could only take a rear view of themselves while walking those who are troubled with wabbly ankles would soon seek a remedy or wear shoes which would cover up the weakness. Slippers and high heels, especially the latter, are largely responsible for this defect. It is a defect which has spread since the combination of low shoes and spats became a fad. This is one of the great objections to spats. They encourage women to wear slippers for walking when they need greater support for their ankles. Weak ankles should be incased in tightly laced shoes. They need support. They will continue to wabble and twist under the weight of the body until given this support.

Lillian Russell's Answers.

ELIZABETH: The safest and most effective way of removing moles is by electricity. Do not tamper with them yourself. It is dangerous, as malignant growths are often caused by irritating them.

IRENE: The acid condition of the stomach frequently affects the teeth. The ordinary alkaline waters taken internally will often correct this condition.

Have you reduced your flesh? If so, write and tell me how you reduced and how many pounds you lost. "The Tribune" will pay $1 for every letter published. Address Lillian Russell, "Chicago Tribune," Chicago.

Charcoal is also used to counteract the condition.

Fashions from London

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—A quaintly old fashioned and yet at the same time ultra-modern ruching is this gathered dimity effect, white embroidered at the edge. Nor does the V outline show any signs of retiring from public favor. It still continues to be seen on all kinds of frocks and bodices.

There is the surplice style which is keeping in, perhaps, more than any other fashion. The other day I saw a prettily embroidered blouse which seemed at the first glance to be utterly unmodern. It was draped both back and front in surplice manner, the sleeves being made up entirely of wide tucks and stopping defiantly short at the elbows, when most people these days are emphasizing the long mousquetaire sleeve. Its charming demureness, however, marked it as belonging exclusively to the latest approved fashions.

Many of the newest blouses are of chiffon cloth and also of a new kind of silk that bears the name of Callot silk. Crêpe de chine is just as popular as ever, and the majority of the newest bodices are of the neutral tinted shades. In addition to the various colors, such as sand, putty, beige, biscuit, and clay, there is a new tan and a new rose which are rapidly coming into popularity.

It is interesting to note, too, that none of the designers is insisting that the high neck shall be worn. They appreciate even at this distance across the water that the American woman has some warm weather to endure and act accordingly. One may or may not wear a high necked effect. An accommodating fashion, indeed, we have at our service.

LOVE LETTERS

If you know how to write a love letter or if you have in your possession a letter that has heart interest or comedy or lots of love in it send it to me at once. "The Tribune" will pay $5 for every letter published. Address Doris Blake, "Chicago Tribune."

DORIS BLAKE SAYS:

"The trouble with May marrying December is that she doesn't want to conduct herself as Mrs. December."

To My Little Pal.

The following letter was written by a husband to his wife, while he was serving a prison sentence. His innocence was proved later:

"My loyal little pal: Last night I heard you call my name just as distinctly as though you were here with me. I lay on my cot, longing for you until it seemed my heart would break and as great, dry sobs shook my body your voice, caressing, soft, and soothing, spoke my name.

"O, little pal, your love and faith in me are the only ray of light in this dark cell. Surely my innocence will be proven before long. It must, little pal; it must!

"Be brave a little longer, the miles between us cannot keep our souls apart. My thoughts, my love, my every breath, are all for you. Thank Providence for the love of a noble woman, for the faith and courage it inspires in hours of stygian darkness.

"God keep you safe, my loyal little mate, God keep you safe.

"Your devoted HUSBAND."

The Stamp Language.

"Dear Miss Blake: Will you please give me the name and address of some firm where I could get a book explaining the meaning of the various ways of placing stamps on envelopes? F. N. W."

I am very sorry that I cannot give you any information about the stamp language. I do not know anything about it.

Proper to Phone Him?

"Dear Miss Blake: Is it proper to call up a boy friend and ask him to come over and play cards? One of my boy friends got angry at me for going out with other boys. Is it proper for me to make up or shall he? INNOCENT."

Unless it's very important, you really shouldn't telephone to the boys. The boy has no right to object to your having other boy friends. Have just as many as you wish, and don't offer to "make up." Let him make the overtures.

BRIGHT SAYINGS of CHILDREN

"The Tribune" will pay $1 for each childish saying printed. The stories may be sent in either by children or their parents. The only condition is the story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Jane, "Tribune," Chicago.

Harry, 2 years old, whose mother is a widow, protests vigorously when she goes out with any of her friends in the evening, as he is left at home with an aunt. One evening last week Harry was left to entertain a caller while his mother was putting on her hat. After a long silence Harry blurted out, "Have you a mamma?" The amazed friend said that he had, whereupon Harry said, "Well, why don't you take your own mamma out then?" F. M. H.

When a young man I was employed by a company whose vice president insisted I should make my home with him, thus offering me home comforts instead of the usual boarding house fare. His only son, Ralph, was away at college, and Ralph's little sister, Grace, could not clearly understand if I was Ralph or Don [illegible name] until her curiosity prompted her to ask me, "Dons, are you my brother Raffey." D. A.

Charles, 6, and his baby sister had been put to bed in different rooms without any light and in a few minutes baby said, "Brother, tum in here; I'm 'frait.'" Charles answered, "Don't be afraid, baby; me am right here."

JAMES LANCASTER,

Jane came on to the porch one afternoon and found her mother holding the baby. She noticed the baby's blank expression, his open mouth, and staring eyes, and said, "Mamma, Billy is wondering what he can think." J. H. G.

Starch Eaten Too Freely.

FREQUENTLY one sees 2 year old babies who are much too fat. Most people admire these puffy children with ungracefully stout legs. But not uncommonly it is such children who take cold the easiest and have the most frequent spells of listlessness. It may be assumed almost without question that they are getting too much starchy food.

There are babies born into the world who are much too fat because their mothers ate too much starch, without a proper balance with other foods. In early life too fat, in later life perhaps obese or diabetic or in some way diseased is the life story of such human beings in many cases.

It is people like this who have a greater liking or have developed a greater taste for bread and all the cereal products than for other foods and continually overeat of these things. Warned in time, the may hinder the certain though long p off crisis which results from an excess ly starchy diet, while discomforts a slight illnesses will be common all th way around.

Such a thing as a semolina pudding-d finer delicatessens have the semolina will seem just like a pudding of the v starchy sort to these starch lovers, a can always be recommended to the di betic.

Semolina Pudding.

Cook four tablespoons of semolina i the double boiler with a pinch of salt ten minutes after it begins to thicke When partly cool or cold add to it tw eggs, the whites and yolks beaten sep arately and the whites added last, wit one large tablespoon of sugar or not. It is good without the sugar. Flavor wit nutmeg or to taste, and bake in a but tered dish for one-half hour, or if be even is extra hot for twenty minutes. should be firm in center when done. Th resembles the German "auflauf," and i good even if the semolina is not of th freshest.

THE GARDENER AT WORK

The Garden Editor will give expert advice on planning gardens, organizing garden clubs, and planting flowers, vegetables, or shrubs. The amateur gardener is invited to tell his troubles with soil, pests, or plants. Practical aid will be given in arranging suburban grounds, school, vacant lot, back yards, porch, or window gardens. Ask what and how to plant for fine results. Address The Garden Editor, "The Tribune."

Getting Ready for Easter.

POTS of planted tulips, hyacinths, and narcissus in the house are pleasant before Easter. House plants do not grow eagerly until the days lengthen, then those who have tried cinerarias (Ash Wednesday flowers), calcolarias (pouch flowers), primroses and primulas, and the cyclamen or Persian violets, see that they reach out to the sunshine and begin to blossom with better heart.

After the middle of March and into April house bulbs will be at their best. The potted hyacinth or lilly kept in the dark should be brought to the light and set in a dish of shallow water in a warm place. It will then bud rapidly and be ready for the Easter season. If kept in a cool place and not too wet after blossoms have come out fully, the flowers will last a long time.

The cold frames mentioned yesterday may be used to bring up the bulb garden ahead of time. The sides of a practical cold frame should be at least a foot deep. It may be three, four, or six feet on each side of the frame and the glass top to fit.

If there is a bed two or three feet in diameter, and the hyacinths are wanted earlier than the wind allows, a cold frame shelter will hurry them. The cold frame idea may be applied to hollyhocks, peonies, sweet williams, or any perennials if the gardener likes to experiment.

Inclement March days are the proper time to construct hot bed and cold frame squares ready for using. The middle of March is the right date to begin cold frame culture with violets, pansies, and vegetable plants, which must bear early.

Begin to tinker at flower boxes on the porch. Try to give them a sunny exposure. Palms and shade loving plants ought to be stationed where there is no sun and the cool north light strikes them.

Remember that drainage is the most important factor in a flower box. A neighborhood carpenter can make boxes to fit railings, but if a worker prefers to use his money in plants, ask the grocer to sell boxes to suit you. He will charge 10 cents or twice that much for the size wanted and send it.

A love for flowers is a practical asset in education. Every child ought to have its chance to grow flowers. The smallest flat will have one sunny window with room for a box in which gay phlox, candy-tuft, and hardy verbenas can grow. Egg shell gardens, that is, shells filled with earth planted with seeds, and the shells set in a dish or pan, are fine starters. Let the boys and girls have them. By and by the shells can be transferred to flower beds or larger window boxes.

Ask the seedsmen, or write to advertising flower growers for catalogs. A great deal can be learned by looking at pictures and reading descriptions.

'No Cause for Worry' —Field's Physician.

MRS. JOHN C. KING of New York, who was Miss Bertha Dibblee when she lived in Chicago, is writing more definite details to the Chicago relatives concerning the illness of her nephew, Marshall Field III., who was stricken aboard the Everglade during his honeymoon journey this week.

Mrs. King went aboard the Everglade before Mr. Field's departure for New York and was rejoiced to find that young Mr. Field had everything that could possibly be thought of to alleviate the discomforts of his illness, as the houseboat is the finest vessel in southern waters.

"There is no cause for anxiety," is quoted from his physician, Dr. I. N. Lanehart. "I expect Mr. Field to be all right in the course of a week or ten days."

Mrs. King, who is the daughter of Mrs. Henry Dibblee and a sister of Mrs. A. A. Sprague II., is among those at that southern resort who are far-famed for the original fashions that they wear. Mrs. King, who has a small black hat trimmed in a grape cluster of lemons, also wears a beautiful evening gown of rose pink satin, veiled in chiffon, elaborately embroidered in crystals, with a long string of pearls that is famous for its perfectly matched stones.

Mrs. Henry B. Mason of 150 East Superior street, is president of the Colonial Dames of America, who are to hold their annual luncheon on Thursday, April 15, in the English room of the Blackstone hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hibbard of 33 Bellevue place have returned from the south, where they have been for some weeks. Mr. and Mrs. George Markham, the latter formerly Miss Ruby Chandler have returned from their wedding journey and are at home in Milwaukee.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis K. Torbet have recently removed from 2218 Prairie avenue to their former home at the Hotel Metropole.

Miss Cecil Vail, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Vail of Highland Park, has chosen Saturday, May 8, as the day for her wedding to Merrell Follansbee also of Highland Park. Miss Vail is a graduate of Smith college and Mr. Vail is a Dartmouth man.

Mr. and Mrs. William Tappendorf, formerly of Chicago but now of South Haven, Mich., announce the engagement of their daughter, Anna Pauline, to Chester N. Rowley of 1851 Eddy street. The wedding will take place in June.

Mrs. Edward Everett Silk of 5215 Cornell avenue and her mother, Mrs. Andrew Jackson Hewlings, who have been spending the winter in the south, are at Clearwater, Fla. They will return home in April.

Miss Bertha Pommer, daughter of Mrs. L. B. Pommer of 6223 Dorchester avenue, has announced her engagement to Joseph Gorman of Chicago.

Mrs. Erma Weill Rubin will take the part of Prunella in "The Love of Pierrot" to be given by the Deborah Dramatic club of the Deborah Woman's club at Central Music hall Saturday afternoon and Sunday evening, March 20 and 21, for the various charities conducted by the organization.

Miss Klea Orschel will have the title rôle of Pierrot; Mrs. Edna Styer Wolff will be Scaranel, his evil genius, and the Mummers will be Miss Rena Rose, Miss Miriam Furth, Miss Margaret Wolfstein, Miss Stella Deiches, Miss Mildred Harris, and Mrs. Tressa Brede Goodman.

Symphonic suite, "Americana," andante, allegro, molto moderato, allegro moderato [first time in Chicago]..... Kolar

BY RONALD WEBSTER.

GLENN DILLARD GUNN has been concerning himself with American music for Americans for many years. Last year he came to the conclusion that the best stimulus for American music was more American music, so he promoted a concert, interested amateurs and professionals in the idea, and presented the result to the public.

His second concert of this season was given last night. All of the music on the program was by Americans—though of various extraction—and all of it was new to Chicago.

Aside from the idea of America for Americans, the concert contained several interesting things. One was the fact that Charles G. Dawes, the president of the Central Trust company, and a supporter of music, was the composer of a short piece for violin and orchestra; another was Brune's "Sea Music"; still another was the symphonic sketch of Leo Sowerby, who was born in Grand Rapids in 1896.

It must be said that the remainder of the program was not vitally interesting, though most of it was pleasant, and that if American music is to stop here it will not have attained any great height.

It would be absurd to expect that any concert arranged as this was could bring forth many masterpieces. If similar projects should be carried out in other countries the result would be better only by accident.

Mr. Brune's "Sea Music" was, I think, the great event and also the great tragedy of the evening. It showed the broadest and most mature imagination and the greatest familiarity with the orchestra. It was intended for a baritone and orchestra, and it was not. Mr. Thatcher the baritone of the occasion, was overwhelmed by the orchestra; he was fairly drowned in a sea of sound. I have little knowledge of the limitations of baritones, but from Mr. Thatcher's past performances it might be judged that a miraculous baritone would be able to sing the ballad.

It is a strange circumstance that young poets, whether tone poets or mere poets, are fascinated by subjects as disconsolate as that which provided Mr. Sowerby his inspiration. The following lugubrious verse can scarcely express the natural feelings of one who was born in 1896:

Weary the cry of the wind is, weary the sea,
Weary the heart and the mind and the body of me.
Would I were out of it, done with it; would I could be

The verse is by Masefield.

Inasmuch as he has already written a considerable amount of music, it is probable that he does not.

The composition called "The Sorrow of Mydath," not "My Death," as it was printed in the advance announcements, might be called "modern," I suppose. It was certainly interesting, but his next composition will probably be more interesting.

The symphony by Lang, which won the first prize for orchestral composition offered by the Illinois Music Teachers' association, was a disappointment. Only two movements of it were played, and they were not especially distinguished in spite of the ragtime in the "burlesque." Mr. Rosseter Cole's symphonic prelude, which opened the program, was a vigorous thing, easy to listen to.

The soloist of the first concert next fall will be George Hamlin, the tenor who will present an aria for tenor and orchestra. A prize of $200 has been offered for the best aria written by an American citizen.

Sherman park, Fifty-second street and Racine avenue—The Chicago Madrigal club; D. A. Clippinger, conductor; Allen W. Bogen, accompanist. The club will present for the first time "Nymph and Swain," by MacFarlane, the composition winning the W. W. Kimball prize of $100 offered by the Madrigal club in 1914. Four Irish airs arranged for the Madrigal club by Adolf Weidig will also be given a first performance.

Hamilton park, Seventy-second street and Normal boulevard—The American Conservatory Students' orchestra; Herbert Butler, director; soloists, Ruth Ray, Stella Roberts, and Katharine Kittilsby.

Holstein park, North Oakley avenue and Ems street—The Buena Memorial Presbyterian church choir, under De Witt Durgin Lash, conductor, will sing "Ruth." Amy Kleinofen will accompany the cantata.

In the evening at 8 o'clock the Civic Music club of the First Baptist church, Thirty-first street and South Park avenue, will sing a sacred cantata, "Olivet to Calvary." The club is directed by John Allen Richardson; the soloists will be William Clifford, tenor, and W. J. Breach, baritone.

How to Dry Clean Your Furs

Clean your furs yourself—as often as you like, at but a few pennies expense, with very little labor and absolutely without chance of injuring them.

Brush a solution of Putnam Dry-Cleaner and gasoline on the furs with a stiff brush or whisk broom—then brush with clean gasoline. That's all—they'll look as good as new. If they're white furs add a handful of flour to each quart of gasoline used in the rinsing.

The above is but one of the hundreds of unique and more cleansing uses of Putnam Dry-Cleaner—for cleaning dresses, suits, laces, silks, everything's gone. Costly dry cleaner charges big prices for—as well as badly done and at slight cost.

Your Druggist carries Putnam Dry-Cleaner—in sealed tins and bottles. If he can't supply you, write us—we will send you bottle, postpaid, for 25c.

in the United States and the deadly germs claim most victims in cities, due no doubt to the increased number of indoor workers and their lack of sunshine.

Tubercular germs attack when the system is weakened from colds or sickness, overwork, worry, confining duties or any drain which has reduced the resistive forces of the body. The best physicians emphasize that during changing seasons our blood should be kept rich and pure and active by taking Scott's Emulsion after meals; it warms the body by enriching the blood—it peculiarly strengthens the lungs and upbuilds the resistive forces to avoid colds and prevent consumption.

If you work indoors, tire easily, feel languid or nervous, get Scott's Emulsion at any drug store; it is the most strengthening food-medicine known.

KELKER FAVORS NEWSPAPER 'ADS' ON CAR CHANGES

Tells Utilities Body the Public Should Be Informed of New Routings.

Advertising in newspapers the proposed changes in car routes of the Chicago Surface lines and affording the public other information concerning the operation of its system was advocated yesterday by R. F. Kelker Jr., city traction supervisor, before the public utilities commission.

"One great mistake here," he declared, "is that the company makes changes without letting its patrons know about them. In many cities, such as Toronto, the companies publish advertisements that have as much prominence as bargain sales. Detroit is another city where the traction companies advertise."

Decries Arnold Standard.

Mr. Kelker suggested advertising changes when asked of the advantages in looping back cars outside the loop. He said the service could be bettered in many instances by so doing, but asserted such changes would have to be advertised.

Mr. Kelker outlined his plan of rerouting cars in the loop. He said it would bring greater uniformity in service and permit the operation of 200 more cars in the loop than now.

Favors Looping Back.

The traction supervisor said he did not approve of the service standard proposed by Bion J. Arnold of the board of engineers.

"Do you think that means to count noses and square feet?" asked Commissioner Thompson.

"Yes, and square heads, too," said Mr. Kelker.

Asked about the benefit from the use of trailers, Mr. Kelker said: "Trailers, to my mind, are the last resort."

Bemis Gives His Plan.

Prof. Edward W. Bemis of the board of supervising engineers explained his plan. He divided the rush periods into five periods of one-half hour each, morning and evening.

Under his plan, he asserted, it would be possible to provide seats for 91 per cent of the passengers during the first and fifth periods, morning and evening. The second and fourth half hour periods would afford 74 per cent seating capacity, and the crest of the rush hours, from 7:30 to 8 a. m. and from 5:30 to 6 p. m., 67 per cent of the passengers would be provided with seats.

ATTACK HOYNE CAB SUIT.

State's Attorney Hoyne's quo warranto proceeding to invalidate the traction unification ordinance was attacked yesterday in Judge Brentano's court by Attorneys John J. Herrick and Harry P. Weber, representing the Chicago Surface lines. Mr. Weber said Mr. Hoyne's petition was contrary to public welfare. He denied that the officers of the surface lines were usurping corporate powers. Glenn E. Plumb represented the state's attorney's office and Assistant Corporation Counsel Haft represented the city. A motion to vacate the order permitting the filing of quo warranto petition is being argued.

NEW TRAFFIC ACT DELAYED.

The new traffic ordinance limiting to thirty minutes the time a vehicle may stand at the curb in the downtown district will not go into effect for ten days. Publication of an ordinance is necessary.

RUSH MECCIA BANK DOORS.

Depositors Driven Back by Police When Closed Institution Is Opened for Inventory.

Phillip Manno, whose banking partner, Ignazio Meccia, committed suicide on the grave of his wife last Saturday, did not appear in the private bank at 515 West Oak street when the doors were thrown open for the first time since Meccia's death at 10:30 o'clock yesterday. Four hundred excited depositors, many of whom had been standing in line since 8 o'clock, made a rush when the doors opened and had to be driven back by the police. Vincent Manno, a brother of the surviving partner, began taking an inventory of the assets of the institution with a lawyer. He asserted the depositors would receive every penny.

Women's, Misses' and Children's Outfitters

A New Corset Model

(After observing the results of several weeks of actual demonstration, knowing positively the good to be derived, we proclaim this new model as one of great merit.)

THE benefits this type of figure will derive from this new model are marvelous. In a very short time we positively know this surplus flesh will entirely disappear. And while the removing of this excess flesh is the thing most desired by every woman so unfortunate, it is important to know that it is being accomplished through correct corseting and the results attained will be permanent.

Additional height prevents a break between the natural bust and the corset, giving a longer line. The square appearance so noticeable with this type of figure is entirely overcome by the distinct curve at the waist line, which holds the corset in place without the "cutting" or "riding up" feeling when seated.

You will hardly know your own figure in this model, as it will be so marvelously improved.

Only $3.50

Come in and let us demonstrate what this model, in the hands of our expert fitters, can accomplish for you. Second Floor.

BEDS FOR 1,600 ARE OFFERED TO VICTIMS OF DRUGS

OTHER BODIES TAKE ACTION.

Offers of additional hospital facilities for treatment of 1,600 drug victims was made at the conference of federal, state, county, city, and other representatives held at the Hotel Sherman yesterday by Dr. W. A. Evans of THE TRIBUNE to cope with the emergency precipitated by enforcement of the Harrison anti-drug law.

One thousand beds in annexes to state institutions will be ready soon, Dr. George A. Zeller, alienist and member of the state board of administration, told the meeting. Five hundred beds are to be made available by evacuation of the John Worthy school building at the bridewell was the cheer furnished by Dr. W. K. Murray, head of the hospital bureau of the city health department.

County Offers Facilities.

On behalf of the county, Dr. H. I. Davis, superintendent of the psychopathic hospital, stated that thirty beds will be maintained for drug users. Scattering offers of beds brought the total in sight to approximately 1,000.

Pursuant to a suggestion by Dr. Martin B. Ritter of the council of the Chicago Medical society, who represented the Chicago Association of Commerce at the meeting, President A. W. Harris of Northwestern university, chairman of the vice commission, moved the appointment of a committee to seek contributions of surplus bed facilities by Chicago hospitals for treatment of drug victims unable to pay their own expenses.

Upon vote of the conference, Chairman Evans appointed a committee and called it to meet at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Hotel Sherman to confer with the committee of the Chicago Hospital association.

To Attend Joint Meeting.

Dr. C. S. Bacon, head of the Chicago Hospital association, informed Dr. Evans last evening that he has issued a call for the Chicago hospital committee to assemble at the Hotel Sherman this afternoon for the joint meeting.

Dr. Evans' hospital committee includes President Harris of Northwestern university, Dr. W. K. Murray, head of the city hospital bureau; Dr. H. I. Davis, superintendent of the Psychopathic hospital; E. L. Quitman, veterinary surgeon and dentist; and Gertrude Howe Britton said drug law could be legally reduced.

Another committee was appointed to discover whether the harshness of the anti-drug law could be legally reduced in its administration for the purpose of clearing up the rush of applicants for treatment while facilities remain inadequate.

Those Named on Committee.

This committee, which is also called to meet with the hospital committee and the Chicago hospital committee this afternoon, includes:

Dr. T. L. Grisamore, president of the Chicago Dental society; Julius F. Smietanka, United States collector of internal revenue; Assistant United States District Attorney Frederick Dickinson; Isaac N. Light, secretary of the Chicago Retail Druggists' association, and Dr. James T. Stowell of Oak Park, who is secretary of the conference.

City Health Commissioner George B. Young found a spirit of hearty cooperation when he told the conference of a meeting in the office of President Peter Reinberg of the county board, held simultaneously with Dr. Evans' conference.

Canvass Private Hospitals.

At that meeting action was taken to learn what hospital facilities are available in private institutions in the city, with the purpose of listing available beds and using the Iroquois Memorial hospital as a clearing house for distribution of needless sufferers applying for treatment. Dr. Evans' gathering voted to cooperate with all authorities for furthering the work.

The meeting in President Reinberg's office included Coroner Peter M. Hoffman, County Judge Thomas F. Scully, President James A. Clark of the Chicago Medical society, Dr. A. Szwajkart, county physician; Supt. John L. Whitman of the bridewell; Clayton F. Smith, warden of the county hospital, Detective Sergt. Arthur Wild of Assistant Chief Schuettler's staff, Supt. of Public Service Harry A. Reader, and Dr. E. T. Olson of the city civil service commission.

Dope Prices Soar.

Detective Sergt. Wild reported that distributers of drugs to addicts had informed the victims the price for about 25 cents' worth of the drug would increase from $4 yesterday to $6 today. By Sunday, he said, the price to the addicts would reach $8.

He stated that "Omaha," a distributer of the drug, who was found guilty and fined $200 and costs by Municipal Judge Friedville, informed him many drug victims were coming to Chicago since the new Harrison law went into effect.

35,000 Users in Chicago.

That there are at least 35,000 drug addicts in Chicago was the estimate of Dr. Evans, concurred in by Dr. J. A. Robison, president of the state board of health, at the Hotel Sherman meeting. This estimate is based on findings in Jacksonville, Fla., where 1.5 per cent of the population was found using drugs. Lest it be thought that conditions would be better in Chicago on account of the lower percentage of colored people, Dr. Evans asserted that in Jacksonville the ratio of drug addicts was found to be two and a half whites to one colored, except in the use of cocaine, where the same figures did not hold. Thus he drew the conclusion that his figures for Chicago are likely to be under rather than over estimated.

Internal Revenue Collector Smietanka and Assistant District Attorney Dickinson made it clear that as long as physicians issue prescriptions for drugs and keep a proper record there is nothing to prevent them from relieving suffering drug fiends in their discretion.

Dr. Robison told Dr. Evans' meeting that he had been instructed by Gov. Dunne to deliver to it a message stating that the state stands ready to cooperate to the best of its ability in meeting the situation.

Can Quit Abruptly.

Dr. Zeler said he believed that 95 per cent of drug addicts can simply drop the habit without serious harm. This view met vigorous opposition from Dr. Thomas A. Hogan, former county jail physician, and Dr. J. L. Miller, head of the medical staff of the Cook county hospital. Both physicians stated that the only dependable way to cure the habit is by a treatment that requires housing the patients for a considerable time. Dr. Hogan said the majority of drug victims do not want to be cured. He predicted many robberies of drug stores.

Dr. Julius O. Cobb, surgeon in charge of the United States Marine hospital, said the Harrison act "is a fine law, although it has some loose joints."

More Victims Apply.

The various institutions in Chicago receiving drug victims reported thirteen new patients yesterday, making a total of seventy-nine under treatment.

Federal officers captured $400 worth of smoking opium and forty-one eight ounce bottles of morphine sulphate in a second raid on the house of Frank Demek, 1341 West Lake street.

Following confiscation of a quantity of morphine and a hypodermic needle in the massage and bath parlor at 421 South Wabash avenue, the police arrested Miss Elizabeth Caird, owner of the bath parlor; Edward King, a pressman; Mrs. Frances King, Fred Bromo, a salesman, and Miss Frances Vander on disorderly charges. Miss Vander accused Bromo of enticing her to the bath parlors by promising a job as housekeeper at $40 a week.

Appeal to Surgeon General.

Washington, D. C., March 11.—[Special.]—Surgeon General Blue today received from Gov. Dunne a telegram urging him to open the Marine hospitals at Chicago and Cairo for the care of drug fiends. The surgeon general will make his decision known tomorrow.

The government authorities are not fully convinced a real emergency exists. They believe that as soon as drug users learn they can continue their habits by consulting physicians they do so and take a regular course of treatment.

Fred Price, 1837 South Michigan avenue, papier mache manufacturer, user of opium twenty-five years, sent to jail at Wheaton by United States Commissioner Mason. Bail set at $5,000. Drug found in walnut shell.

John Davis, alias "Omaha," colored, fined $100 and three months in the bridewell by Judge Prindiville for selling cocaine before new law went into effect.

Six victims committed to Dunning by County Judge Scully.

Thirteen new cases admitted to various Chicago institutions.

Marie Franzen, 21 years old, said to have wealthy parents in St. Paul, accused of shoplifting, placed on probation by Judge Prindiville. Said she had lived at the home of a drug user, but had taken a drug only once. Theodore Parker, former landlord, arrested. Two loaded revolvers under his pillow at New Bedford hotel.

FIRST RETURNS ON MAYORAL STRAW VOTE

FIRST returns in THE TRIBUNE'S nonpartisan straw vote on the impending mayoralty election gave interesting results yesterday. With increased returns tomorrow, and from day to day during the progress of the test, the interest will be greatly enhanced.

A total of 700 votes was received. These gave Thompson a lead of seventy-two over Sweitzer, Thompson receiving 384 and Sweitzer 312. Four votes went to Seymour Stedman, Socialist condidate.

The votes were taken in all parts of the city among seven different occupational groups. One hundred votes were taken among the members of each group or vocation.

In two of the groups Sweitzer led Thompson. In the other five classes, including housewives, strong preference was indicated for the Republican candidate.

One north side woman, in casting her straw ballot, said she preferred Mr. Thompson for mayor "because he is such a strong, aggressive man, and because Mrs. Thompson would make such a fine 'first lady of the city.'"

Here's First Day's Result.

Total straw ballots cast.....700
Thompson 384
Sweitzer 312
Stedman 4

Here are the occupational groups and the way they voted:

Housewives.

Teamsters.
Sweitzer ..... 80 | Thompson 20

Policemen.
Thompson ..... 53 | Stedman 4
Sweitzer 42

Brewery Workers.
Sweitzer ..... 55 | Thompson 45

Elevator Conductors and Starters.
Thompson ..... 70 | Sweitzer 30

Salesmen in Stores.

Engineers in Buildings.

Chauffeurs for Sweitzer.

Among the teamsters ten of those who voted were chauffeurs and taxicab drivers in the loop district. Without exception all of these men said they preferred Sweitzer because "we want a liberal government and a wide open town." In this they agreed with other classes of drivers.

Most of the preferences expressed were based on the proposition of "liberalism" in city government. Many preferences were expressed purely on party lines, and some asserted the belief that Thompson "is more liberal in his views than Sweitzer."

One man, an engineer, said he is an "old time Republican" and would vote for Thompson and urge others to do so "to win Chicago back to the Republican column and serve notice to the country for the national election."

Both Candidates "Wet."

The 100 brewery workers who voted gave Sweitzer a lead of only ten votes. These men said that so far as the "wet" and "dry" question is concerned both candidates are considered as favoring the "wet" side of the issue and their choice of one or the other was dictated on lines of personal or political party preferment.

The Thompson sentiment among the women, the canvassers found, was based on the opinion that "Mr. Thompson will give Chicago a good, clean administration."

She Gives Her Reasons.

One woman on the northwest side slammed the door in the canvasser's face when she was asked to give a straw vote. Then immediately she reconsidered her hasty action, came out again, and called the canvasser back.

"Did you say you were taking a straw vote for THE TRIBUNE?" she asked.

"Yes, madam."

"O, that's different," said she, smiling. "I thought you were one of those 'nosey' ward heelers. Yes, I'll tell you. I will vote for Thompson, first because he is a Republican and so am I; second, because my husband will vote for Thompson; and, third, because I believe he will make the best mayor Chicago ever had."

Likes Sweitzer Family.

A woman on the southwest side who voted for Sweitzer in the straw vote said:

"Put me down for Bob Sweitzer. He has got a fine family and I know every woman in Chicago will be proud of his work as mayor."

Most of the policemen were cautious in expressing themselves regarding the reason for their choice of one or the other of the candidates. The four policemen who gave a straw for Stedman said they "never vote anything but the Socialist ticket."

GIRL'S DOG DEAD IN FIRE.

Peter, a valuable collie dog, was suffocated last night in a fire which did $1,000 damage to the residence of Wallace R. Conditt at 1136 Lake Shore drive, Evanston. Mr. Conditt is out of town and the maid was not in the house. Firemen saved a bulldog and two canary birds. The animals were pets of Catherine Conditt, who spends her time between her mother's home and her father's. Mr. and Mrs. Conditt were divorced about a year ago.

There was a pause yesterday in the counting of garments collected "bundle day," and the total so far was given out as 62,236. Charitable organizations have found a heavy demand for clothing for school children.

SENATE FAVORS NEW BASIC LAW

Plan to Submit Question of a Constitutional Convention to Vote Passed.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., March 11.—[Special.]—The senate today passed the Curtis joint resolution submitting to the vote of the people of Illinois the question of calling a constitutional convention. Party lines were obliterated and the roll call gave forty-two votes for the resolution and only five against.

The debate preceding the vote was marked by addresses by Republican and Democratic senators from Chicago and from downstate—wet and dry. The only speech in opposition was made by Senator John T. Denvir of Chicago, whose sole point was that George E. Cole is president of the Constitutional Convention League of Illinois, the organization which has made the fight for the submission of the question.

Resolution Goes to House.

For the resolution pleas were made by Senators Curtis of Kankakee, Ettelson of Cook, Piercy of Jefferson, Keller of Jackson, and Cleary of Jo Daviess.

The joint resolution now goes to the house for concurrence. It is set for consideration in committee of the whole for Tuesday morning and for final action in the house on Wednesday. The unanimity of sentiment today in the senate is taken as indicative of success in the house next week. If the house adopts the resolution by the necessary two-thirds vote the question of calling the convention will be up to the vote of the people at the next general election.

The point was raised in the senate today by Senator Piercy that the next "general" election will be the judicial elections in June, and that the question, if authorized by the legislature, might go to a vote then.

Three Explain Opposition.

Those voting against the resolution were Roos and Smith, Republicans, and Denvir, Haase, and Shaw, Democrats, Glackin, Democrat, and Harding, Republican, were absent.

Senator Denvir's objection has been indicated. Senator Smith of Sangamon said the resolution committed its supporters to the doctrine that a convention is necessary, which he was not prepared to admit. Senator Roos of the country towns district of Cook county said that the country towns feared the encroachments of Chicago.

It was particularly noted during the oratory that the senators from Cook county and from downstate looked forward to a constitutional convention which would be composed of the biggest and best men of the state, where there would be compromise as between the interests of the city and the country, and a forum in which the variously proposed constitutional amendments can be thrashed out with fairness to all concerned.

Full Woman Suffrage Proposed.

In the house today a joint resolution for a constitutional amendment granting full suffrage was introduced by Representative Brown of the Evanston district.

A joint resolution for a constitutional amendment for an amendment to the amending clause was introduced by Representative Walter E. Rinehart of Effingham. This is the resolution which will have the backing of the state administration, it is understood.

SENATE TRIES TO ORGANIZE UNDER TRIPARTY PLAN

STAGE ALL NIGHT SESSION.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., March 12, 1 a. m.—[Special.]—By a tripartite combination between Republicans, Democrats, and the lone Progressive, an effort is being made in an all night session to perfect a permanent organization of the senate.

With the aid of the gavel in the hands of Lieut. Gov. O'Hara the Democrats opposed to the proposed combination have fought it off for fourteen hours. The determined filibuster by the Democrats, who appear to be bad losers, has kept the senate in continuous session since 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

The Democrats ended the filibuster at 1:10 a. m. and the previous question was ordered in the Ettelson resolution. Lieut. Gov. O'Hara reserved rulings on all disputed points of order.

Heated Session in Progress.

Many times during the long session the feeling reached the danger mark. Because Lieut. Gov. O'Hara failed to hear any Republican who wanted to move the previous question and stop the acknowledged filibuster and dilatory tactics of the Democrats he was frequently attacked by the Republicans.

Impeachment of O'Hara was suggested at 12:20 o'clock by Senator Dailey in an impassioned speech. He accused O'Hara of being a party to a deal to hold up the business of the senate, charging him with official misconduct in refusing to rule on points of order and permitting dilatory motions.

At midnight Senator Campbell, Democrat, moved to adjourn until 5:30 a. m. and was defeated. Less than a half hour before the senate had refused to adjourn on a roll call after O'Hara had refused to rule on a point of order which would have brought the Ettelson resolution to a vote.

Cook County Democrats Rebel.

The terms of agreement were reached between the three parties to the proposed combination after it had become apparent that there is no prospect for a report from the elections committee as to the Oak Park and Englewood district contests for a long while.

The final Democratic break came last night, when the three Democrats who are joining with the other two parties tonight became assured that they could get no recognition within the Democratic caucus.

These three Democrats who made possible the actual majority of the senate which is trying to organize, are Broderick, Carroll, and Sullivan, all from Chicago. They are allied with the Sullivan wing, politically, and because the Democratic caucus is controlled by an anti-Sullivan majority lined up on the basis of last fall's senatorial fight, they now claim that there is not the slightest chance of a Democratic agreement on organization even under the ruling of Attorney General Lucey that twenty-five Democrats can organize, pending the completion of the two Chicago contests.

Purposes of Combination.

The purpose of the tri-partite combination is not concealed. Its purpose is to organize the senate, name the standing committees, cut down the number of committees from fifty-one to twenty-six, name a Republican chairman for each of them, adopt reform rules of procedure in which a constitutional majority of twenty-six shall control bills at all stages of the proceedings, both in or out of committee, and proceed with the senate business regardless of what the elections committee may do with the two seats in question.

As a last plea to the three deserting Democrats, the bait was hung out late last night that the solid Democratic strength would vote to seat the two Democrats regardless of the findings of the elections committee, but the three, angered by a speech made by Senator Cleary in which he had charged "bargain and sale" and had involved the wet and dry question directly, refused to change and continued to vote with the Republicans and the lone Progressive.

Both Sides Obdurate.

The Democratic position is insistence that the committee shall be equally divided, five Republicans and five Democrats, the Republicans to name their members and the Democrats to pick theirs. The dominant Democratic or anti-Sullivan organization wants to name the Democratic five.

The Republicans will accept no terms and in view of the vitriol that has been poured on tonight the three Democrats will concede nothing and are standing pat. Senators on both sides have not stirred from their seats during the protracted session. Lunches have been brought in to their desks and the determination of each element is absolutely unyielding, apparently.

Whenever they have had a chance to get in a word by way of a point of order or a question of privilege the Republicans have defied the Democrats to make a report on the election cases, charging by inference, and directly also, that the report is being delayed intentionally. The case of the canvassing board and the allegation of attempted steal of the two seats by that body have been tried at least six times during the filibuster.

"Billy" Sunday Wires He Can't Come Here Now

CAMPAIGN GOES ON

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

A cold water dash was given Chicago church people's hopes last night by a telegram received by THE TRIBUNE from Evangelist "Billy" Sunday. The telegram reads:

"Since coming east have accepted several calls, which now makes it impossible to consider Chicago for some time. Glad old Third Presbyterian church has swung into line. W. A. SUNDAY."

The Rev. James E. Walker chairman of the Sunday campaign committee, on hearing the telegram read to him, refused to be disconcerted.

Not Discouraged.

"The committee is going on with the work for which it was formed just the same," said he. "If the people of Chicago really want Mr. Sunday he will come. It's up to Chicago to show she is in earnest. The massmeeting planned for next week Friday night in the Third Presbyterian church will be a test of Chicago's enthusiasm."

Dr. Martin D. Hardin, pastor of the Third Presbyterian church, gave out the details of his experience in arriving at a favorable attitude towards the evangelist.

Believes Sunday Sincere.

"I read every one of Mr. Sunday's sermons," he said. "I wrote to all parts of the country for other men's opinions. I became convinced that Mr. Sunday was sincere. And then the climax came when the saloon advocates counted me as their friend.

"Now, if there is anything I hate with all my soul it is the saloon. When I was pastor of the Presbyterian church in Charlotte, N. C., I helped drive the saloons out of the place. It was at the time the largest city in the south which banished the saloon."

CALLED FOOL BY JUDGE; CHALLENGES HIM TO DEBATE

Secretary of Ward & Co. Says He'll Admit He's a Dunce if Judge Fisher Defeats Him.

"And the wise and Brave man on the bench called the man a Fool."

"I challenge you to a joint debate on any subject you may select and before judges you select. If the judges pick you as the winner I will take off my hat and say: 'Judge Fisher, I AM a fool.'"

Waverly Brown, secretary of Ward & Co., sent a letter to Judge Fisher of the Chicago avenue court yesterday. The first paragraph above opened the note and the second paragraph closed it. On March 9 Judge Fisher rebuked Brown, who had Jacob Goldman, a deputy state factory inspector, arraigned for forcing his way through the Ward plant. The charge was dismissed.

Other parts of the letter are:

"I demurred when you stated 'a factory inspector may force his way through an establishment without disclosing his identity.'

"You have one law governing a factory inspector using violence and another for the private citizen.

"No man, whether judge of the Chicago avenue police court or chief justice of the United States Supreme court, ever succeeded in calling me a fool while my mouth was gagged by silly court procedure or when it was not, and got away with it.

"You are a college graduate. I have no education."

"In my opinion it would be beneath a judge to enter into any controversy with any one over something that transpired in court," said Judge Fisher, commenting on the letter.

TURNS ON GAS AT HOME OF CHICAGO HOST; DIES.

Absent Minded "Grandpa" Baker of Summer Resort Renown Meets Death by Accident.

Ever been fishing down at Bass Lake, Ind.? Remember "Grandpa" Baker? Of course you do. Every Chicago summer resorter who has visited the lake in the last fifty years knew "Grandpa" Baker. He was always on hand with a warm smile on his sun tanned face to greet newcomers and old friends.

When James E. Murphy, captain of engine company No. 69, who lives at 3653 North Keeler avenue, went fishing at the lake last summer he invited "Grandpa" to visit him on his next trip to the city. The white haired old farmer arrived Wednesday evening. Early yesterday Mrs. Murphy smelled gas. She went to the room in which the old man slept and found him dead. He evidently had turned on the gas thinking he was turning an electric light off.

John Baker was 72 years old. He was an early settler at Bass Lake and knew all the old stories of the region.

FINE PLACE TO BE CRAZY.

Germany Puts Insane on Beautiful Grounds and Arranges Theater Trips.

"To be crazy in Germany is a pleasure," Dr. William J. Hickson of the Psycopathic laboratory told the Chicago Teachers league in the Stevens building yesterday. "The insane there are kept on beautiful grounds, taken to the theater occasionally, and are not reminded of their confinement. In America the insane asylums hold too much to the old traditional law that insane persons are beset with devils."

FISH NOT GUILTY, AGAIN VERDICT OF TRIAL JURY

THREE BALLOTS ARE TAKEN.

The twelve jurors agreed to vindicate the wealthy fire insurance adjuster after four hours of heated debate behind locked doors. The verdict was returned before Judge John M. O'Connor.

Fish probably never again will be called in court the "arson czar," for in the state's attorney's office it was not believed he would ever be tried on any of the other fifteen indictments against him.

Acquittal Brings Joy.

The scene of the first acquittal on Christmas eve was repeated as the jurors filed in and the court clerk read the verdict. But the little man whose spare hair grew grayer and whose wrinkles grew deeper as the weeks in the courtroom passed was not so overjoyed as he was on Christmas eve. He thanked the jurors and his lawyers with more composure.

In a minute Fish was gone. He was speeding in his limousine toward his home in Prairie avenue, where his wife, Mrs. Edna Bensinger Fish, and two little adopted daughters awaited his coming. Again there was a joyous celebration.

Mrs. Fish Expected It.

"I expected it. Thank God!" exclaimed Mrs. Fish when told of her husband's acquittal.

"Just say we are all very happy," said Mrs. Fish. "No one could expect anything else for Mr. Fish. He has lived fifty-nine years in Chicago, and those have been honorable years.

"Twenty-four men have held him blameless in two trials, as I knew they would. That is why everything is unusually cheerful in the house tonight."

Three Ballots Taken.

Three ballots were cast before the jury agreed. On the first count it was found seven of the jurors had voted for acquittal, one for conviction, and four had cast blank ballots. The second showed eleven for acquittal and one for conviction. A third and agreement was reached.

Surprise was expressed by State's Attorney Hoyne.

"I have always believed that the case against Fish was one of the strongest ever handled by my office," he said.

The second indictment charged complicity in the burning of the Morris Miller clothing store at 3633 South Halsted street on Jan. 1, 1911.

FOUR BURGLARIES IN HOUR KEEP POLICE ON JUMP.

Patrol, Ambulance, and Auto Supply Wagon Used to Round Up Lone Suspect.

Hugo Engel, who says he lives at 3047 North Spaulding avenue, is suspected of being the man who gave the police of the Shakespeare avenue station a busy half hour yesterday.

At 1:45 the police received a call from J. S. Floy of 3624 Wrightwood avenue, who said a burglar was trying to break into the house next door. The patrol wagon filled with policemen was sent out. Ten minutes later, while the patrol was still out, another call was received from 2721 North Springfield avenue. The ambulance filled with police was sent.

At 2:10 a third call came from 2614 North Monticello avenue. The auto supply wagon filled with policemen was sent out. In the meantime two patrolmen saw Engel fleeing and gave chase. They caught him and found a small savings bank in his possession. While they were walking their prisoner to the station a fourth call was received. A house at 2436 North Mozart street had been burglarized shortly after 1:30. Engel is believed to have committed all four.

FETZER AWARD SET ASIDE.

Judge Denis Sullivan Criticizes the Methods of Arbitrator in Western Indiana R. R. Dispute.

Judge Denis E. Sullivan yesterday set aside the award of $525,000 given to the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad against John C. Fetzer. The court severely criticized former Judge Elisha C. Field, who acted as arbitrator between the parties. He held that the action of Mr. Field in making the award without permitting attorneys for Mr. Fetzer an opportunity to see certain documents delivered to him by the attorneys for the railroad "amounted to a fraud in law." The court holds jurisdiction of the case in his decree to determine what, if any, amount may be due from Fetzer.

ENDS HIS LIFE ON A TRAIN.

Christian F. Baxmeyer Shoots Self as Pullman Carries Him Into Chicago.

Christian F. Baxmeyer, secretary of and sales manager for the Story Manufacturing company of Portland, Ore., shot himself yesterday while in the vestibule of a Pullman on a Chicago, Burlington and Quincy train near Riverside. He died in a few minutes.

FORMER BANK DIRECTOR.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 11.—[Special.]—Christian Fred Baxmeyer was formerly a well known business man here. He was identified with real estate interests and was a bank director. Three years ago Mr. Baxmeyer went to Portland, Ore. Domestic troubles and poor health are the reasons advanced for his act.

FOREIGNERS BUY WHEAT FUTURES

OATS EXPORTS HEAVY.

Indications were numerous yesterday that European and American cash wheat handlers were buying future deliveries because of their inability to supply their requirements of spot wheat. The market was dampened down by rather free selling at the outset and again at the close, but advanced rapidly in the interim.

This advance was in response to buying, which was directed mainly to the May delivery. This in turn affected the deferred months and gave them considerable speculative support. Much of the selling late in the day was of a similar sort, but new crop months were at all times less responsive either to buying or selling than was the nearer delivery.

Milling Trade Is Dull.

Depressing influences early were lower Liverpool prices, dull flour trade, and bearish sentiment incident to the spring-like weather. One of the leading mills at Kansas City shut down at noon. It was the last one in operation there. Visiting millers both from northwest and in the Ohio valley declared the flour trade dull.

Estimates compiled by Broomhall, the leading English statistician, showing that combined United States and Canadian exportable supplies to harvest were only 4,000,000 bu weekly, and that Argentina and India would be called on for 6,000,000 bu, attracted little attention at first, but considerably stirred the trade later when the figures were analyzed. The increasing strength of spot wheat also helped the market. No export sales were made from the Chicago market for the reason that there was no wheat available. The total reported in all positions for export was only 400,000 bu.

Initial Wheat Crop Complaints.

There were a few complaints of unfavorable crop outlook in parts of Indiana, Illinois, southeastern Missouri, and western Kansas. Heretofore most of the reports of the new crop had been favorable. Primary receipts were light at 508,000 bu. Shipments from the same points yesterday were 408,000 bu. Export clearances totaled 723,000 bu, including 44,000 bu Canadian. Argentine shipments are expected to total 3,600,000 bu this week, against 1,776,000 bu a year ago, when the crop was a partial failure.

Minneapolis stocks decreased 820,000 bu in five days, as compared with an increase of 400,000 bu the corresponding period last year. Country sales are light in all directions and cash handlers are counting on a light run for some time to come unless prices are materially advanced.

Corn Market Was Oversold.

An oversold condition developed in corn and was primarily the cause of a successful speculative movement for higher prices. The advance called out fresh selling and brought about quite a reaction from top prices. The market started off weak and lower early and the selling on the decline was a little too reckless. Receipts were light, prospects were for a continuance of the light run, and there was some buying by cash houses, who apparently were acting on speculative orders.

There was little shipping business done from here; in fact, Baltimore exporters resold as much unshipped corn here as the local shippers sold to the distributing trade. Primary market receipts dwindled down to 343,000 bu, while shipments from the same point were 532,000 bu.

Primary receipts a year ago were 856,000 bu. Estimated cars were 120. Export clearances 99,000 bu. Argentine shipments are expected to total 2,550,000 bu this week, against 493,000 bu a year ago. Although corn prices covered a range of 1⅝@1½c the net change at the last included an advance of ¼c for May and ⅛c scant for July.

French Government Buys Oats.

An active export demand for cash oats, which presumably came from the French government, stimulated a great deal of speculative buying of futures. As in the other grains, many of the speculators who followed the early buying were selling on the advance. The market was at no time as weak relatively as the other grains, although prices dipped at the outset. The buying of about 1,000,000 bu of May oats by the J. Rosenbaum Grain company, which followed smaller buying by Knight-McDougal and by a number of local traders, gave the trade the first inkling of the export demand.

Country sales were light and receivers predicted a light run for some time. Primary arrivals were 613,000 bu, as against 668,000 bu a year ago. Primary shipments yesterday were 1,316,000 bu. Estimated cars here 165. Export clearances 125,000 bu. Net gains for the day were ⅜@⅝c for May and ⅜@½c for July.

Provision Investment Popular.

Fairly constant buying in small lots by scattered outside investors and speculators finally made provision shorts uneasy and forced them to cover at higher prices. The market started out lower with grains and because of a 5c to 10c decline in hogs at the yards. The selling of about 2,000 tierces of lard at the outset by Logan-Bryan and of considerable ribs by Gregson and Hately helped the weakness along.

Shorts and a few of the packers were best buyers on the first break. Tietgens took in a line of pork and Schwarz bought later. Hog receipts west were 110,000 yesterday, against 70,700 a year ago and 88,600 two years ago. Pork lost 10c to 12½c, lard 2½c to 7½c, and ribs 7½c to 10c net for the day.

Rye Dull and Steady.

Barley was steady to 1c higher, with malting 74@85c; feed, 72c, and screenings, 68@73c. Receipts, 33 cars.

Timothy seed was dull at $4.25@6.50 for cash. Cloverseed was steady at $10.00@14.00 for cash.

Duluth flax closed 4@4¼c higher, with cash on track $1.90½; May, $1.91½; July, $1.93¼, and September, $1.92. Receipts, 6 cars. Minneapolis closed 4c higher at $1.87½@1.91 for cash on track. Receipts, 13 cars. Winnipeg was 4⅝@5⅛c higher, with May $1.71⅞; July $1.74⅝, and September, $1.76. Receipts, 10 cars.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF BOARD OF TRADE.

Sales of 1,000,000 bushels of cash oats were made yesterday by the J. Rosenbaum Grain company to exporters who presumably were buying for the French government. The firm had a half dozen buyers in the sample market picking up all of the oats of all grades that were obtainable. The French government was bidding yesterday for oats in store at Boston, Port Huron, Minneapolis, and a number of other points, but the owners there did not consider the bids attractive. Cash handlers continue to report that the country is selling no oats and consigning few. They are expecting light receipts until after the corn planting season, unless there is a decided change in prices.

Vice President John Washburn of the Washburn-Crosby company at Minneapolis, who was on the floor yesterday, was reporting a dull trade in flour in his section. He estimated that about two-thirds of the milling capacity of the northwest was in operation. The flour output of the spring wheat belt was much short of that of last week and of the corresponding week the year before.

Shipping sales of cash grain from Chicago yesterday were 100,000 bushels corn and 1,150,000 bushels oats. Of the latter all but 50,000 bushels were for export. Seaboard sales were reported 400,000 bushels wheat, 75,000 bushels corn, and 1,000,000 bushels oats.

President Wheeler of the Association of Commerce will adddress the Board of Trade club at the dinner which it will hold Tuesday night in the Traffic club rooms at the Hotel La Salle. The diners will also be entertained by a half dozen vaudeville artists.

Beatty of New York wired that since March 2 there has been a decline of 5 shillings per ton in ocean freights from Rosario. This enables Argentina to offer grain more attractively than the United States.

Toledo mills, which have been running steadily since harvest, are at the end of their list of orders. Some curtailments of production expected next week unless new business develops.

Offers of new crop Indian wheat are light because of the uncertainty of shippers as the affects the new government regulations will have on values.

Duluth exporters claimed a big demand there for No. 1 northern wheat, but that they had none for sale.

Corn picking has begun in northern Argentina and shipping of the new crop is expected to begin early.

CITE LOW RATES ON GRAIN.

C. E. Perkins, freight traffic manager of the Missouri Pacific-Iron Mountain system, and F. P. Eyman, assistant freight traffic manager of the Northwestern, were the principal witnesses for the western railroads yesterday in their hearings before the interstate commerce commission for advanced freight rates. The railroads will complete their evidence on the grain and grain products increases today and will take up the advance on packing house products tomorrow.

"As evidence of the low grain rate," Mr. Perkins said, "the Texas rate per gross ton mile on corn is .69, while on agricultural implements it is .83 of a cent. On canned goods it is .72 of a cent, on structural iron it is .92 of a cent, and on wire nails it is .73 of a cent."

MAXWELL MOTOR SHARES ACTIVE

YEAR IS GOING WELL.

The stocks of the Maxwell Motor company are attracting a great deal of speculative attention. Since the beginning of the year the first preferred stock has advanced from around 41½ to a close yesterday at 74½. The second preferred stock, which sold early in the year at 17, closed yesterday at 30⅝, and the common stock within the same period has advanced from 14½ to a close yesterday at 31⅝. The outstanding share issues are as follows:

First pfd. cumulative 7 per cent....	$12,279,383
Common stock	12,778,057

The basis of the current rise in the company's shares may be attributed to earnings. The net profits for the company's fiscal year ended July 31, 1914, were $4,505,467. This is equal to 12.26 per cent on the first preferred issue. But it is within the present fiscal year, which will end July 31, 1915, that the profits have shown a handsome increase. For the current fiscal year the earnings are estimated at $3,438,000, or about 28 per cent on the first preferred issue.

No Dividends Paid.

The company as yet has paid no dividends. The first preferred is 7 per cent cumulative, beginning with Jan. 1, 1913. On Aug. 1, 1915, therefore, there will be due on the preferred issue 17½ per cent. The second preferred is noncumulative and before it receives anything the full amount due on the first preferred must be paid. Beginning Aug. 1 of this year there must also be set aside as a sinking fund to retire the first preferred 1 per cent of the amount of that issue.

Taking the estimated earnings for the fiscal year to end July 31, 1915, it works out, with a continuance of the present business, that the company will earn not only the 17½ per cent due on the first preferred but also the full 6 per cent on the second preferred, and something over 4 per cent on the common share issue. The figures follow:

	Net profits
Year to end July 31, 1915..........	$3,438,212
First pfd. accumulated dividends, 17½ per cent..........	2,148,883
Sinking fund first pfd., 1 per cent....	122,793
Surplus	$1,165,536
Second pfd. dividend, 6 per cent.......	607,644
Balance	$557,892

Being equal to 4.3 per cent on the common stock.

Should the company decide to pay only the back dividends on the preferred stock and carry the remainder to surplus, it would have with the previous year's surplus added a total surplus fund of $2,660,-985, or 21.75 per cent on the outstanding first preferred.

Erie Railroad Notes.

The $10,000,000 one year, 5 per cent notes of the Erie railroad company, which are being underwritten by a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co., will be offered for subscription at 99 and interest. It is expected that holders of the old notes maturing April 1 will be given the privilege of turning in the notes at par plus interest to maturity in exchange for the new ones insofar as they are available.

The new notes are secured by bonds of a par value of $19,920,000, and stock of a par value of $6,190,000. The notes are callable at 100½ and interest at the option of the company on sixty days' notice.

Slump in Equipment Business.

Gross earnings of eight leading railway equipment companies during 1914 were half those of 1913, and net earnings were only a quarter as large as compared with last year's figures. The net earnings after expenses and charges of the eight companies in 1913 were equal to 9.3 per cent on the aggregate $190,000,000 share capital. Equipment orders fell off nearly $100,000,000, leaving a divisible surplus of only 2½ per cent.

N.Y. STOCKS FIRM IN UNDERTONE

Auto and Semi-Active Shares Make One to Six Point Gains.

PRICES IN STEEL RISE.

New York, March 11.—The reactionary tendencies of the previous session were lacking in today's stock market, prices showing a firm undertone on a moderate output of dealings.

The success of the New York state bond sale—which may be followed by a municipal offering of no inconsiderable amount—additional gold imports from Japan, with prospects of further drafts upon Britain's gold stores in Canada, were factors of sentimental value.

Other developments which contributed to the better tone of the market included more record-breaking exports and additional price advances in certain finished steel products. Some encouragement also was derived from latest advices respecting European and Mexican conditions.

Rail Financing in Sight.

The sale by the Erie railroad company of $10,000,000 one year 5 per cent notes, which really constitutes an enlarged extension of a note issue expiring April 1 next, gave rise to reports of more railway and industrial financing. Prospects of additional acceptances for the establishment of foreign credits also were taken into account.

Exchange markets took on a more variable tone, sterling on London being easier, while greater firmness was shown in remittances to the continent. This contrary condition was attributed to sales of the new Swiss government notes and the new German war notes, for both of which an increased demand was manifested.

Gains in Auto Shares.

More than the usual amount of today's business in stocks was devoted to the automobile shares, which closed the day with gains of 1 to 6 points. Rumors of cash or stock dividends or some other form of "melon" accompanied their advance, but the trading was confined largely to specialists in those issues, outside interests being negligible.

Other semi-active stocks made 1 to 2 point gains, the chief exceptions being Woolworth, United Railways preferred, American Sugar preferred, and Southern Railway preferred. Eries were strongest of the railway division. Total sales of stocks amounted to 172,000 shares.

Bonds were mainly irregular, the only feature being the weakness of New York Central debenture 6s. Total sales (par value) aggregated $1,887,000. Panama registered 4s declined ⅜ per cent on call.

Hogs at Chicago yesterday sold mostly 5@10 lower than on Wednesday, but they found a prompt clearance at the prices and the market closed strong. Early estimates on receipts were posted at 38,000 head. This caused the weak opening, and the market made some recovery when a more complete summing up of the supply showed not more than 30,000 fresh hogs received. Top sales were made at $6.77½, a price not available at the start. The bulk of the day's business was transacted within a range of $6.65 @6.75.

Cattle values held at the previous day's decline. Receipts were only 6,000 head, but the demand was indifferent and the trade slow and weak. Best steers offered sold at $8.25, with the bulk at $7.00@ 8.15. Calf receipts of 1,500 head met with a good demand at steady prices, with prime vealers at $9.75.

Live muttons had an uneven market. Aged sheep were scare and steady, while yearlings sold 10c lower and best lambs declined 10@15c. Heavy lambs were almost unsalable. Receipts of 11,000 head cleared slowly, with best lambs at $10.00 and yearlings at $7.75 for clippers and $8.75 for heavy woolskins.
